Lawsuit pondered to speed action on retention basin

by LYNN ASINOF

A "friendly legal suit" may develop between the Wheeling Park District and the village concerning delays in improving the Heritage Park West retention basin.

Park Comr. Lorraine Lark said the district has been saddled with an eyesore for three years because the Metropolitan Sanitary District does not want to spend money to improve the basin.

She has suggested that the district take a strong position in fighting for improvements to the basin. One such step might be filing a law suit against the village to get action, Mrs. Lark said.

PARK BOARD member Gene Sackett said yesterday he also thinks the suit might help the district as long as it is done "on a friendly basis. Let's not get carried away, but if that's the only way we can get something done, why not?"

When plans for the retention basin were first approved several years ago, the park district promoted the project so the basin could be used for recreation. The 20-acre lake, however, has never been suitable for recreation because of its size and depth. In fact, it is often described as a mudhole.

Park and village officials have been discussing improvements to the basin for about two years. No action, however, has been taken because the village wants the MSD to finance part of the project.

VILLAGE MGR. George Passolt said he has been meeting with the MSD to discuss proposed improvements, but said there are several questions that must be answered before the MSD can take any action. The manager said he is hopeful that work will begin on the basin during 1974.

Mrs. Lark, however, said the MSD is trying to stall the proposed improvements. "The sanitary district is trying to 'snooker' the Wheeling Park District and the Village of Wheeling," she said.

Mrs. Lark also contends that the MSD does not want to approve plans until after the first of the year so that the project will not be included in the 1974 budget.

Passolt, however, does not think there is any need for a friendly lawsuit. "I don't really think it's come to that stage yet," he said. He also rejected a park district proposal to begin a letter writing campaign to the MSD.

"I SUPPOSE what they are saying is, we should needle a little more," he said, but added that the village and park district must be patient if they want funding from the MSD. "I'm not too happy to wait, but when you're standing there with your hand out, you're going to have to wait."

According to Passolt, work on improvements to the basin will cost a minimum of $100,000. He said the village could only afford to bypass the MSD if they could find someone to cover a substantial portion of the cost. "I don't think we're going to find anyone who is that philanthropic," he said.

Mrs. Lark said there was a need for better communications between the park district and the village on the project. She said that while the village is interested mainly in flood control, the park district is interested in recreation. "We're at fault because we are not down there with you selling the recreation viewpoint," she told Passolt.

PASSOLT SAID the park district will be involved in discussion of the project "when they (MSD) are ready to talk turkey." He said until that time there is little reason for the district to participate in the meetings.

Plans for improving a second park flood control program are progressing. The village is planning to revamp the retention basin in Husky Park so the bottom of the basin will be dry and usable for recreation. In addition, the village plans to landscape the basin and make it more attractive.

Specifications for this project are expected to be ready for bid by the first of the year.

Park district conserves light, heat

Lighting and heat have been cut substantially in most Wheeling Park District buildings in an effort to conserve electrical power during the current energy crisis.

Park Supt. Dave Phillips said the district has not yet experienced any problems as a result of the energy crisis this winter. He added, however, during the summer months the district did have trouble obtaining natural gas to heat the outdoor pool.

Although the district has only two vehicles and gets its gas from the village, Phillips has restricted most driving. He said fewer trips are being made, and all pick-ups and deliveries are being made with full loads.

IN ADDITION, thermostats at Heritage Park and Chamber of Commerce Park buildings have been turned down to 65 degrees. Temperatures have also been reduced at the Neptune's Den recreation center. The only park facility now operating with warm temperatures is the indoor Neptune's Pool since Phillips maintains any temperature cuts there could cause health problems.

Likewise, lighting in all park buildings has been cut. In the Neptune's Pool building and the Heritage Park recreation building, every other light has been turned out. Hall lights at the pool have been reduced to the night level, resulting in a 75 per cent cut.

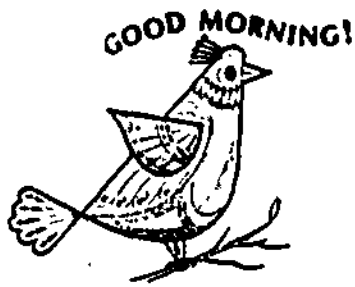

Park officials are planning to close the indoor pool from 7-9 p.m. on Friday nights to conserve the use of electricity. Phillips said this is generally a slow period for public swim attendance.

considering building a makeshift wind block at the entrance to the Heritage Park building. For several years, the park district has had problems with heating because of the wind blowing in the entrance. The district is planning to build a vestibule at the entrance with referendum funds, but the project is not expected to be underway for some time.

Phillips said he is keeping in touch with Village Mgr. George Passolt because the park district gets its gas from the village. So far, the village has not had any problem in getting gas.

Park district conserves light, heat

Lighting and heat have been cut substantially in most Wheeling Park District buildings in an effort to conserve electrical power during the current energy crisis.

Park Supt. Dave Phillips said the district has not yet experienced any problems as a result of the energy crisis this winter. He added, however, during the summer months the district did have trouble obtaining natural gas to heat the outdoor pool.

sidering building a makeshift wind block at the entrance to the Heritage Park building. For several years, the park district has had problems with heating because of the wind blowing in the entrance. The district is planning to build a vestibule at the entrance with referendum funds, but the project is not expected to be underway for some time.

Phillips said he is keeping in touch with Village Mgr. George Passolt because the park district gets its gas from the village. So far, the village has not had any problem in getting gasoline supplies.

Neptune's Den popularity amazing

The popularity of Neptune's Den, the Wheeling Park District's new recreation center, has surprised even park district officials.

Recreation Director Rich Haddock reports that about 400 students use the center during school days, with an additional 30 persons using it during the evenings. He said because Neptune's Den is so popular, the park district can soon expect to need new game equipment.

"It's going to wear out fast, and we're going to have to repair it," Haddock said. He also said the district should also consider buying more equipment so people using the center don't have to wait in line to use it.

Because of the popularity of the center, Haddock has recommended that Neptune's Den be open from 3:45 to 5 p.m. weekdays to handle students during the Wheeling High School activity period. The center is located in the high school complex.

THE DEN ALSO will be closed on Wednesday nights and opened on Friday nights to attract more people. One special day per week will be set aside for girls, so they don't have to compete with the boys to use the equipment.

Although Haddock suggested charging some type of admission fee to help finance the center, park board members want to keep it open to the public free of charge. The park board said the center may be expensive to operate, but added the district would have to work the extra cost into its budget.

A survey of 94 high school students using Neptune's Den showed most were in favor of the recreation center. Many said, however, they would like to see the Den open throughout the school day and have more game equipment available for use.

Albert Sifrer, project engineer for the Illinois Division of Highways, said officials were making soil tests to determine whether the ground is dry enough to continue paving.

"I couldn't venture a guess as to whether work will continue," Sifrer said. "If the ground is dry enough, they may be able to continue, but if there is a high moisture content, they may have to call it quits for the season."

With winter closing in, Sifrer said it is unlikely workers will do much more paving before spring. Cement cannot be poured at times of rain, snow or freezing temperatures, he said.

The project consists of widening 16,000 feet of Dundee Road to four lanes between Elmhurst Road and Ill. Rte. 83, through Wheeling, Arlington Heights and Buffalo Grove. Workmen began paving west from Elmhurst Road and have in-

Haddock said the only major failing of the recreation center is that few adults have been using the facility. As such, Neptune's Den is not yet operating as a family recreation facility. Park board members said they hoped more adults would take advantage of the center.

Road work fate uncertain

Work on Dundee Road remained at a standstill yesterday and state officials would not say whether paving would be called off until spring.

Albert Sifrer, project engineer for the Illinois Division of Highways, said officials were making soil tests to determine whether the ground is dry enough to continue paving.

"I couldn't venture a guess as to whether work will continue," Sifrer said. "If the ground is dry enough, they may be able to continue, but if there is a high moisture content, they may have to call it quits for the season."

With winter closing in, Sifrer said it is unlikely workers will do much more paving before spring. Cement cannot be poured at times of rain, snow or freezing temperatures, he said.

The project consists of widening 16,000 feet of Dundee Road to four lanes between Elmhurst Road and Ill. Rte. 83, through Wheeling, Arlington Heights and Buffalo Grove. Workmen began paving west from Elmhurst Road and have installed two lanes to about 300 feet west of Buffalo Grove Road.

NUMEROUS DELAYS have occurred on the project because of what the state calls weather problems and a cement shortage. Some of the delays, however, are because Greco Contractors, the firm doing the work, has other commitments, Sifrer said.

This year Greco was involved with work on Golf Road in Schaumburg, as well as with several other road projects. Greco does not have the manpower or equipment, Sifrer said, to keep up with all the projects, especially since recent weather and cement problems have set back construction.

The road has been under construction since September, 1972. Under the state contract, about 100 working days remain before Greco will be penalized. This could give the firm through next year to complete construction. Working days are defined as those where weather and other factors will permit construction to continue.

The 2nd District includes about three-fourths of Palatine represented by Republicans Leo LaFleur of Bloomingdale and John Friedland of South Elgin, and Democrat Richard A. Mugallan of Palatine.

Carey is assistant superintendent for state governmental relations in the office of state Superintendent of Public Instruction Michael Bakalis. Before joining Bakalis, he spent four years as staff assistant to the Democratic leadership in the House.

Crash victims identified

Two persons who died in a weekend Des Plaines car-train crash were identified as Lawrence Fronczak, 37, of Bensenville, part owner of the Illinois Switchboard Corp. in Addison, and Christine Omasta, 22, of Villa Park, a secretary at the firm. Fronczak's 1974 Cadillac crashed through the River Road railroad gates about 11:10 a.m. Sunday and was struck broadside by a westbound Chicago and North Western freight that carried the car about one-third of a mile. Fronczak and Mrs. Omasta were returning home after a party in Des Plaines.

Aurora-DeKalb tollway opening vowed for June

Illinois Tollway officials are promising now that the Aurora to DeKalb portion of the new East-West Tollway extension will be open by June, 1974.

Richard Blakley, executive administrator of the Illinois State Toll Highway Authority, said work is 63 per cent complete on the section, and it will be open by June if weather permits and building supplies do not fall short.

Blakley said several proposed opening dates may have misled the public in the past. Once the work was under way, the extension had an August, 1973 deadline. Efforts were made to open the 22.7-mile section by mid-December, but heavy rainfalls forced delays, Blakley said.

The Tollway Authority has been plagued by poor soil conditions west of DeKalb that have greatly hindered construction progress.

From Herald news services

The government took a big step Monday toward returning the nation to a control-free economy, as the Cost of Living Council and automobile industry worked out a deal freeing the automakers from wage and price controls.

In return for the dropping of controls, the automakers promised they would keep car costs — especially for the increasingly popular gas-saving compacts — from skyrocketing.

The agreement involved the CLC and General Motors, Ford and American Motors, with Chrysler not participating, but also allowed the benefits of decontrol. Chrysler was expected to stay in line.

Under the agreement, the car manufacturers can't increase prices more than 150, barring "unforeseen major economic events," and after that increase can't boost prices again during the 1974 model year.

In effect, the CLC was accepting the three-year contracts worked out between the auto companies and the United Auto Workers union — an 8 per cent increase that was higher than the 6.2 per cent the CLC said was allowable for wage and fringe benefit increases.

CLC Director John Dunlop said the agreement was aimed at getting stability in auto industry wages and prices during 1974, particularly in light of the mushrooming demand for smaller cars during the gas shortage.

The decontrol, in line with a promise from President Nixon to return to a control-free economy, follows similar action in lesser industries — such as lumber and cement — to let prices rise and encourage more production.

The auto industry was considered a major case because it touches so many aspects of the American economy.

If stability comes as Dunlop predicts, it will affect a major portion of the economy. GM, Ford, Chrysler and American Motors did about $60 billion dollars in total corporate sales in 1972 and about 3 million people — 3.5 per cent of the labor force — make, sell and service cars.

The auto industry uses about 20 per cent of the nation's steel, 10 per cent of its aluminum, 55 per cent of its lead, 35 per cent of zinc and 65 per cent of synthetic rubber in making 9.2 million passenger cars and 2.8 million trucks and buses.

If the council had not acted Monday, American Motors would have been able to increase prices by $114 a car on Tuesday. Ford could have increased prices by $188 a car and Chrysler would have had a $136 increase Wednesday. GM was waiting for a $208 increase later in the week.

The CLC also said Monday it would hold public hearings Dec. 19-20 to determine if a price raise announced by the steel industry violated the government's anti-inflation program. Twenty-seven firms announced a boost of 5.3 per cent on a wide range of products effective Jan. 1, which — if allowed — would boost steel prices by about $1 billion over the next year.

In other economic developments Monday:

- President Nixon, trying to make government securities more attractive to investors, raised the interest on U.S. Savings Bonds from 5.5 to 6 per cent.

- The Federal Committee on Interest and Dividends asked seven large banks — including Continental Illinois of Chicago — to justify their increase in the prime rate to 10 per cent.

A new Watergate break-in theory links Nixon brothers with Hughes

From Herald news services

Senate investigators believe the Watergate break-in was an effort to determine what information the Democrats had linking President Nixon's two brothers with billionaire Howard Hughes.

Transcripts filed in Washington's U.S. District Court Monday advanced the theory that the break-in was related to a number of additional matters involving Hughes — including allegations that his associates wanted the federal government to stop nuclear testing in Nevada.

The transcripts, verbatim accounts of secret testimony given the Senate Watergate Committee by several Hughes aides, contrast sharply with the theory that the June 17, 1972, break-in was funded by Nixon re-election officials to learn about Democratic campaign strategy.

The transcripts were part of a suit to block further executive session interviews with 16 Hughes associates who have been subpoenaed by the committee.

The court papers also show that Hughes was tied to a "national security" matter which led Nixon to order his brother Donald Nixon's telephones to be tapped. Committee lawyers, in one brief, said Donald Nixon "was the subject of electronic surveillance" because of his relationship to Hughes associates and a trip he made with former Hughes associate John Meier to the Dominican Republic in 1969.

Elsewhere in the transcripts, committee lawyers questioned Hughes associates about Donald Nixon's helping Hughes set up mining rights in the Dominican Republic.

Terry Lenzner, a committee investigator, is quoted in the transcript as saying Hughes "received special benefits... special decisions by the administration on a variety of matters" including the President's approval of the sale of Air West airlines to Hughes; the dropping of a Justice Department suit that blocked expansion of the Hughes gambling empire in Nevada; and "the attempt by Hughes Tool Co. to stop AEC testing in Nevada."

In other Watergate-related developments:

- U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica turned over to the special prosecutor Monday two tape recordings involving meetings at which John W. Dean said

Judge Sirica

President Nixon discussed the Watergate incident.

Sirica handed a single reel of tape containing copies of two recorded meetings to prosecutor Leon Jaworski at a brief meeting in his chambers. White House lawyer J. Fred Buzhardt attended the meeting.

The conversations between Nixon and his former legal counsel were the first received by Watergate prosecutors since Archibald Cox, who later was fired by Nixon, subpoenaed them nearly five months ago.

- The Senate Watergate Committee has decided to subpoena White House records pertaining to 1972 campaign contributions by the dairy industry to President Nixon.

A committee source said the White House had advised that some records would be turned over promptly but that executive privilege might be invoked on others. There have been some suggestions that the donations were related to a March, 1971, decision by Nixon raising the federal support level for raw milk and cutting imports of dairy products.

Cancer link in asbestos cement pipe?

From Herald news services

A research group Monday asked the government to ban use of asbestos cement pipe in drinking water systems because it may cause cancer.

The Center for Science in the Public Interest said a study conducted by a major asbestos manufacturer, the Johns-Mansville Corp., showed that water passing through such pipe washes asbestos fibers from the cement and carries them into the tap water. There is "ample reason to believe that ingestion of the major varieties of asbestos leads to increased risk" of cancer of the stomach and digestive tract, the center said.

A Johns-Mansville spokesman said that despite many tests "no one has ever determined any problems" with asbestos cement pipe. A spokesman for the Asbestos Cement Pipe Producers Assn. stated, "There is absolutely, unequivocally, no evidence at all linking the use of asbestos cement pipe to any health hazard."

The center has asked the Environmental Protection Agency to ban manufacture of asbestos cement pipe for use in portable water supply.

Energy bill flow continues

From Herald news service

Congress moved ahead on the energy front Monday:

- Voting against "gas-guzzling monsters," the Senate passed a sweeping energy conservation bill that would require auto makers to give more miles to the gallon by 1978.

- House-Senate conferees agreed on a compromise bill by which most of the nation would return to Daylight Saving Time, probably by Jan. 6.

The Senate energy bill, the first comprehensive effort by Congress to control America's growing appetite for energy, would put into effect a government-wide program to curtail energy use in both the public and private segments. It passed 75 to 15.

A key provision would require car manufacturers to boost automobile gas mileage to at least 20 miles per gallon by 1984 and order the Transportation Department to begin enforcing unspecified minimum mileage standards by 1978. It also calls for development by the Transportation Department of an energy-efficient, low-polluting automobile within four years.

Under the House-Senate bill, Daylight time would remain in effect until October, 1975. Both houses were to try to pass the bill this week.

In other energy-related developments:

- Chairman Milton Pikarsky of the Chicago Transit Authority appealed to motorists Monday to start riding CTA commuter trains and buses to ease the energy crisis and cut down the CTA's anticipated $58 million deficit for 1974. He said the CTA could accommodate 15 per cent more riders during rush hours and 200 to 300 per cent more riders during other periods.

- Sen. Adlai Stevenson, touring a Chicago plastics plant, said the Nixon administration has put the United States "at the mercy of the major oil companies." He said that millions of persons in the petrochemical and related industries may lose their jobs unless the administration takes action to help them.

- More than 400 trucks blocked Interstate 580 near Tracy, Calif., for about an hour yesterday, backing up Bay Area bound traffic for five miles. Meanwhile, acting on truckers' complaints of fuel price gouging, the Internal Revenue Service reported Monday that agents found more than one-fourth of the truck stops they checked were selling at prices above the government ceiling.

- President Nixon's new energy chief, William E. Simon, said Monday the energy shortage will not lead to a recession because the American people — rather than industry — will bear the brunt of the fuel shortages.

Nixon's income tax file may face complete audit

From Herald news services

Vice Chairman Russell B. Long, D-La., said Monday his Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation will probably conduct a complete audit on President Nixon's income tax returns.

Long said the committee will go beyond the two areas Nixon suggested it investigate and added the inquiry will probably take a month.

Nixon has asked the committee to judge whether he was correct in claiming deductions for the gift of his vice presidential papers and the nonpayment of a capital gains tax on land adjoining his San Clemente, Calif., home.

The President has said he will abide by the committee's judgment. If it rules against him, he would be subject to payments, including interest, of nearly $300,000.

The California Franchise Tax Board will meet today in Sacramento to discuss whether Nixon is liable for state income taxes which he has not paid.

The White House announced yesterday it hopes to get other important presidential documents to Congress before adjournment, tentatively scheduled for Dec. 21. Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said the documents would cover campaign donations from the milk industry, the settlement of the ITT anti-trust case and the activities of the White House plumbers squad.

But Dayan, in Washington, indicated Israel would be willing to make some compromise on that big issue.

Egypt and Israel traded new charges Monday of atrocities during their October war, and Israel reported scattered fighting on the northern front with Syria, but no incidents involving Egypt.

Israel: POW list an issue

From Herald News Services

Another possible hitch in the upcoming Middle East peace talks arose Monday, when Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan declared his government wouldn't talk peace with Syria until Damascus hands over a list of Israeli prisoners of war.

Dayan's comments came in the Israeli parliament shortly after he returned from the United States. He said the first item on the agenda with the Syrians must be the POW exchange, though that issue wouldn't stop Israel from going to the Dec. 18 talks in Geneva. Syria's foreign minister said in Tokyo that he was "not too optimistic" about prospects for an Arab-Israeli settlement, because of Israel's occupation of Arab land.

Two township party hopefuls fail to file petitions

by BOB LAHEY

Two hopeful challengers to party leaders in their suburban townships were absent from the list of candidates who filed nominating petitions for the March 19 primary elections with the Cook County clerk yesterday.

Missing were the names of Kent Kirkwood of Mount Prospect, who hopes to unseat Democratic Township Committeeman William B. Rose in Elk Grove Township, and Anton Valukas of Palatine, challenger to Republican Township Committeeman Bernard E. Pedersen in Palatine Township.

Three contests for the Democratic committeemen's jobs were officially begun in other townships as challengers and incumbents filed their petitions on the first day that filing is allowed.

Regner won't seek treasurer post

State Sen. David J. Regner, R-Mount Prospect, said yesterday he has decided not to enter an election contest against State Treasurer Alan J. Dixon.

Regner was one of several candidates suggested for the contest by Republican State Chairman Don Adams, and he said he had been urged by many "prominent Republicans" to enter the race.

He said, however, that he felt an obligation to finish his four-year term in the Senate, to which he was elected last year after three terms in the House of Representatives.

the contest against Rose before the filing deadline next Monday. Kirkwood said he had encountered "more difficulty than I had hoped" in obtaining the 647 signatures required to place his name on the ballot.

State Sen. David J. Regner

Valukas could not be reached for comment.

Among Democrats, contests are in store for the committeemen's jobs in Wheeling, Palatine and Schaumburg townships.

Wheeling Township Committeeman Donald L. Norman and challenger Nathaniel P. Leighton, both of Arlington Heights, both filed their petitions yesterday. In Schaumburg Township, the contest is between incumbent Committeeman John F. Morrissey and former committeeman William W. Holmes Jr. Palatine Township Committeeman Richard A. Mugallian is being challenged again by Peter J. Gerling, whom Mugallian defeated in 1970 for the post.

TOWNSHIP committeemen are the only officials elected in the primary election, in which the nominees of the two parties are selected for other offices. The committeeman's job is non-salaried.

Three Republicans and one Democrat, in addition to Rose and Pedersen, remain without opposition for reelection as committeemen in Northwest suburban townships.

The only Democrat against whom no challenge has been attempted is Nicholas Blase of Niles in Maine Township. His Republican counterpart, County Commissioner Floyd Fulle of Des Plaines, is also without opposition.

Running unopposed for reelection are Republicans Carl R. Hansen of Elk Grove Township and Donald L. Totten of Schaumburg Township.

No petitions have yet been filed by Republicans in Wheeling Township, where insurance agent Fred Yonkers of Arlington Heights is expected to run without opposition to succeed incumbent Richard A. Cowen, who is retiring from the post.

Car-train crash kills man, woman

A man and a woman were killed when their auto was struck by a Chicago and North Western Ry. freight train at River Road near Rand Road. The impact pushed the car nearly one-half mile to Grace-land Street.

Both victims were trapped inside the wrecked auto. Des Plaines firefighters were able to free one victim in 15 minutes but needed more than an hour to remove the driver, Lawrence Fronczak, 37, of 641 York Rd., Bensenville, and formerly of Prospect Heights. He was pronounced dead on arrival at Holy Family Hospital.

His passenger, Christine Omasta, 22, of 452 Division in Villa Park, died in Holy Family of multiple fractures at 3:20 a.m. Monday, a few hours after the accident.

Fronczak was an executive with Illinois Switchboard Corp., 135 Fay, in Addison and Mrs. Omasta worked as his secretary.

THE COLLISION occurred at about 11:10 p.m. Sunday while the two were driving southbound on River Road. Fronczak drove through the lowered crossing gates according to reports.

The engineer of the westbound freight told police he saw the auto nearing the crossing but said it failed to slow down, crashed through the gates and was struck broadside by the train.

Des Plaines police Patrolman Mike Banner, on patrol at the time reported watching the train, travelling at 40 mph, carry the auto several hundred feet.

According to reports, firefighters had to use chains to pull the auto's twisted wreckage from the front of the train.

Police said the two victims had been at a party earlier that evening.

A DES PLAINES police investigator looks over the wrecked 1974 Cadillac that was struck by a Chicago and North Western Ry. train late Sunday night. Two people died in the crash after the driver apparently crashed through a crossing gate at River Road and Rand Road and was hit broadside by the train.

Police seeking identity of crash victim's rapist

A witness driving a late-model luxury car with black vinyl top and maroon body is being sought by Buffalo Grove police in connection with Saturday's rape of a Schaumburg woman.

The witness's car possibly a Pontiac or a Ford, was one of two that stopped early Saturday on Dundee Road, near Saxton Place in Buffalo Grove, after the Schaumburg woman had run her car off the road.

Police hope the driver of the maroon car will help them get a better description of the rape suspect. The rapist, believed to have been driving a Volkswag-on, offered to take the woman, who was bleeding from head injuries, to Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines for treatment. On the way to the hospital, the woman told police, he raped her.

The 36-year-old woman staggered into the hospital at about 3:30 a.m. Saturday, stating the man had attacked her and dropped her off a block from the hospital. She was admitted to the hospital, but released the next day.

Buffalo Grove Police Chief Harry Walsh said yesterday the woman was bleeding so much that she did not get a good look at her attacker. However, Sgt. Arthur Voigt said the man apparently was "pudgy, partially balding, of medium height, and had a double chin."

THE ACCIDENT was reported to police at 2:25 a.m. but in the time it took police to get to the scene, the injured woman had already left in the assailant's car. Because of the amount of blood left at the scene, Voigt called Wheeling and Des Plaines police to intercept the car so the woman could be given first aid by an ambulance crew. The other agencies, however, were unable to locate the car.

Walsh said Cook County Sheriff's Police also are involved in the investigation of the incident. On Sunday, both departments had denied any involvement. "The police are not confused," Walsh said, referring to a news story. "We (the sheriff's department and Buffalo Grove police) were working together on this."

Anyone with information about the incident is urged to call the Buffalo Grove police at 537-4260.

Crash victim's condition 'fair'

A Northbrook man remained in fair condition yesterday at Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines, after a Saturday evening automobile accident in Wheeling.

Ronald J. Ferraro, 27, was admitted to the hospital after his car struck another auto operated by Kenneth E. Nicoline, 33, of Lincolnshire, at 6:33 p.m. on Wolf Road, near Strong Street. Police have charged Ferraro with failure to yield the right of way, reckless driving and failure to wear glasses as required by his driver's license.

Margorie and Deborah Nicoline were treated at the hospital for minor injuries and released. Ferraro is to appear Jan. 8 in Arlington Heights branch of Cook County Circuit Court.

Towels left on sauna cause $1,000 damage

Wheeling firemen said fire damage was restricted to the sauna itself, which is in the basement.

Chicagoan arrested

A 24-year-old Chicago man was arrested Saturday by Buffalo Grove police after he allegedly had hired six children to sell candy door-to-door in the village.

Dwight E. Mancos was charged with unlawful employment at 12:40 p.m. Saturday and is to appear Jan. 22 in Arlington Heights branch of Cook County Circuit Court.

Exchange program meeting Wednesday

A meeting for parents, who have sons or daughters interested in participating in the German language foreign exchange program next summer will be held at 7 p.m. on Wednesday in Room 219 at Adlai Stevenson High School.

The four-week education tour to Germany includes three weeks of study at a German school near Munich and one week of travel throughout the area. American students will be living with a German family and should have some knowledge of the language. The tour is limited to 15 students and cost will be between $500 and $600, according to Margaret Daluge, Stevenson High School German instructor.

For those parents who cannot attend the meeting Wednesday, more information may be obtained by calling the high school at 634-3434.

MSD noncommittal on reservoir plan

by JOE FRANZ

While Buffalo Grove officials hope a 100-acre reservoir along Buffalo Creek will be completed by mid-1975, the Metropolitan Sanitary District will not make any commitments.

Both these groups and the Lake County Forest Preserve District are involved in the project that is expected to alleviate the flooding of homes along the creek.

Roy Carlson, principal civil engineer for the MSD, said yesterday his district's legal department is still reviewing the proposed contract between the three agencies.

Carlson could not predict when the agreement might be executed or when construction of the reservoir will begin. Under the reservoir proposal the forest preserve district would acquire the needed land, the MSD would construct it and Buffalo Grove would maintain it.

VILLAGE MGR. Daniel Larson said yesterday he expects to get a copy of the agreement within the next week and is hopeful it will be signed sometime in January. The village will not act on the proposal, he said, until the MSD and forest preserve district sign the contract.

If the three agencies reach agreement by January, Larson said the reservoir could probably be completed by May, 1975. He said it probably would take about a year to acquire land and another four months to construct the reservoir.

Jerrold Soesbe, director of the forest preserve district, said yesterday the agreement was reviewed several months ago by officials there and sent back to the MSD. "We're ready to move. All we're waiting for is the go-ahead from the MSD," he said.

The forest preserve district suggested several minor changes in the agreement, Soesbe said, but nothing that is expected to create problems. He said he does not know when the district will hear from the MSD.

ONCE THE AGREEMENT is signed, Soesbe said, the forest preserve district will begin to acquire the needed land. He predicts this will take from two months to two years. The length of time will depend on the amount of opposition from land owners, he said, adding that it will take longer if condemnation becomes necessary.

Under the proposed agreement the MSD will assume the major cost of the $2.1 retention facility. About $1,800,000 will be needed for land and $300,000 for the dam and reservoir.

When the agreement is signed, the forest preserve district will apply for a federal grant that will reimburse the MSD for half the land acquisition cost. However, if the grant is not approved, MSD officials have indicated the sanitary district will pay the entire cost.

WHEN COMPLETED, the 260-million-gallon reservoir, which will be at the southwest corner of Arlington Heights and Checker roads, will provide major flood relief for downstream Buffalo Grove and Wheeling residents. During a severe storm, water will be held in the reservoir until the danger of flooding has passed. The water will then be released slowly from the reservoir.

Officials have said the area surrounding the reservoir will probably be inundated 5 per cent of the time. After a severe storm, it will be drained making the area suitable for recreation. Although exact facilities have not been decided upon, the area might be suitable for fishing, picnicking and other sports activities.

The reservoir has been in the planning stages for more than a year. Officials originally hoped it would be completed by mid-1974.

Next on the agenda

ARLINGTON JUNIORS

"Feasting with Falicia," gourmet appetizers for the holidays, will be the program presented today by Falicia Slavik for Arlington Heights Junior Woman's Club. The meeting will be held in Southminster Church, Central Road at Dryden, Arlington Heights.

Juniors will be bringing mittens for the Christmas Mitten Tree which will go to the children of the local Headstart program. The mitten project is sponsored by the American Heritage Committee which recently designed and made 28 learning aid books for Headstart.

PI BETA PHI

Those who don't like their gifts may exchange them for something already opened at the annual Christmas party of Arlington Alumnae Club of Pi Beta Phi. The party will be held at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Schaumburg home of Mrs. Raymond Vogt, 915 Bradford Lane.

Pi Phi's wishing further information about the group may call Mrs. Ralph Wenk, 332-4732.

ALPHA XI DELTA

Both homemade and gifts from bazaars will be exchanged Wednesday evening when Chicago Northwest Suburban Alumnae of Alpha Xi Delta meet in the Buffalo Grove home of Mrs. Byron Johnson, 243 Downing Road.

The gift exchange will follow the meeting. Co-hostess will be Mrs. Robert Madson of Arlington Heights.

HOLY SPIRIT CHURCHWOMEN

The Women's Guild of the Lutheran Church of the Holy Spirit, Elk Grove Village, will meet at 8 p.m. Wednesday. Guest speakers will be two Lutheran deaconesses from Milwaukee speaking on their work.

There will be a cookie exchange and guests, including teen age girls, are invited. The meeting will be held in the church, 666 Elk Grove Blvd.

ALPHA OMICRON PI

The exchange of secret pal gifts and a mitten tree will be highlights of the Alpha Omicron Pi meeting Wednesday evening at 8. The meeting will be held in the Park Ridge home of Mrs. John Nicholas, 706 N. Ottawa, and the mittens will be donated to needy children in an Indian school in the western states.

AOPI's will also be finalizing plans for their Collegiate Brunch to be held Friday Dec. 28, in the home of Mrs. Laurence Frerk, 1523 N. Douglas, Arlington Heights. All AOPI collegiates in the northwest suburban area and their mothers are invited. Those wishing further information may contact Mrs. Frerk at 392-1636.

Hostess will be the club's presidents, Mrs. Marvin Scheuermann, 3 Old Hickory, Rolling Meadows.

SOCRATES RAND QUESTERS

Thursday's meeting for Socrates Rand Questers will be a "Taste and Tell" luncheon, each member sharing her favorite recipe. Following luncheon will be an antique auction for which each member is donating an antique.

The holiday luncheon will be held at the home of Mrs. Anthony Portiers, 422 Cambridge, and will begin at 11:30 a.m. with punch and hors d'oeuvres.

CLIPPED WINGS

A Christmas luncheon for Clipped Wings, O'Hare Chapter of United Air Lines Stewardess Alumnae will be held Thursday at The Barn of Barrington. Instead of a gift exchange a collection will be taken for a Christmas fund for the needy.

Guests are invited to the luncheon which begins with cocktails at 11:30. Volunteers will host a Christmas party Friday morning for children and adults at Countryside Center for the Handicapped in Palatine. Tom Morgan, husband of a club member, will appear as Santa with surprises for all. There will also be music and caroling with club member, Judith Wisman at the piano.

Proceeds from the sale of Christmas cards and calendars go to Countryside while proceeds from the group's fall bake sale will help prepare for the 1976 convention. Cards and calendars may be ordered by calling 438-8855.

Smorgasbord helps Indians

Lucia Dagen, the Swedish Christmas, begins Thursday and a group of area women will observe the day at a combination Indian party and Swedish smorgasbord with the traditional glogg.

The annual party originated nearly 20 years ago with a sewing club of six members who wrapped gifts and food for the Indian Center in Chicago. Over the years the group has grown to several dozen and includes representatives of the Arlington Heights Woman's Club.

Guests still bring canned goods and other gifts which are delivered to the Indian Center by Carol Jacobson, Indian Affairs chairman of the Arlington Heights Woman's Club.

PUPPETS OF ALL descriptions were recently donated to the pediatrics ward of Northwest Community Hospital by Harper Faculty Wives Club.

The Wives created the 35 puppets at a recent workshop where 5-year-old Laurie Bessemer gave her approval to the colorful menagerie.

Pastors sing at wedding

An alto version of "The Lord's Prayer" was sung by Pastor David Quill of St. Mark Church, Mount Prospect, and Pastor Cyril Hurmyak of St. Peter and Paul Lutheran Church in Riverside sang "The Wedding Song" and "Ave Maria" in Latin at the wedding of Donna Louise Mueller and Thomas John Arend.

Donna, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clement J. Mueller, 306 N. Pine St., Mount Prospect, and Tom, son of Nicholas Arend, 1475 Winslow Drive, Palatine, and the late Mrs. Arend, were married in St. Mark Church, Nov. 17 in a 4 p.m. double ring service.

The bride wore her sister's wedding gown of white satin with lace inset at the Empire waistline and with lace appliques on the skirt and at the hemline. The train was also inset with lace and her elbow-length veil was attached to a headpiece of matching lace trimmed with seed pearls. Donna wore her grandmother's pearls and carried a cascade of pink roses, miniature carnations, Starburst mums and stephanotis with baby's breath and ivy.

LINDA FROST, Mount Prospect, was her sister's matron of honor and she and the bridesmaids, Sheryl Anderson, Arlington Heights; Edith Poirot, Lake Forest; and Jane Marie Koenig, sister of the groom from Arlington Heights, wore floor-length red velvet gowns with bibs of white lace. They carried nosegays of Starburst mums, pale pink carnations, baby's breath and ivy.

Best man was Michael Smyrniotis, River Grove, and ushers were William Berndt, Wheaton; Robert Maurer, Melrose Park; and Mark Mueller, brother of the bride, Mount Prospect.

A reception for 160 guests was held at the Navarone, Elk Grove Village, after which the newlyweds left on a five-day honeymoon in Las Vegas. They are now making their home in Des Plaines.

Donna is a graduate of Prospect High School and the University of Illinois. She is employed by McKinsey & Co., Inc., Chicago. The groom, a graduate of St. George High in Evanston, is with Illinois Bell Telephone Co., Northbrook.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Arend

A demonstration on self-defense

A demonstration on "Self-Defense for Women" will be given Thursday evening in Frontier Park, Palatine and Kennicott Roads, Arlington Heights. The demonstration is open to the public and begins at 8.

Detective Joan Melker of the Women's Detective Squad of the Arlington Heights Police Department and two male policemen will use members of the audience to demonstrate various situations in which a woman can protect herself.

The program is sponsored by Northwest Suburban Section of the National Council of Jewish Women with Mrs. Joan Greenberg, Arlington Heights, as chairman.

This ornament making recipe is 'child's play'

Dear Dorothy: With Christmas vacation zooming up on us, planning things for the children is highly important. Do you have any recipe, for instance, for making ornaments that could be put on the tree — something they could do? — Roberta Monroe

There is one using baking soda that's an old-time favorite. Put two cups baking soda and one cup cornstarch into a saucepan, blending well with a fork. Add one and one-fourth cups cold water, mixing until smooth. Boil for one minute over medium heat until the mixture looks like moist mashed potatoes. Spoon onto a plate and cover with a damp cloth until cool. Roll out on waxed paper and cut out any desired figure with a cookie cutter (Christmas tree, star, animal or any other shape), pressing in a loop of wire or paper clip — so it's ready for hanging. They will dry overnight or can be put in a turned off 350-degree oven until hard. The ornaments can be painted after they're dry with either tempera or water colors. After the paint has dried, the ornaments can be coated with clear shellac, clear plastic or clear nail polish.

Dear Dorothy: Is it true that if you soak a colored garment in an Epsom salts solution, it will help to make the colors colorfast? —Mrs. Charles Horrell

A dyeing chemist says that, while this kind of soaking might improve a few colors, it was not a positive action — that most colors would not be helped by such a solution.

Dear Dorothy: How do you remove a squeak that occurs with each step on a pair of vinyl patent heels? —Loretta Ah-Tye

With women's shoes, it is either the shank or the heel that is loose and any good shoe repairman can tighten up the part.

Florida climate may be better for arthritis sufferer

We are considering moving to St. Petersburg, Fla., and would appreciate any advice you can give on the benefits, if any, for anyone suffering from arthritis. Is the climate more beneficial than, for instance, New York climate?

I have an elderly mother who is worried about the dampness and feels it would be detrimental to her arthritic condition, which is not really the crippling kind. She does have pain in her neck and spine. She has lived all of her life in New York City and is hesitant to take up living in Florida because of the dampness.

I personally feel, having tried both climates, that Florida would be better for her. Any advice you can give would be appreciated.

When you have lived all of your life in one place, you always hesitate to pull up stakes and move to any new location. Friends, relatives and lifelong associations become more important as a person grows older.

As far as climate and arthritis are concerned, I suspect it has been over exaggerated. The most important aspect of managing arthritis is good medical supervision, and there are many fine doctors and medical facilities in St. Petersburg. I know a lot of doctors in that area and consider medical practice there to be topnotch.

The doctor says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

From a climate point of view, I am convinced that older people do better in milder climates. Battling the elements gets harder and harder as the years pass by.

Where you live is very much a personal thing. There are many factors involved. I think the climate in St. Petersburg is great and do not think it should pose any real medical problems for you that you wouldn't have elsewhere.

Does diabetes usually strike after or when a person has a shock or illness? Also, I have a blood sugar test every four months which never shows any sugar. Do you think I still have it? Or, is it only under control? I am only on a diet for diabetes.

The diabetes is usually there originally, and after a severe illness or shock it gets severe enough to be noticed or diagnosed. In other instances, the problem in handling sugar just gradually gets worse until it fits the classification of diabetes. Your blood tests do show sugar (glucose), but I presume that the amount is within the normal range. Or, at least they are normal enough that your doctor is unconcerned about it.

A person who really has diabetes is not cured of it. Rather, the problem is controlled. That means the blood sugar isn't too high, and the person is doing fine. Many persons with diabetes are well controlled by diet alone. This is particularly true if the diabetes is not too severe and the patient is faithful about following the diet plan the doctor has given him.

Win at bridge

by Oswald and James Jacoby

Red suits pose a question

If you can keep your eyes off the East and West hands you can decide on the proper way to play today's hand.

You start by winning the first trick with dummy's ace of spades and are faced with the moment of decision at trick two. You are going to lead a red card and take a finesse, but which suit should that red card belong to?

When the hand was played, South led a trump. The finesse worked. Then he went back to dummy with the ace of clubs and took a second trump finesse. That worked also, but West showed out and since there was no way to get back to dummy for any more finesses, declarer had to lose one trick in each of the four suits.

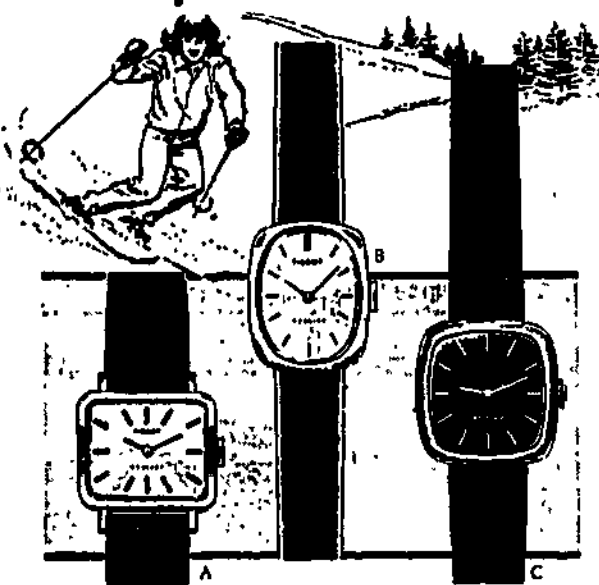

He had misplayed the hand, but strangely enough no one has been able to convince him of that fact. He says, "I have been taught to play trumps. Was it my fault that they broke 4-1?"

It wasn't his fault that trumps broke 4-1, but he still should have gone after diamonds. He had only two entries to dummy, but he only needed two diamond finesses. Once they worked he could play ace and another trump and make 15 contract.

The 'spell' of St. Lucia

Columbus' first discovery a true paradise

by CLARE WRIGHT

ST. LUCIA — The seductive spell of this second largest Windward Island embraced us like velvety tradewinds as we stepped off our Eastern Airlines jet at remote Hewanorra International Airport, near Vieux Fort on the southern coast.

Earlier, as our plane nosed down for landing on the lush, leaf-shaped Isle wallowing in palm trees and bright blooms, I had pressed my nose against the cabin window for a good look at the Caribbean's most photographed mountains — the Pitons, twin conical peaks, half a mile high, jutting dramatically upward out of the sea.

"Chris Columbus, you old dog," I thought — "if you DID discover this slice of paradise — as some history books say — how could you ever leave it!"

That thought skimmed in and out of my mind often the next few days as I walked on soft golden beaches and drove through lush forests of this tranquil spot, breathed the sensual flower-perfumed air, saw orchids growing like weeds and fruit trees so varied I couldn't keep count.

HOW COULD anyone, I thought, come here and not harbor a longing to stay forever?

Actually, exact facts of who first discovered St. Lucia (pronounced Loo-sha) are hazy. Some credit Columbus (June 15, 1502). Others say a bunch of English sailors founded the first settlement on the 238-square mile island. Another claims that shipwrecked French sailors landed and christened it St. Lucy, Dec. 13, 1502.

Travel

Evidently the latter must have made a strong impression because the 100,000 St. Lucians who occupy the mountainous island feast and frolic every year on that day, which has been dubbed Discovery Day.

St. Lucia, lying midway between nearby French-ruled Martinique to the north and smaller British-ruled St. Vincent to the south, has had a bloodthirsty history which belies the serene atmosphere we found so magnetizing on our recent visit.

THE CARIBS, pre-Columbian natives, were in possession of St. Lucia until the mid-17th century. History tells how they murdered the whole lot of English who tried to establish a colony in 1630.

The French tried to take over in 1642.

They didn't have much luck either.

Then for nearly a century and a half, the French and English fought over the scenic little island, and it switched flags 14 times.

Finally the British won in 1814 — at least officially. Noting the profound Gallic influence (place, names and cuisine; we were inclined to think maybe the French had conquered after all.

After landing on the southern edge of the island, we were transported in an ancient double-decker English bus, the short distance to Halcyon Days Hotel for lunch. The resort offers beach and aqua-sports, tennis, horseback riding, skeet shooting, archery, and a wonderful relaxed atmosphere.

Anxious to see all we could of St. Lucia in a short space of time, we boarded the 60-foot charter boat, M. V. Sailfish, to cruise to the pretty little picture postcard town to Soufriere, at the base of those two famous pointed Pitons.

We were expected. Several dozen grinning little brown-skinned boys chattering excitedly in a mixture of English and French-English patois swarmed out on the dock as our launch pulled in.

From here we drove inland to visit the sulphur baths bubbling near what St. Lucians call "the world's only drive-in live volcano."

SOME SAY Louis XVI popularized the water in the boiling cauldrons and had it channeled for himself and his troops, claiming it was beneficial for rheumatism, arthritis and respiratory diseases.

It was pitch dark when, smelling of sulphur, we boarded the M.V. Sailfish again to cruise through the clear Caribbean waters to Castries, capital city of St. Lucia. Happily, the fresh sea winds blew away the pungent sulphur fumes.

Two hills loom behind Castries — La Morne Fortune and La Vigie. Bright and early the next morning we drove to the peak of La Morne Fortune to examine the French fortifications about which lurk a thousand memories of the 150-year struggle between France and England.

Cows and small boys have pretty much claimed the ruined fort, but we could still sense some of the majesty of ancient glory as we stood there in the warm breeze. Even if there had been no history to contemplate from this hilltop, the view alone is worth the climb. Down below lay beautiful Castries Harbor and the azure bay sparkling in the Caribbean sunshine.

St. Lucia now has 1,200 guests rooms in hotels and guest houses.

WE STAYED at La Toc Hotel, a five-minute drive from Castries.

A Cunard-Trafalgar resort hotel, the La Toc has 164 very modern rooms adjacent to a beautiful beach, swimming pool, tennis courts and private golf course.

La Toc also offers one and two-bedroom cottages for light housekeeping. During the winter season (Dec. 15 - April 14) a luxurious double room with breakfast and dinner included starts at $70 for a couple at La Toc Hotel. The same room is $45 for two occupants (with dinner and breakfast) from April 15 - Dec. 14.

Cottages with no meals included, range from $65 in the winter season to $35 during the off-season.

Cunard-Trafalgar is offering some interesting air-sea packages, we learned, which feature a seven-day cruise on the Cunard Adventurer, a one-week stay at the La Toc Hotel, and air transportation from O'Hare to the ship at San Juan. Prices start at $599 for the complete package, including air fare and ground transfers.

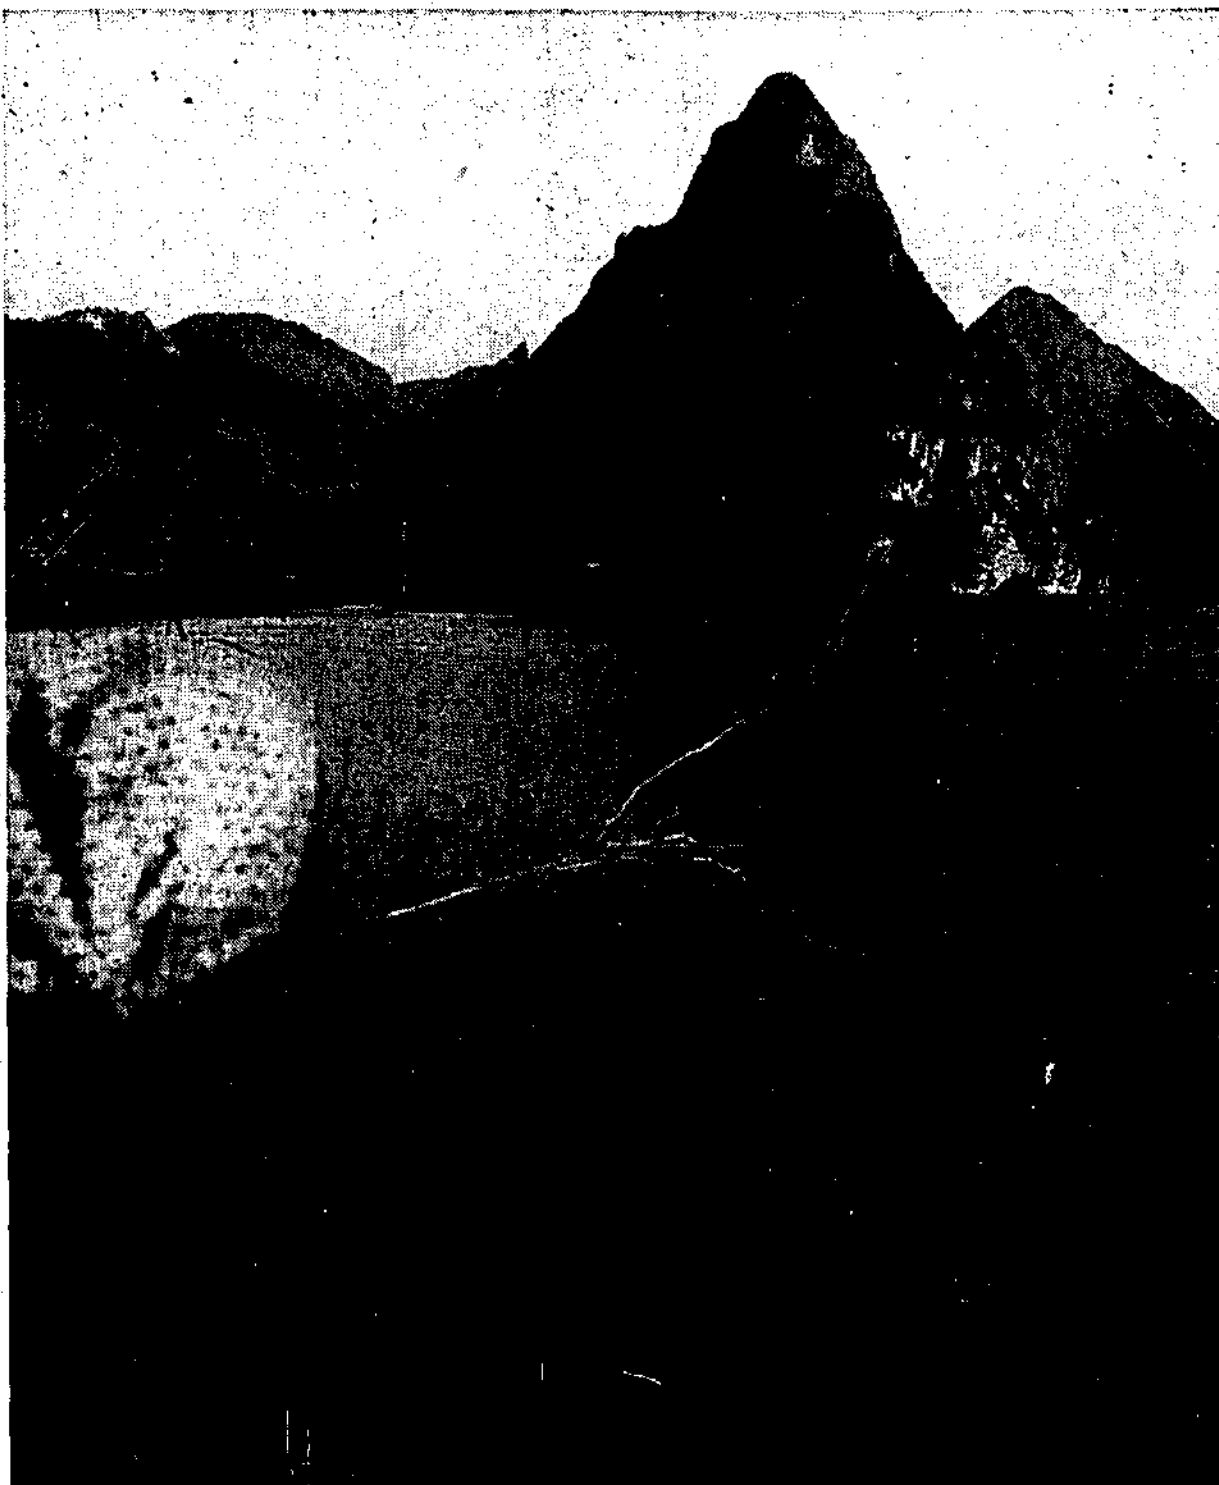

A brand new St. Lucia hotel is the 104-room Caribbe located on a 2,000 acre beachfront site at Anse du Cap on the northern end of St. Lucia.

Double rooms, with breakfast and dinner for two, begin at $72 during the winter season, and drop to $45 for two from April 16 to Dec. 14.

EASTERN AIRLINES, which recently bought the island-hopping airline, Caribair, and put nine more vacation islands on Eastern's flight map for a total of 13 Caribbean destinations, can now fly you to St. Lucia and secure hotel space on the island at the same time your air reservations are confirmed.

The airline is also touting its new personalized vacation plan which enables travelers to choose a Caribbean holiday tailored to their individual needs.

Northwest suburban travel agents have all the details — plus some provocative free brochures on St. Lucia, one of the last truly unspoiled Caribbean islands, where they never heard of air pollution — suburban pressures — expressway traffic — or Watergate.

THE PITONS, ONE OF the Caribbean's most interesting scenic splendor of St. Lucia, an island with a rich history backdrops, rise steeply from the sea and add to the which some say dates back to Columbus in 1502.

Travel lore

by Clare Wright
TRAVEL EDITOR

ST. LUCIA — Every time I waded through icy slush or pelted headlong into a bitter cold blizzard this winter, I'll think of Marguerite and Dick Egerer. They escaped. Yep — they said goodbye to Midwestern ice and snow, shucked off the bounds of routine and ran away to a tropical island hideaway.

Not just for a few days, mind you — or a few weeks. But forever, maybe.

How? I couldn't wait to find out.

"I'M MARGUERITE and I'm from Milwaukee."

That's how she greeted us at the doorway of the bamboo-thatched, open-air dining pavilion of their East Winds Inn on remote, beautiful La Brelotte Bay.

An ample, motherly lady with a wonderful smile and unmistakable Midwestern twang, she looked like she ought to be stirring up a batch of brownies in a Wisconsin farm kitchen.

But here she was cooking some of this island's finest West Indian cuisine in a place even St. Lucians told us was their most "authentic" hostelry.

THE BARBECUED chicken (Marguerite's own "concoction," she said) was being prepared just outside the door — along with other island delicacies sizzling in gigantic iron pots. Did it ever smell wonderful!

With these mouth-watering aromas tantalizing us, Marguerite led us to a large rustic table where we could look out on the moonlit beach and hear the velvety sound of waves softly splashing the sands.

Idyllic? That it was.

But I kept wanting to know how a routine-bound Midwestern couple managed to quit the hustle and hassle and make the kind of "escape" we all have fantasies about now and then.

To hear Marguerite Egerer tell her story, it was "easy."

WHENEVER THINGS became too frenzied in their Wisconsin decorating business she and Dick would head for the Caribbean for a few weeks of sailing and beachcombing. St. Lucia was their favorite island.

While I sipped my second bowl of her savory pumpkin soup, Marguerite told me how one day they "discovered" a very special beach on secluded La Brelotte Bay.

"We kept coming back to it — again and again. Finally we decided we had to make it ours!"

They did. So there they were — proprietors of one of the lushest parcels of land and prettiest beaches on the whole island.

Then they sold their business back home and their house — everything — lock, stock and barrel, and migrated to St. Lucia.

THE TWO OF them built East Winds themselves — five duplex cottages (each one a double), and the spacious rustic thatched-roof beachfront dining area.

Each hexagonal-shaped cottage is spacious and airy, with a large living room, bedroom, kitchenette and tiled bath with step-down tub and shower. Every cottage has its own secluded patio and is far enough away from the others to insure complete privacy.

THE EGERERS WILL tell you there's no need to bring anything more than a swim suit to spend a week at East Winds Inn.

You can prepare all your own meals in your own kitchenette — or choose MAP plan accommodations with two meals a day in the dining kiosk.

The latter would be our choice. Who would want to miss sampling Marguerite's fantastic West Indian cooking?

Castries and Vieille Airport are a scant five miles from East Winds. Yet when I pulled off my sandals and walked barefoot on the Egerers' exquisite beach, civilization and all its problems seemed a million miles removed.

Never in my whole life has the fantasy of running off to be a beachcomber felt so inviting as it did that moment I nudged my toes through the powdery white sand and listened to the sounds of silence on that remote beach.

AS WE WERE reluctantly leaving that night, our hostess pointed out a tall, sandy-haired man seated at the bar.

"That's Joe. We talked him into coming down here too."

Joe smiled and nodded a slow, lachrymose greeting. Another midwestern "escapee?" He seemed to be.

But the day we returned home there was Joe at the airport, all decked out in business blue and wearing a grim, gloomy look.

I guess he hadn't quite made it. THIS time.

Student traveler says:

'You're never lonely on a train...'

by ART THOMAS

Train passengers are one of the friendliest groups in the world. I don't know why this is. I just know it is so.

One of Amtrak's slogans should be, "You're never lonely on a train."

Maybe it's because it's so relaxing. You're seeing so much and experiencing so much, and you want to share your reactions with others.

I've found my opinion is not unique among students. Hundreds of other collegians expressed similar thoughts. They were as diverse as students can be... backpackers, surfers, bicyclists, campers... yet their common bond of train travel provided a means of communication and sharing.

Almost without exception, the train and station staff try to make your trip enjoyable.

EVERY MAJOR train has a red-coated P.S.R. (Passenger Service Representative) on board. His job is to answer your questions and help you. On many trains they provide map-brochures so you'll know what you are seeing and where you're going. They also often point out things — such as a nudist beach near an Amtrak route in California — that aren't on the map. The P.S.R.'s generally are young people too, and they speak your language.

Here are some tips for students thinking about taking an extensive trip via Amtrak:

- Stop in at the nearest Amtrak ticket office well in advance of your trip to get a timetable and information about fares. If you plan to travel at peak times — over holidays or any time at all during the summer — be sure to make your reservations and get tickets well in advance.

- Amtrak's baggage allowance is generous. Besides carry-on hand luggage you may check three pieces totaling 150 pounds in the baggage car, but it's still wise not to take more than you can handle. Insurance is available for checked luggage, but it's advisable to carry very valuable items, such as cameras and tape recorders, right with you.

- If you are economy-minded (as most students are) your coach seat will be your bed. You can really stretch out. First-class sleeping accommodations called roomettes (for one) and bedrooms

(for two) are available but cost quite a bit more. Lights are dimmed in coaches at 10, but the lounge or recreation cars are available for those who want to be up and about until later.

- To meet students or other interesting people, head for the lounge or recreation cars. You can get a snack or a drink. You may play cards, listen to music, read or just chat with new friends. Some recreation cars have closed circuit television, showing recent feature films. Passenger Service Reps organize games.

- Looking at the scenery is the most popular pastime. The Western trains in particular feature high-level or dome cars for better viewing. Riding through Glacier National Park, for example, is a trip you'll never forget.

- A final word of warning: always wear shoes and shirts on the train. Passing through cars is sometimes tricky, and the floor moves in strange ways where the cars join. Shoes are good protection. And the food cars are after all restaurants and sanitary laws require shirts.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This special assessment of Amtrak's services, as seen by a college student, resulted from an eight-week trip on dozens of Amtrak trains. Art Thomas is a student at Baldwin-Wallace College, Berea, Ohio, and an editor of its newspaper, "The Exponent."

TENNIS BUFFS who head for Bermuda to play their favorite sport don't always know the game was introduced to the Western hemisphere in this sunny isle. Clubs such as Pomander Gate, above, this year are marking the 100th anniversary of tennis in Bermuda.

HOME EXCHANGE

Pan American World Airways' Home Exchange Service, now in its sixth year, allows families to vacation free in homes in Latin America, Europe, Africa, the Pacific, and North America by exchanging their domiciles with other families.

The '74 program also includes houses and apartments available for rent.

Properties are described in a directory published annually by Pan Am. All exchanges or rentals are personal, and are arranged through correspondence between individual parties.

Deadline for mailing material for the main directory is Dec. 17. A follow-up supplement will be published in February. Listing price is $12. Photographs of homes can be included at an additional $3.

With the Home Exchange Service there are no hotel bills or tips, no eating-out expenses, and no car rental fees if cars are exchanged.

Further information can be found in Pan Am's World Home Exchange Service brochure available at travel agents' offices.

TEENS CAN SEE EUROPE. LEARN GERMAN

Deutsch lernen Sie am besten in Deutschland — you learn German best in Germany.

The Federal Republic of Germany is offering several summer programs for students and teens (age 16 and up) who want to combine a summer learning program with a visit to Germany and other parts of Europe.

Europa College at Kassel offers three month-long programs for $80 to $90. The fee includes lodging with a German family, extracurricular and social events, sightseeing tours and field trips.

Other learning programs are available in Murnau, a small picturesque resort village in the Bavarian Alps and in West Berlin. There is also a program that includes two weeks on the Baltic Coast and a week in Munich.

More information may be obtained from the German National Tourist Office, 11 S. LaSalle St., Chicago 60603.

Portuguese colony in Toronto, Canada

Like every large North American city, Toronto, Canada, has ethnic sectors where immigrants from different parts of the world tend to cluster and maintain the language and customs of the mother country.

But Toronto's Portuguese community has gone further. Its 75,000 inhabitants (most of the Azores Islands) have succeeded in creating a cultural enclave which is almost 100 per cent Portuguese, that makes it possible for a substantial number of its people to shop, worship, and live entirely in a Portuguese environment.

Augusta Avenue is the centre of the area. Here, the stores sell Portuguese food, clothing, household goods, souvenirs, and so on.

Most of the merchandise is imported from the homeland.

Casa des Prendas offers three-dimensional religious scenes for $150. Melo's food market displays tempting trays of spiced pork hocks.

The houses in the enclave, too, are ethnic. At one time, they were of sober Canadian red brick. Today, they are a riot of blues, greens, yellows, corals, and pinks.

Colorful baskets laden with flowers hang on the porches. A panel of St. Francis and the birds adorns many front-door panels. Even small shrines are to be seen in many front gardens.

Georgia has added a third "national landmark" forest to its tourist list. The newest one is the Cason J. Callaway Memorial Forest near Hamilton, Ga. Previously named national landmarks are the Marshall Forest near Rome and Wassaw Island, south of Savannah.

In applying for passports in the first quarter of 1973 and for all of 1972, more Americans listed France as their first destination than any other country.

In the first quarter of 1973, France ranked first with 218,600 applicants, about 12 per cent more than the runner up nation, and in 1972 it was the first visit choice of a third of the nearly three million new passport holders.

Visitors to Italy can add a new ruin to their list — the 21-year-old city of Oplonti on the slopes of Mount Vesuvius.

Archaeologists have announced that this area 12 miles south of Naples have unearthed a sumptuous, well-preserved villa and other relics.

Herald editorial

RTA: We oppose referendum OK

The plan finally arrived at by the Illinois General Assembly for establishment of a metropolitan Regional Transit Authority can only be described as terrible legislation.

After months of negotiations, the leadership of the Illinois House and Senate brought forth a document which fails to face up to the long-range problems of mass transit, and which is shot through with loopholes.

What the legislature has offered is a transit authority firmly under control of the City of Chicago. It is designed only to ensure the preservation of the Chicago Transit Authority and the other commuter railroads which have long fed off public subsidies.

While mandating that the RTA board must take over the passenger operations of any railroad desiring to get out from under that service, the bill makes no such provision for bus companies which serve areas outside the city.

One hard-fought provision won by suburban legislators was what was intended to be a guarantee to areas outside the city for a share of transportation finances. A provision was included calling for spending of two-thirds of the money collected in the city, the suburbs and the five counties other than Cook to benefit those areas. But it is worded in such a way that the RTA board may avoid spending the money for services WITHIN the suburbs or the five "collar" counties surrounding Cook.

That board will have nearly unlimited powers in deciding how to spend transportation funds, in issuing bonds (without public bids) and in far-reaching taxing authority. The board will be dominated by members appointed by Mayor Daley — four out of eight — and no chairman will be able to be elected if Daley's appointees choose to block him.

Richard J. Daley

At the insistence of suburban legislators, the bill's authors made the legislation subject to approval by referendum. But they did it in such a way as to minimize the information available to the voters and thus to minimize opposition.

The question on the ballot will be simply: "Shall an RTA be created?" for the six-county area. The RTA negotiators refused to agree to even a brief explanation.

Efforts by Sen. Bradley M. Glass, R-Northfield, and Rep. Eugene F. Schlickman, R-Arlington

Heights, to assure that voters be informed on the arguments for and against were also thwarted. Both attempted to amend the bill to instruct the proper state official to prepare and distribute to voters a brochure describing the proposition and setting forth the arguments for and against.

It is obvious that the designers of the bill do not wish to inform the voters of its contents. The burden then for pointing out its deficiencies has been placed squarely on those legislators outside Chicago who have legitimate fears of the plan.

Unfortunately, the RTA referendum appears headed for heavy approval in Chicago, where the Daley machine will churn out a heavy "yes" vote, and where the four major newspapers have already leaped to Daley's side with unquestioning approval of the scheme.

The Herald has long recognized the need for a mass transit plan to provide for the pressing needs of the six-county area. This is not it.

We encourage those who oppose it to work for the defeat of the March 19 referendum. Then, perhaps, the legislature will be moved to come up with a system for the benefit of all metropolitan area residents.

(This is the first of a two-part editorial on the RTA. Tomorrow, the Herald examines specific aspects of the regional transit proposal.)

'Do Christmas MY way'

For the working wife with the double duty of running a household and earning a salary, the holiday season can be hectic, even frantic, unless she carefully budgets her energies as well as her money.

There are many ways she can do this.

Shop with Christmas in mind the year around so that when the holidays approach there is a minimum of gift-buying left to do.

Prepare and freeze a batch of cookies on each of those lazy Sundays that occur throughout the year. Then it's merely a matter of minutes from freezer to oven to cookie jar the week before Christmas.

Do a little in-depth housecleaning each weekend beginning with Labor Day so that a once-over-lightly is sufficient in December.

Address a dozen Christmas cards one night a week from September 15 to November 15 and the formidable task of preparing 150 cards dissolves into many small, pleasurable moments.

Or you can do it my way.

Shop at the last minute.

If you buy clothing for someone in July they will gain or lose a lot of weight by Christmas and consider your gift an insult. You can't trust hobbyists, either. The chess nut will go bananas over scuba-diving the minute you blow a bundle on a hand carved chess set, the intellectual will switch from heavy reading to transcendental meditation and don't ask me what you buy for someone who's hooked on transcendental meditation.

Buy cookies.

Especially if you make lousy cookies like I do and freeze them next to the chopped onions in the split-open bag. A money-saving tip: don't throw them out no matter what your kids say. Serve them frozen — they make handy trowels for the chip dip at your holiday cocktail parties. Of course, you'll still have to go to the bakery if it's honest-to-Christmas cookies you want.

Don't houseclean.

By the time you get the decorations up and the packages wrapped the house is a mess again anyway. Simply draw the drapes to keep out excessive brightness, and to hide the fact your windows need washing, illuminate only with candles and twinkle lights and nobody will be able to see anything but the Christmas tree. Finally, avoid entertaining on bright sunny days.

Do your Christmas cards last.

Addressing them in October is folly because half the people on your list will get divorced, move or convert to the Jewish faith right after Thanksgiving. Wait until you get a card to send one and don't worry about the occasional klutz who doesn't put a return address on the envelope. Anyone like that probably doesn't know what day it is anyway. Besides, what's so bad about getting a Christmas card after Christmas when you have time to really enjoy it?

Doing things my way, you find out who your real friends are.

Garbage sacks attacked

After the article on Nov. 13, where Dan Larson, village manager, made comments concerning the village of Buffalo Grove going to the sack garbage pickup and then the article on Nov. 15, where the village board had instructed Mr. Larson to investigate the feasibility of the sack system, I became alarmed!

From Mr. Larson's statement he would like to see this in use by May 1, 1974, it is apparent he had already made up his mind. I find it hard to believe, that at a time when it is becoming more apparent that we are using up our natural resources at a faster and faster rate, that this village is thinking of requiring its residents to purchase an item to throw away.

The nation has become so conscious of waste and the use of resources that across the nation reclamation centers have been set up (this village included). We are now thinking of doing away with a reusable container (the garbage can) to use a non-reusable container (the sack), which now turns the container itself into garbage.

Recently we read how the village has been approached with a proposal for a sanitary land fill to the north of our present village boundaries, the village has been told by the land fill developer that suitable land fill sites are harder and harder to find and the current sites are becoming filled at a fantastic rate. If the village goes to the sack system, the rate at which these sites are filled will increase.

letters to the editor

I estimate the single family residents of this village will use at least one and one-half million bags per year, that's a lot of waste. So I urge the trustees of this village for the sake of our natural resources and environment not to go to the sack system.

Editorial praised

Congratulations on the editorial in the Dec. 4 paper, "Silliness marks crisis response."

The energy shortage is a complex, difficult and far-reaching problem; and one that impacts on the daily lives of everyone. If we are to resolve it, we must be able to define it, determine the causes and weigh all the possible solutions.

Those who spread panic, act hastily and irrationally and set about creating new problems on top of the old are doing us all a tremendous disservice.

Responsible members of the press, like those in the government and in the business community, will do everything possible to prevent panic, confusion, misinterpretation of the facts, and the attempts of a few to capitalize on this situation for their own self-betterment.

The Herald has taken such a leadership position with today's editorial... and should be commended for it.

'Politics as usual can be challenged'

by HOWARD FIELDS

WASHINGTON — An impeachment proceeding could be one of the best things to happen to this nation in recent years.

On the surface, that's a strong statement, but it does not address itself to the merits of impeachment — merely to conducting the process to decide if articles of impeachment should be brought.

Much has been made of arguments against a presidential impeachment proceeding on grounds it would be too grave and awesome a step — that it would scar the nation and create nothing but dissunity. Little has been made of the counter-argument.

The nation already appears to be divided into three basic groups:

—One believes all the allegations against the President are put-up jobs, fomented by his enemies.

—Another, with a high distrust of the President, believes politics is inherently a dirty and dishonest business and that those with power and money command a position above the law.

—The third segment believes allegations against Nixon and his administration go to the heart of national survival.

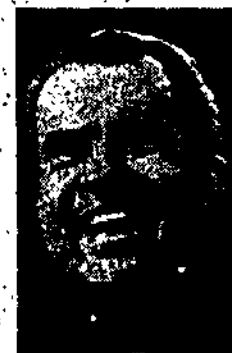

Where are any of these people left if Congress goes no farther than it already has on the impeachment question? The reaction would be, of course, "See, I was right." Nothing would be changed.

There is a strong argument that the proceeding should not go so far as to remove President Nixon from office — that to do so might make it too easy at another, future time.

But it would appear that if further disunity is to be avoided and the nation saved from irreparable scars that a thorough cleansing is in order.

There have been attempts to explain away some of the Watergate-related abuses of the public trust by saying that Democrats played tricks on GOP campaigns; that LBJ, too, taped conversations in the White House; that LBJ and FDR used the FBI and other agencies to retaliate against their enemies; that Johnson advised Nixon to take a big tax deduction on his vice presidential papers; that Democrats accepted milk lobby contributions and pushed them to help the industry, and that both parties abused campaign financing laws in the past.

All that has been placed under the cloak of "politics as usual."

If such activities do comprise "politics as usual" as the average American apparently suspects, shouldn't something be done to change that?

What better way than to demonstrate that the President is not above the law, that when he is alleged to have abused the public trust that he will have to answer for it before the American people represented by members of the House and Senate?

What better way than to demonstrate to future office holders that abuses of the public trust will not be tolerated and that they will have to answer for abuses?

Such proposals as reforming campaign financing may be commendable but they would treat the symptom, not the illness.

The democratic system is constructed on the base of participation and control by the people. Without a demonstration that what has happened or has been alleged to have occurred in recent years is not "politics as usual," the result could be more voter apathy which can only result in dirty politics and the rich and powerful truly commanding a position above the law. # Fuel crisis renews interest in gas, electric cars

THE HERALD Tuesday, December 11, 1973 Section I — 11

by EDWARD S. LECHTIN
DETROIT — Could it be back to "the good old days" for automobiles in this gasoline-short era?

At the start of the 20th Century, the gasoline-powered car started out a poor third to its steam and electric counterparts. That didn't last long and soon the steam and electric autos were left far behind and nearly forgotten.

Now there's renewed interest in these power sources, the gasoline and oil situation being what it is.

In 1900, when 4,195 vehicles were manufactured in this country, 1,681 of them were powered by steam, 1,575 by electricity and only 939 by gasoline engines. The steamers lasted until the 1930s and they attracted a loyal and vocal following.

"There was an instantaneous leap in response to the throttle, unmatched by any gasoline car," remembers an aging owner of a steam car.

AT ONE TIME in the first 20 years of the century, more than 125 different makes of steam cars were on U.S. roads, bearing such names as the White, Mobile, Locomobile, Lane, Clark, Groot, Gearless, Delling and Doble.

Business today

By 1920, just a few remained and in 1925, the Stanley Steamer — the greatest of them all — had disappeared.

The Stanley brothers — twins Francis E. and Freeland O. — built their first steamer in 1897 although, they admitted later, "We knew but little about steam engines and less of boilers." Before the final Stanley Steamer was built in 1925, the company produced 18,000 cars.

"It is graceful and rakish in outline and unlike any gasoline car that can attain an equal speed, it has no odor, noise or vibration," an advertisement for a 1916 Stanley Steamer Roadster said. "It can be run through city streets without attracting the least attention except for its neat appearance."

BUT THE Stanley brothers adhered to an old tradition of craftsmanship and refused to mass produce their cars, relying instead on hand-built bodies to bear their name. They always were behind in their orders and couldn't hope to compete with the innovative methods of Henry Ford.

There has been renewed interest in the steam or Rankine cycle engine, but fuel economy remains a problem. In a recent California bus experiment, steam power plants consumed about three times the fuel of a diesel-powered bus.

Other problems include large weight and size, cost, water consumption, water freezing and lubrication.

Another engine being studied, especially by the Ford Motor Co., in this country, is the Stirling engine. An external burner heats a gas — usually hydrogen — sealed inside the engine and the expanding gas drives the pistons.

The experimental engines have proved to be clean, quiet and economical, but the engine still presents some packaging problems, primarily because of the need for a very large radiator.

FROM THE standpoint of a gasoline car, the electric car probably is receiving the most attention. It emits no exhaust fumes and is virtually noiseless.

But it can't travel very far without being recharged, weighs much more than a comparable gasoline-fueled car and would be more expensive to produce until it could be built under mass-production methods.

In discussing the battery electric power plants recently, General Motors Pres. Edward N. Cole said they "simply transfer the problems from the tailpipe of the automobile to the smokestack of the central electric generating station."

Until there is a breakthrough in battery technology, the electric car has a very restricted role in the transportation system, Cole said.

All the major U.S. automakers took part in the electric car resurgence of the mid-1960s, but admitted in a few years that they had been a little "over-enthusiastic" about the potential of major battery breakthrough.

THERE ARE a number of electric cars on U.S. roads now, some conversions of regular gas-powered cars and others specially designed as electric.

The electric cars are most often considered as urban vehicles where only short distances are traveled and as the only serious means of shifting part of the energy burden away from the auto's present almost-total dependence on petroleum fuels.

The city of Birmingham, Mich., a Detroit suburb, recently began testing a new electric van developed by the Copper Development Assn. (CDA). Known as the Copper Electric Van IIB, it was put into service with the Birmingham Water Meter Department where it will operate with other gasoline-powered vans.

"With the cost of gasoline going up rapidly and the supply situation for the future somewhat uncertain, we are pleased to have the opportunity to test an electric van," said Mayor Ralph W. Moxley.

The vehicle was built specifically for the stop-and-go driving found in suburban use.

PRELIMINARY DATA showed its top speed was 52 miles per hour with a 95-mile range at a constant speed of 40 m.p.h. In typical metropolitan traffic requiring two stops per mile, the range drops to 63 miles.

It's powered by 36, six-volt, lead-acid storage batteries similar to the batteries used in golf carts.

The low-range and high initial cost is a good example of the reasons the electric vehicle is not ready to displace the gasoline-powered car. The present internal combustion engine may have strong competition in the near future, but not from the steam and electric cars.

CLOSEUP OF THE cellular material that makes the new B. F. Goodrich Golden Lifesaver steel-belted radial a self-sealing tire, the light colored material. When a nail or other object punctures the tire, the material expands and permanently seals the hole, permitting little air to escape.

Self-sealing steel radial tire developed by Goodrich

A steel radial tire designed to seal most punctures up to 1/4 inches in diameter in the tread was introduced recently in Chicago by B. F. Goodrich.

Karl O. Nygaard, division vice president, marketing, said the new tire, known as the Golden Lifesaver Radial Steel, will go on sale in leading markets throughout the world in January.

He said the Golden Lifesaver features a new cellular liner system consisting of an elastomeric cellular material and a special polymeric coating. The system is under Goodrich patent applications here and abroad.

When punctured, the cellular material expands to seal holes up to a quarter-inch in diameter. The polymeric coating then forms a permanent seal over the repair.

THE SYSTEM operates when the penetration occurs and also when the object is forced out of the tire or physically removed.

Nygaard also pointed out that the system has the capability to accommodate itself to various types of punctures. He said the system has functioned perfectly in company tests in which the tire was punctured by a projectile from a .22-caliber cartridge.

The cellular liner system has been under development for more than two years at the Company's Research and Development Center at Brockville, Ohio, near Cleveland. Nygaard said that previous attempts by the industry to provide a puncture-sealing feature were generally unsatisfactory from a technical standpoint. Previous sealants became too fluid, causing the sealant to migrate or shift inside the tire. These factors affected tire handling characteristics and caused unsatisfactory tire performance at expressway speeds.

The Golden Lifesaver will be sold in January in key markets throughout the world — North America, South America, Central America, Europe, Australia, the Middle East and the Orient.

Initially, the tire will be available in the United States in nine sizes, from BR70-13 through LR 70-15, to fit the majority of automobiles. The recommended selling price of the Golden Lifesaver for the smallest size (BR70-13) will be $32.

Computer firm adapts to market

by LEA TONKIN
When a determined German-based computer manufacturer decides to take on American competition, it must be willing to adapt to the market, says computer specialist Claus Wagner.

A resident of Des Plaines, Wagner is manager of systems planning for Nixdorf Computers Inc., at its Midwest regional office in the O'Hare Office Plaza complex.

"Victor Computometer spent millions of dollars to set up a sales network, and then lost a great deal of money," says Wagner. "Heinz Nixdorf, (company founder), was not satisfied with the expansion. So by Jan. 1 of this year, we had bought out the Victor division to market the computers under our own name."

Wagner is heading up a staff of several Nixdorf employees as the company pushes into a new, and hopefully, successful phase of U.S. operations.

The market in Illinois and the rest of the country is opening up for the mini computer, says Wagner, a Des Plaines resident. The company figured it could cash in on the expanding needs of business firms for machines that cut the volume of bookkeeping and paperwork.

Fluorescents can conserve energy

To save electrical energy, Prof. G. Roland Peirce of the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign suggests changing to fluorescent lights where possible because fluorescents give three or four times as much light for energy consumed.

"A typical 100-watt incandescent lamp will give 1,700 lumens. A fluorescent light with two four-foot tubes and ballast, using 92 watts total, will give 6,300 to 6,500 lumens, depending on tube color," he said.

When asked whether fluorescent lights should not be extinguished for short periods because of starting current demand or effect on tube life, Peirce said, "Treat them like an incandescent. If you're not going to need them for five minutes or more, you can save by turning them off."

"Older fluorescents had a limited number of starts, but modern tubes do not. Flashing a tube on and off would shorten its life — that's why they are not used in signs — but normal off and on use is not harmful," the electrical engineer explained.

"While fluorescent lamps have much longer life than do incandescents, they do get less bright as they are used, losing as much as half of their brilliance before burning out. The average four-foot fluorescent tube should be replaced after 7,500 to 10,000 hours use."

Book explains 'ups and downs' of inflation

The ups and downs of inflation are discussed in the most recent issue of Business Conditions, published by the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago.

Average prices paid by consumers have declined in only two years since World War II, 1949 and 1955. The rate of inflation accelerated with the Vietnam War, reached a peak in 1970, moderated in 1971 and 1972, and then gathered strong momentum in the current year. Many analysts now think inflation will continue at about the present rate for years to come.

After explaining methods of measuring price inflation and its alter ego "the purchasing power of the dollar," the Chicago Fed article outlines the interrelationships of the basic forces of supply and demand, emphasizing the material shortages and manpower difficulties that have restricted output in recent years, while labor costs have increased much faster than output per man-hour.

THE BANK FINDS that, historically, periods of inflation have been associated with expanding activity and prosperity, while deflations have been accompanied by reduced activity and unemployment. Expectations of continued inflation not only sustain the momentum of price and wage increases, but they encourage popular acceptance of simple, and in some cases perhaps harmful, proposals to solve this complicated problem.

Control of the wage-price spiral through monetary and fiscal policy is hampered by the fact that most people are both for and against inflation at the same time. They oppose increases in the prices of goods and services they buy, but they welcome increases in prices of the commodities and services they sell — wages and salaries for most.

In the next issue of Business Conditions the Chicago Fed continues its analysis of price inflation with discussions of price and wage controls, worker's compensation, corporate profits, the federal budget, and the effects of the devaluation of the dollar.

Elk Grove shows strength with invitational gym win

Gymnastics Editor

The Elk Grove varsity gymnastics team probably won't be satisfied with the state runner-up honors coveted by last year's strongmen.

The Grenadiers, under veteran head coach Fred Gaines, made that perfectly clear Saturday evening by storming to the title of the 12th Annual Evanston Invitational with a robust score of 99.23, the best in the meet's 12-year history.

The triumph was doubly sweet since the field consisted of the state's top four finishers from last year and the host Wildkats which landed ninth.

Elk Grove with 97.92. Rolling Meadows notched a strong third with 97.48, Evanston captured fourth with 93.13 and Hersey netted fifth with 89.43.

"We really got off to a shaky start," Gaines said as the Grenadiers failed to crown an event champion in free exercise, side horse or horizontal bar. "We were down five points and then the kids really started hitting their routines."

Only one specialist and one all-around entrant from each school participated on each apparatus. The cumulative raw scores were added to determine the winner.

Grenadier trampoliner ace Dave Hadley ignited the charge with a winning 8.25. Elk Grove all-arounder Bill Bosslet made it two straight when he annexed the parallel bar competition with an 8.3 and rings ironman Jack Henry stuck his double-back dismount for an 8.6 and the third individual Grenadier crown in succession.

Rolling Meadows, the state's fourth-place finisher in 1973, appears likely to crack the top five again after blue-ribbon performances by side horseman Blaine Dahl (8.75) and defending all-around champion Mike Godawa (7.83) whose lofty average for five events set a new Evanston Invitational record.

Hersey got off to a powerful start behind the sparkling routines turned in by Ren Mitos (8.55 for second) in free exercise and Bruce Freedman (8.55 for second) on horse.

Although the coaches agreed that the meet was not a true indication of depth and team strength Elk Grove proved its invitational victory was no fluke by romping past Niles North with a resounding 133.41 to 110.50 dual-meet decision.

Henry headed the scoring with an awesome 8.9 on rings. Bosslet hit 8.4 on high bar, Mike Heiberger an 8.3 on side horse and Hadley an 8.1 on trampoline. Bosslet averaged 7.25 in all-around.

Mid-Suburban mat season begins

Defending champion stops Palatine

by KEITH REINHARD
Wrestling Editor

Hersey, undefeated in conference dual competition since the 1969-70 season, was at it again Friday as the 72-73 Mid-Suburban League wrestling season was launched around the area.

The defending loop champs, now under the direction of Rick Mann, turned back visiting Palatine in a key North Division encounter for their 26th straight triumph dating back to 1969. Elsewhere Arlington, Elk Grove, Conant, Fremd and Schaumburg all emerged victorious in other loop tussles.

The Huskie win came only days after they had matched the Pirates in one loss column. Palatine had lost the services of one of its outstanding grapplers, Randy McAllister, last weekend and Hersey followed suit when 96-pound Joe Rizza fell victim to the same type of injury — a broken hand — in practice during the week.

The absence of Rizza didn't seem to faze Mann's men much. They won at 98 anyway and claimed half a dozen other match wins en route to a 27-14 decision.

Elk Grove's win came at the expense of visiting neighborhood rival Forest View, and Fremd also disposed of a neighbor, Rolling Meadows, on their own mats. In the meantime, Schaumburg was just edging out a triumph over hosting Buffalo Grove while Conant and Arlington both won on the road as well, against Prospect and Wheeling respectively.

Here's a rundown on this week's MSL action:

HUSKIES SINK PIRATES

Despite a surprise win at 167, Palatine's hopes of a league title were somewhat diffused by a solid Hersey show in the middle weights. A 10-3 win by Massimo Busterna over John Lonergan at 138 was part of that assault and Mike Putratra (126), Otto Meisenheimer (132) and Mark Furlong (145) also contributed decisions.

A big Pirate win was Brian Bauer's 3-1 nod over sectional returnee Brian Nelson at 167. Bob Wahl also triumphed for the guests at 119 as did Paul Bordenkircher at 105 and Len Marchel at 155.

Otherwise, things went the way of the hosts with subbing Jim Waters a handy victor at 98, Jeff Reinhard pinning in his 185-pound skirmish and Schmidt nailing out a 6-5 verdict at heavyweight. The 112-pound faceoff between Dan Lococo of Hersey and Jim Hanetho ended in a draw.

ELK GROVE STUNS FALCONS

The Grenadiers came on strong at the heavy end of the lineup to post a 28-15 triumph over the View. From 145 out Larry Hamm, Leo Montemayor, Tom Balmes, Steve Klitzka and Earl Jursich were all winners with Montemayor gaining his via a first round fall.

Falcon John Gross took only 38 seconds to win at 98 pounds and Kevin Smith (112), Fred Hegel (119) and Dennis Beach also contributed to the guest cause. Elk Grove's other wins were by Kevin Cruz at 105, Mark Sokniewicz at 126 and Rick Morris at 132.

CONANT TRIPS KNIGHTS

The Cougars claimed wins by forfeit at both ends of the lineup and sandwiched four wins in between to topple Prospect 36-20.

The Knights notched three shutouts in a row at one point through Jim Bebel at 119, Dave Oravec at 126 and Joe Gattas at 132, and later claimed a pin win from Randy Chervia (145) and a decision by Steve Emil at 167.

Conant had their way the remainder of the time, Keith McCreary pinning at 105, John Armstrong earning a superior decision at 112, Dan Szymkowiak pinning at 155 and Jim Moody pinning at 167. The 138-pound faceoff ended in a tie between Kurt Arthofer of Conant and Larry Burhardt.

SAXONS SQUEEZE BY BUFFALO GROVE

Heavyweight Bob Kinahan came up with a crucial pin to break a stalemate in favor of the visitors 31-25.

The meet was tied at 25-all when the Schaumburg vet stepped on the mats and posted a win by fall at 2:45 to give his squad their first win of the season. Other Saxon triumphs were by Terry Ruddy at 112, Joe Hannon at 119, Ron Kuchnia at 126, Bob Jones at 155, Bill Bowers at 167 and Mori Bello at 167.

The Bison had fewer wins but some of them were impressive. Kirt Lewis rang up a 15-0 decision at 105, Tom Bickner (145) pinned in 47 seconds and Bob Daulton (98) needed only 1:30 to stick his foe. Kevin Lewis also garnered a decision for the hosts at 132.

CARDINALS CRUNCH CATS

Wins by Mike Bryan and Herb Darmot at put Arlington over the top against visiting Wheeling Friday, 28-18.

Drawing for contesting order, the 'Cats moved out in front 16-4 with some strong help at the heavier weights. That's about all the Redbirds allowed however and they went on to win handily.

Gary Holuh won at 105, then Dave Weber triumphed at 132, John Schroeder pinned at 136, Scott Blitzer reigned at 145, Bryan pinned at 112 and Darmot wrapped things up with a shutout at 155.

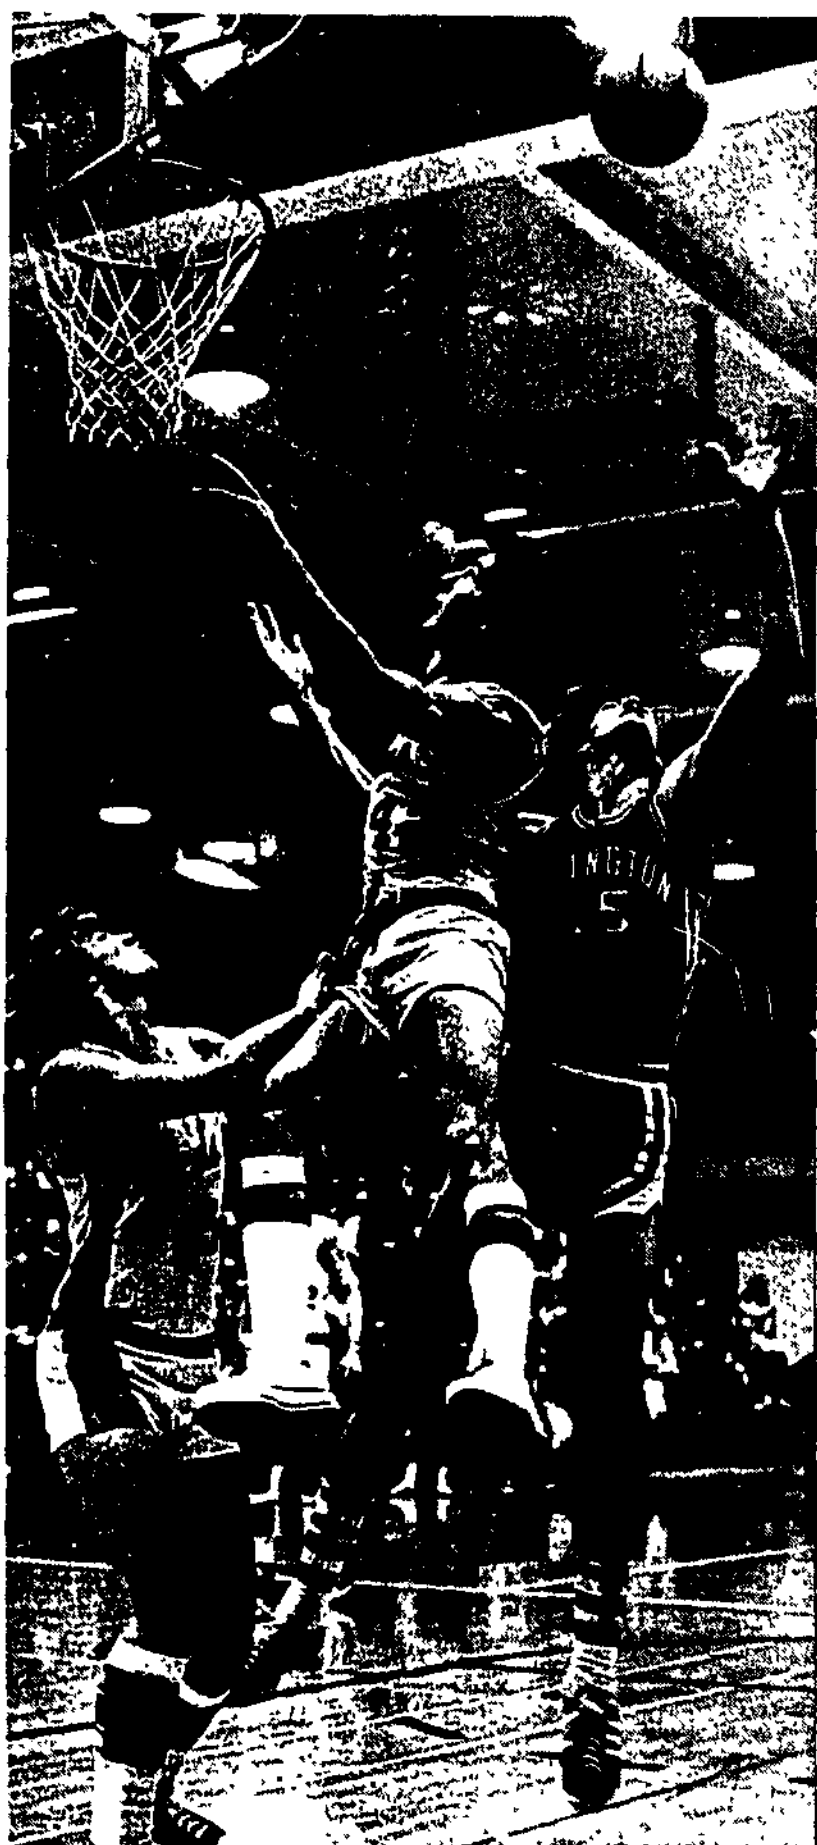

Wildcat wins were by Neal Kendall (119), Phil Dietrich (126), Ken South (167) and Ed Wargo (185). There were draws at the front and back ends of the scale.

FREMID MAULS MEADOWS

The Vikings captured six of the final seven bouts on the card to win going away 27-16.

Dan Lynch at 132 iced off the Fremd rally with a shutout and Diego Ramirez, Dan Stark, Jeff Sveinsson, Tom Bullen and Gary Peterson kept things going through 185. Bullen took just 23 seconds to pull off his win at 167 pounds.

In the earlier going Paul Morales also posted a win for the hosts at 105 while teammate Dan Neubauer tied with Roger Mattix at 126. Mustang triumphs were earned by Jim Carlstrom at 98, Paul Hyneman at 112, Roy Carlstrom at 119 and heavyweight Rick Whitfield.

Wheeling swimmers post one-sided triumph

Swimming Editor

Wheeling led the way in area swimming with the most lopsided victory among seven locals competing Friday.

The Wildcats thumped visiting Maine North 122-68. In other action, Maine East won a thriller over Elk Grove, 96.5 to 63.5, Rolling Meadows over Niles East, 60-23, Maine West over Proviso East, 53-29, and St. Patrick over Forest View, 96-72.

Coach Doug Cotner's Wildcats took eight firsts in the romp that featured double victories by Bill Medica and Paul Lindquist. Medica won the 200 free (1:59.1) and the 500 free (5:21.2) and Lindquist took the 50 free (23.8) and the 100 free (52.8).

Other winners were Tony Lauber in the 200 individual medley (2:26.3), John Runon in diving (174.30), Mike Hyde in the 100 butterfly (1:52.1) and 400 free relay team of Lindquist, Bill Blank, Dave Mede and Hyde (3:47.4).

The Norsemen started off fast with a victory in the medley relay behind the efforts by Dan Larson, Don Pok, Andy Michalow and Mike Vernon (1:55.5).

Polz won the 100 breaststroke (1:07.6) and Larson the 100 backstroke (1:07.5).

EAST SHOCKS GROVE

The Grenadiers were nudged by a point against Maine East despite winning both relays and seven individual firsts. The winning Demons had firsts by Chris Dickson in diving and Greg Erickson (1:08.8) in 100 breaststroke.

It was that second event which turned the meet around for Maine which trailed, 75.5-69.5 before breaststroke. But paced by Erickson, East swept to gain 13 points. Other placers were Jim Leparski (1:12.8) and Tom Drosdz (1:13).

Under the new 8-4-2 scoring system for relays, East needed at least a second in 400-free relay to defeat Elk Grove. It got the four necessary points when Carl Anderson, Brad Kroll, Gerry McKervy and Scott Struss swam 3:38.9.

Elk Grove's Brent Bolin, John Livesay, Mike Fournier and Scott Bolin took the eight first place points in 3:34.3. But coupled with their two third place relay points, the Grenadiers still fell short.

Fournier, Steve Banach, Paul Butchart and Jim Henry got Elk Grove to a good start with a 1:49.8 win in 200 individual medley relay.

Fournier also won the 50 freestyle (24.4), Brent Bolin won the 200 freestyle (1:57.6) and 100 butterfly (59.7). Older brother Scott won the 200 individual medley (2:04.6) and 100 backstroke (57.2).

Livesay won the 100 freestyle (54.9) and Jim Cashman the 500 freestyle (5:23.2). Wayne Westman gave Maine

Harper cagers play tonight

Harper College returns to the basketball floor tonight for a home battle with McHenry.

The Skyway Conference action will begin at 8:00 p.m. at St. Viator High School, 1213 E. Oakton, Arlington Heights.

The Hawks will also be in action this weekend, traveling to Kennedy-King Friday and coming home to host DuPage Saturday night at 7:30.

East important points with seconds in 200 individual medley (2:17.2) and 100 backstroke (1:01.3).

MUSTANGS EVEN MARK

The Mustangs even their record to 1-1 behind first-place showings. Beginning and ending the meet were wins by the 200 medley relay — Tom Stahnke, Ken Stahnke, Dan Mate and Gary Grunwald — and the 400 freestyle relay — Grunwald, Mate, Brad Hammersmith and Bob Hickox. In between were these victors:

T. Stahnke in the 200 individual medley, Jeff Slack in diving, Mate in the 100 butterfly, Glenn Adams in the 500 freestyle, Jeff Gillen in the 100 backstroke and K. Stahnke in the 100 breaststroke.

WEST ROMPS

Maine West won both relays and captured five individual firsts in the Warriors' win over Proviso East. George Erickson, Nick Meneinger, Doug Benton and Dave Gaffrick won the 200 individual medley relay in 1:57.8.

Benton teamed with Paul Dyer, Tom Patch and Bill Samp to win the 400 freestyle relay in 3:59.2.

Erickson was a double winner in 100 butterfly (1:06.2) and 100 backstroke (1:09.5). Dyer won the 200 freestyle (2:04.8), Patch the 500 freestyle (5:35.2) and Meneinger the 100 breaststroke (1:13.5).

FALCONS FALL

The Falcons also had to depend on two young men for most of their points. Kevin Reddy, swimming though ill, won the 200 and 500 freestyle events.

Doug Schlak took the 50 free (23.8) and the 100 free (52.5). Rounding out the firsts was Luther Abernethy in diving with 194.4.

Elk Grove to hold baseball meeting

The board of the Elk Grove Boys Baseball program will hold a general meeting on Friday, Dec. 14, at the Elks Lodge, 115 Gordon Street, Elk Grove Village.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. and is open to all parents and children who are interested in boys baseball. There will be a general discussion.

Eligibility dates approach for Paddock bowling tournaments

Eligibility dates for the approaching Paddock bowling tournaments are at hand with first place teams as of those dates eligible for the big events in January.

In event of ties, it is up to league officials to decide upon a playoff or other method of determining exactly which team is eligible to represent the league.

In a few rare cases, when the first place team is unable to participate, the second place squad is asked to compete. Tourney promoters are interested in having one team from each league in the area served by Paddock Publications, hopefully the first place squad as of the proper eligibility date.

Men's event at Buffalo Grove Striker Lanes, Jan. 20 will include first place teams of all men's leagues as of Dec. 15.

Loop secretaries are urged to schedule time reservations at 394-2300 as soon as possible with entry deadline Jan. 5.

First place teams of all women's leagues as of Dec. 22 will be eligible for the Jan. 27 tourney at Fair Lanes Rolling Meadows Bowl with Jan. 12 the deadline for entries.

Leading squads of all mixed leagues as of Dec. 22 are eligible for the Champagne Tournament at Fair Lanes Rolling Meadows Bowl with deadline for entries Jan. 12. Each participant will receive a split of champagne from Armanetti's Wine Cellar in Rolling Meadows.

Total of $2,835 is expected to be awarded in the three tournaments in event 96 teams compete in the men's event, 108 squads in the women's meet and 60 teams in the mixed.

NOT ENOUGH SOON ENOUGH. Maine West's Paul Dick has Maine South's Denny Kladis nicely blocked off, as South's Mike Sellergren watches, but the game is already out of reach. The entire trio came on after South's Hawks had put their fifth victory, 63-49, safely in the win column. Kladis had six points, Dick two and Sellergren none.

Harper's Kimbrough honored

Ervin Kimbrough

Ervin Kimbrough, Harper College's fine split end, has been named second team All-American by the National Junior College Athletic Association in an announcement made last Thursday afternoon.

He ranked eighth in national pass receiving figures this past season with 29 catches, 4.1 per game, for 457 yards and eight touchdowns.

According to the NJCAA rankings, the nation's top pass catcher was Keith Thomas of Navarro Junior College in Corsicana, Tex. Thomas caught 36 passes for 866 yards and 11 touchdowns.

Kimbrough was Harper's only selectee to the All-American team. None of his Hawk teammates appeared in final national stats released last week.

South at GBS

Maine South will bid for its second consecutive Central Suburban basketball win in an 8 o'clock game tonight at Glenbrook South. The Hawks take a 5-0 overall mark and 1-0 CSL record into the Titans' gym. Glenbrook has a league loss to New Trier West and a 2-4 overall mark.

At Striking Lanes

Walt Munn's consistent series of 198-193-200 led the Braves to three wins and seven points in the Randwood Mixed League at the Striking Lanes recently. Other top men bowlers were Wil Aberle, 533-213, and Bob Zeller, 504. Marge Wagner returned to her old form with a 472-182 to top the ladies. Other 400 series by the women were Lu Ridgway's 414, Elsie Landreese's 411, Darlene Callas' 409, and Mary Jane Arend's 400.

Norsemen start fast, then slow down

by ART MUGALIAN

Late-arriving basketball fans at Maine North High School were in for quite a surprise Saturday night.

The scoreboard read: Maine North 20, New Trier East 12 with less than six minutes to play in the first half.

Anyone arriving five minutes later received some altogether different news. By that time, the highly ranked Indians had ripped through the Norsemen's defense for 20 straight points and a 32-22 halftime lead.

John Schneider's New Trier boys reaffirmed their superiority by blasting Maine 73-40 by the end of the long evening. The Indians' two top scorers were Chris Wall with 19 points and Frank Moran, who canned 17.

The Wall-Moran gang was slow in getting started but when they finally decided to play basketball, they demonstrated why they journeyed to Champaign last March. The 6'9" Wall and the 6'7" Moran dominated the backboards and playmaking guards Dave Jaus and Dave Harvey were successful in working the ball to the big men.

Schneider tried to explain his team's early sluggishness. "We weren't clicking," he said. "I don't think we shot very well, maybe 12 per cent in the first quarter."

"We changed our offense and we got better shots," he continued. "We changed it and we got 29 straight points."

The sudden turnaround in the game was spurred on by Wall and Moran. In little less than a minute, Wall dropped in a two-pointer, Moran hit two free throws, Wall sank a free toss, Moran grabbed a rebound and tapped it in, Wall netted two points, and Harvey stole the ball and laid one up. Then Moran intercepted a Maine pass and cashed an easy layup.

New Trier's tenacious full court press proved to be too much for the Norsemen. It forced 40 turnovers, and as Maine North's coach, Jerry Nelson, noted, that's enough to be the margin in any game.

"These fellows are young," Nelson explained. "They just lost their composure against a good pressing ball club."

"We had some rhythm going for the first 13 minutes," Nelson went on. "Then they broke us out of that rhythm. We started doing things individually out there. Each guy thought he could get through the press by himself."

Nelson's Norsemen suffered their fourth loss against one victory at the hands of a New Trier team that is now 4-1.

Maine North's high scorer was George Kaufman with 12 points. Bob DeMarco and Derek Brown had eight each. "The first 13 minutes we kind of held our own," Nelson said.

It was a consolation of sorts. SCORE BY QUARTERS

Harper wins double duel

Harper wrestlers rebounded from an opening loss to Joliet by taking both ends of a double duel at Triton in impressive style.

The Hawks dumped the hosting Warriors 30-10 and crushed Kennedy-King 48-5.

Bernie Kleiman, Al Gordon, Tom Dal Campo, Steve Bollinger, Steve Frankovic and Ron Vylasek were all double winners and everyone in coach Ron Bessemer's lineup picked off team points somewhere along the line. The overall showing was a vast improvement over the 36-9 setback issued by Joliet last Tuesday.

Kleiman at 118 put on the most impressive show. He pinned his foe from Kennedy-King at 3:29 and thoroughly outclassed Triton's Rick Almada, last year's 105-pound Illinois prep state champ from West Leyden, 11-6.

Gordon at 126, Dal Campo at 134, Frankovic at 177 and Vylasek at 190 all gained forfeit wins against the Statesmen. Bollinger, in the meantime, was romping to a 19-2 decision to go with his 4-3 verdict over the Warriors.

Gordon and Frankovic notched pins in their other bouts while Vylasek shutout his Triton foe and Dal Campo was claiming a 5-2 verdict.

John Silver, a 190-pounder elevated to heavyweight, earned Harper's other win over Triton on a fall at 5:20 despite spotting the opposition plenty of poundage.

Mike Millay, also yielding weight to the enemy at 150, logged an impressive 1-1 standoff with Willie Darden of Kennedy-King, a nationals qualifier. Millay lost his other bout 2-1.

Ken Trommer at 158 and Jim Schnurstein at 167 both pinned Statesmen opponents. And in an exhibition against Kennedy-King at 190 Steve Glaser picked up an 11-3 decision.

Wonderful Auto World

WHAT'S MOST IMPORTANT TO YOU - THE PRODUCT OR THE PLACE YOU BUY?

IF one walked through the main street of "Anytown, U.S.A." and asked this question of adults the answer would invariably be the "PRODUCT." Yet marketing authorities tell us that for ALL consumers the answer is more than likely the "FIRM."

FROM 4,000 B.C. up to about the end of World War II the market process has come to be labeled "product oriented." That means that producers-purveyors of goods and services were interested in THEIR needs being satisfied — not those of the CUSTOMER.

FROM the end of World War II, to the present, the market process is called "customer-oriented." The point-of-view now is that producers-purveyors first FIND OUT what consumers need, then research, then BRING the product-service to the market place.

THE old market place dictum (4,000 B.C. to 1946) was "Let the Buyer Beware." From 1946 to today the concept has been "The Customer Is King." This switch in basic strategy has spread over the whole "western" world.

IN 1965 something very significant happened here in America: the phenomenon has been repeated recently in one nation after another. In 1965, for the first time in the history of any nation, American consumers spent over 50% of their income for non-necessities of life (necessities are still considered to be food-clothing-shelter). The percent of non-necessities purchased has steadily risen to today's 60%.

NO doubt of powerful significance, albeit subtle, has been the role of advertising. Today the senses of each of us are bombarded with hundreds of advertising messages a day. We are pre-programmed to buy what we buy, often times years ahead of the actual purchase.

ONE can argue all day long whether or not this is "GOOD" or "BAD" or "RIGHT" or "WRONG." But the facts are that "WHERE" we buy is now more important to most people than "WHAT" they buy. EVERY marketing textbook AGREES ON THAT.

MOST people seem to feel that a "PRODUCT" is only as good as the quality of the people who offer it for sale (the firm). Perhaps this is as it, should be. What do you think? Is the "PRODUCT" or the "FIRM" most important to you in the products-services you buy?

Chicago Cards win again

The high-flying Chicago Cardinals extended their winning streak to 11 games last weekend by twice defeating the Michigan Patriots, 8-3 and 4-3 in afternoon games played Saturday and Sunday at Randhurst Twin Ice Arena, Mount Prospect.

Chicago has yet to be beaten this season in North American Hockey Association action.

Jim McClellan led Chicago's Saturday win with a three-goal hat trick. Other Cardinal scorers were Larry Meyers, Vic Ollikainen, Terry Mankus, Ian Lutes and Chuck Schellenberger — indicating the balanced attack.

In Sunday's game, a determined Michigan team jumped to a 3-1 lead at the end of the first period, with Larry Meyers hitting for the Chicagoans assisted by Bert Harvey and Don Cessario.

Bert Harvey scored in the opening minute of the second period, assisted by Meyers and Gene Stoney, to be followed two minutes later by Russ Streeter's goal, assisted by Ron Pretlac.

With the game tied at three apiece, Jim McClellan hit the net at 11:45 of the middle period for the final tally of the game. Ron Pretlac again assisted along with Schellenberger. Chicago's goalie, Ted Kaminski, and the visitor's Frank Kler withstood all challenges for the remainder of the hard-fought contest.

The Cardinals next two home games at the Randhurst Twin Ice Arena in the Randhurst Shopping Center are against the Minnesota Americans on Saturday, Dec. 15 at 7:30 p.m. and Sunday, Dec. 16 at 2:30 p.m. Advance tickets are on sale at the Arena at reduced prices of $3.00 for adults, $1.50 for students and $1.25 for children under 13.

Bart Starr to speak tonight at athletic directors meeting

An address by Bart Starr, former all-pro quarterback with the Green Bay Packers, will highlight the sessions today at the National Federation's Fourth Annual National Conference of High School Directors of Athletics.

Starr will speak on "The Values of Athletic Competition" at the conference banquet this evening at the Marriott Motor Hotel, 8335 West Higgins, Chicago. The program starts at 7 p.m.

Rev. Patrick Cahill, C.S.V., Director of Athletics at St. Vistor High School, will give the invocation and entertainment will be provided by the Palatine High School Madrigal Singers.

Chie Anderson, Director of Athletics at Palatine, will be honored with a National Federation citation.

The third general session of the conference gets under way at nine o'clock this morning in the grand ballroom of the Marriott with Murney Lazier, head football coach at Evanston High School, among the main speakers.

Lazier will speak on "Counseling the College-bound Athlete."

Bernie Casey's toughest role most rewarding

by VERNON SCOTT
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Ex-football star, poet, painter, actor Bernie Casey has pulled off an almost impossible acting assignment, playing a man who can communicate only by blinking his eyes.

Casey portrays the late Maurice Stokes, the professional basketball player for the Cincinnati Royals who was paral-yzed for a dozen years after suffering a fall.

The story is essentially that of a heartwarming friendship between Stokes (a black man) and his teammate Jack Twyman (a white man) who raised more than $1 million for Stokes' hospital and medical care until he died in 1970.

"FOR THE FIRST third of the film I don't speak a single word," Casey said.
"All I could use were my eyes. And as an actor I had to rely on pure instinct."

"I never knew Stokes, but I talked to Twyman about him after I signed for the role. And I didn't try to become Maurice Stokes. By the end of two months of production I was depressed."

"It's not easy to play a dying man whose life is restricted to braces, bed, and a wheelchair. But if an actor is involved in his work he's bound to be affected."

"I'm nothing like Stokes. His personality is altogether different from mine.
We had different life textures."

CASEY DRAWS satisfaction from his knowledge that Stokes' parents gave unqualified approval to his performance as their son.

"I met them in Pittsburgh after they'd seen the film," Casey recalled. "I was really apprehensive. Then they told me,
'You did our son credit. You showed his courage and his dignity. You never made us ashamed.'"

"That meant a lot to me."

Did you know that traditionally in many parts of the country, and in some parts even today, it is the woman's role to light the fire in the fireplace?
But times have changed, and today fireplaces, while not so widespread are here to stay for some who love them.
Debating about whether or not a fireplace is necessary in your dream house? There are pros and cons. Detractors say that fireplaces may be drafty, are messy, and interfere with thermostat workings. But those who love the old are ready to point out the extra warmth and coziness a fire can provide.

Let GEORGE L. BUSSE & CO., 12 E.

Village hoping for mid-1975

MSD noncommittal on date for reservoir completion

by JOE FRANZ

While Buffalo Grove officials hope a 100-acre reservoir along Buffalo Creek will be completed by mid-1975, the Metropolitan Sanitary District will not make any commitments.

Both these groups and the Lake County Forest Preserve District are involved in the project that is expected to alleviate the flooding of homes along the creek.

Roy Carlson, principal civil engineer for the MSD, said yesterday his district's legal department is still reviewing the proposed contract between the three agencies.

Carlson could not predict when the agreement might be executed or when construction of the reservoir will begin.

Under the reservoir proposal the forest preserve district would acquire the needed land, the MSD would construct it and Buffalo Grove would maintain it.

VILLAGE MGR. Daniel Larson said yesterday he expects to get a copy of the agreement within the next week and is hopeful it will be signed sometime in January. The village will not act on the proposal, he said, until the MSD and forest preserve district sign the contract.

If the three agencies reach agreement by January, Larson said the reservoir could probably be completed by May, 1975. He said it probably would take about a year to acquire land and another four months to construct the reservoir.

Jerrold Soesbe, director of the forest preserve district, said yesterday the agreement was reviewed several months ago by officials there and sent back to the MSD. "We're ready to move. All we're waiting for is the go-ahead from the MSD," he said.

The forest preserve district suggested several minor changes in the agreement, Soesbe said, but nothing that is expected to create problems. He said he does not know when the district will hear from the MSD.

ONCE THE AGREEMENT is signed, Soesbe said, the forest preserve district will begin to acquire the needed land. He predicts this will take from two months to two years. The length of time will depend on the amount of opposition from land owners, he said, adding that it will take longer if condemnation becomes necessary.

Under the proposed agreement the MSD will assume the major cost of the $2.1 retention facility. About $1,800,000 will be needed for land and $300,000 for the dam and reservoir.

When the agreement is signed, the forest preserve district will apply for a federal grant that will reimburse the MSD for half the land acquisition cost. However, if the grant is not approved, MSD officials have indicated the sanitary district will pay the entire cost.

WHEN COMPLETED, the 260-million-gallon reservoir, which will be at the southwest corner of Arlington Heights and Checker roads, will provide major flood relief for downstream Buffalo Grove and Wheeling residents. During a severe storm, water will be held in the reservoir until the danger of flooding has passed. The water will then be released slowly from the reservoir.

Officials have said the area surrounding the reservoir will probably be inundated 5 per cent of the time. After a severe storm, it will be drained making the area suitable for recreation. Although exact facilities have not been decided upon, the area might be suitable for fishing, picnicking and other sports activities.

The reservoir has been in the planning stages for more than a year. Officials originally hoped it would be completed by mid-1974.

Police seeking identity of crash victim's rapist

A witness driving a late-model luxury car with black vinyl top and maroon body is being sought by Buffalo Grove police in connection with Saturday's rape of a Schaumburg woman.

The witness's car possibly a Pontiac or a Ford, was one of two that stopped early Saturday on Dundee Road, near Saxton Place in Buffalo Grove, after the Schaumburg woman had run her car off the road.

Police hope the driver of the maroon car will help them get a better description of the rape suspect. The rapist, believed to have been driving a Volkswagen, offered to take the woman, who was bleeding from head injuries, to Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines for treatment. On the way to the hospital, the woman told police, he raped her.

The 36-year-old woman staggered into the hospital at about 3:30 a.m. Saturday, stating the man had attacked her and dropped her off a block from the hospital. She was admitted to the hospital, but released the next day.

Buffalo Grove Police Chief Harry

Walsh said yesterday the woman was bleeding so much that she did not get a good look at her attacker. However, Sgt. Arthur Voigt said the man apparently was "pudgy, partially balding, of medium height, and had a double chin."

THE ACCIDENT was reported to police at 2:25 a.m. but in the time it took police to get to the scene, the injured woman had already left in the assailant's car. Because of the amount of blood left at the scene, Voigt called Wheeling and Des Plaines police to intercept the car so the woman could be given first aid by an ambulance crew. The other agencies, however, were unable to locate the car.

Walsh said Cook County Sheriff's Police also are involved in the investigation of the incident. On Sunday, both departments had denied any involvement. "The police are not confused," Walsh said, referring to a news story. "We (the sheriff's department and Buffalo Grove police) were working together on this."

Anyone with information about the incident is urged to call the Buffalo Grove police at 537-4260.

Buffalo Grove High slates holiday concert

Music students at Buffalo Grove High School will present a holiday concert at 2 p.m. Sunday in the school gym.

Members of the symphonic band, orchestra and chorus will combine in presenting the "Hallelujah Chorus" from Handel's "Messiah." The program will also include other Christmas music.

The concert is free and open to the public.

'Slip throughs?'

Not here; School program spots study problems early

by JILL BETTNER

There are no "slip throughs" at Willow Grove School, according to teachers at the Dist. 96 school in Buffalo Grove — no children who are passed on from grade to grade without learning to read.

It may sound incredible that a child could come out of any elementary school without having mastered basic reading skills, but it does happen.

Not at Willow Grove, however, say teachers there, because of a careful monitoring system. It is designed to identify students with reading problems and correct them before the difficulties become insurmountable.

The system is part of the Individually Guided Education program adopted by Dist. 96 last year.

At the beginning of each school year, students are tested to determine their reading abilities. Based on the results of the screening, they are placed in reading groups according to performance level, rather than age.

FOR EXAMPLE, some kindergarten students participate in reading activities along with first and second graders and then return to their classes for other instruction. By the same token, older students who have reading problems are placed in reading groups with primary students and take other subjects along with the rest of their classmates.

"The nice part of this is that these children are allowed to function with their own peer group, but they can read at the level they're most comfortable learning," said Virginia Weston, a teacher in one of the two six- and seven-year-olds units at Willow Grove.

Each of the four teachers in the six- and seven-year-old-unit teaches one reading group. The students in the groups range in ability from those who are just learning to read to children who are able to read library books independently.

Because there is close communication between the instructors in each unit, every child virtually has four teachers watching his progress.

THE UNIT TEACHERS meet for an hour each day to plan lessons and discuss the problems of particular students. They also meet with the teachers in the other units once each week to ensure that instruction is given in a logical progression throughout the grades.

"There isn't a single forgotten child," said Mrs. Weston. "We don't miss a kid because we're constantly assessing every one of them. We're right on top of every kid every day."

The teachers are able to individualize instruction to a large extent because of the number of volunteer mothers who serve as teacher aides. One or two mothers help out in each class daily.

ONE OF THE METHODS of formally evaluating student reading progress used at the school is a diagnostic set of tests called the Fountain Valley Skills system. The tests determine the progress of students in mastering vocabulary, structural analysis, phonetic analysis, comprehension and study skills.

The information obtained from the tests becomes part of the student's progress profile which he carries from grade to grade.

Students also take annual achievement tests developed by Science Research Associates, a national testing firm.

Grove were on hand to greet the jolly old elf, who will be in town until Dec. 16. Lollipop Lane, sponsored by the Wheeling Historical Society and the Wheeling Park District, is open from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. on weekdays and from 2 to 5 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday.

by BOB LAHEY

Two hopeful challengers to party leaders in their suburban townships were absent from the list of candidates who filed nominating petitions for the March 19 primary elections with the Cook County clerk yesterday.

Missing were the names of Kent Kirkwood of Mount Prospect, who hopes to unseat Democratic Township Committeeman William B. Rose in Elk Grove Township, and Anton Valukas of Palatine, challenger to Republican Township Committeeman Bernard E. Pedersen in Palatine Township.

Three contests for the Democratic committeemen's jobs were officially begun in other townships as challengers and incumbents filed their petitions on the first day that filing is allowed.

KIRKWOOD TOLD The Herald yesterday he is still seeking signatures on his nominating petitions and hopes to enter

Regner won't seek treasurer post

State Sen. David J. Regner, R-Mount Prospect, said yesterday he has decided not to enter an election contest against State Treasurer Alan J. Dixon.

Regner was one of several candidates suggested for the contest by Republican State Chairman Don Adams, and he said he had been urged by many "prominent Republicans" to enter the race.

He said, however, that he felt an obligation to finish his four-year term in the Senate, to which he was elected last year after three terms in the House of Representatives.

the contest against Rose before the filing deadline next Monday. Kirkwood said he had encountered "more difficulty than I had hoped" in obtaining the 647 signatures required to place his name on the ballot.

Valukas could not be reached for comment.

Among Democrats, contests are in store for the committeemen's jobs in Wheeling, Palatine and Schaumburg townships.

Wheeling Township Committeeman Donald L. Norman and challenger Nathaniel P. Leighton, both of Arlington Heights, both filed their petitions yesterday. In Schaumburg Township, the contest is between incumbent Committeeman John F. Morrissey and former committeeman William W. Holmes Jr. Palatine Township Committeeman Richard A. Mugalian is being challenged again by Peter J. Gerling, whom Mugalian defeated in 1970 for the post.

TOWNSHIP committeemen are the only officials elected in the primary election, in which the nominees of the two parties are selected for other offices. The committeeman's job is non-salaried.

Three Republicans and one Democrat, in addition to Rose and Pedersen, remain without opposition for reelection as committeemen in Northwest suburban townships.

The only Democrat against whom no challenge has been attempted is Nicholas Blase of Niles in Maine Township. His Republican counterpart, County Commissioner Floyd Fulle of Des Plaines, is also without opposition.

Running unopposed for reelection are Republicans Carl R. Hansen of Elk Grove Township and Donald L. Totten of Schaumburg Township.

No petitions have yet been filed by Republicans in Wheeling Township, where insurance agent Fred Yonkers of Arlington Heights is expected to run without opposition to succeed incumbent Richard A. Cowen, who is retiring from the post.

Car-train crash kills man, woman

A man and a woman were killed when their auto was struck by a Chicago and North Western Ry. freight train at River Road near Rand Road. The impact pushed the car nearly one-half mile to Gracefield Street.

Both victims were trapped inside the wrecked auto. Des Plaines firefighters were able to free one victim in 15 minutes but needed more than an hour to remove the driver, Lawrence Fronczak, 37, of 641 York Rd., Bensenville, and formerly of Prospect Heights. He was pronounced dead on arrival at Holy Family Hospital.

His passenger, Christine Omasta, 22, of 452 Division in Villa Park, died in Holy Family of multiple fractures at 3:20 a.m. Monday, a few hours after the accident.

Fronczak was an executive with Illinois Switchboard Corp., 135 Fay, in Addison and Mrs. Omasta worked as his secretary.

THE COLLISION occurred at about 11:10 p.m. Sunday while the two were driving southbound on River Road. Fronczak drove through the lowered crossing gates according to reports.

The engineer of the westbound freight told police he saw the auto nearing the crossing but said it failed to slow down, crashed through the gates and was struck broadside by the train.

Des Plaines police Patrolman Mike Banner, on patrol at the time reported watching the train, traveling at 40 mph, carry the auto several hundred feet.

According to reports, firefighters had to use chains to pull the auto's twisted wreckage from the front of the train.

Police said the two victims had been at a party earlier that evening.

A DES PLAINES police investigator looks over the wrecked 1974 Cadillac that was struck by a Chicago and North Western Ry. train late Sunday night. Two people died in the crash after the driver apparently crashed through a crossing gate at River Road and Rand Road and was hit broadside by the train.

Stevenson High Yule concert Friday, Sunday

Three choral groups and the symphonic band will be featured in the ninth annual Christmas concert at Adlai Stevenson High School at 8 p.m. Friday and again at 3 p.m. Sunday.

Free tickets may be obtained in advance from music department students or at the door if seats are still available for the performances, according to William Misk, music department chairman.

The traditional candlelight procession by the a capella choir will highlight the choral program. Other songs by the choir include "Gloria," "Let Us Rejoice Today," "Mistletoe," "I Gave My Love A Cherry" and "Little Drummer Boy."

Soloists include Kathy Cole, Lynn Stanley, Mary Young and Kathy Decker.

THE MADRIGAL singers will perform three Elizabethan dances and sing "Exultate Deo," "Holly and the Ivy," and "God Rest Ye Merry Gentlemen."

The Glee Club will present "It's The Most Wonderful Time of The Year," "Holiday Blessings," "Do You Hear What I Hear," and "Monotone Angel." Tom Condon is soloist, and Elaine Brumby the accompanist for the Glee Club.

The 120-member symphonic band, under the direction of Dave Habley, will play "Carols for Christmas," "Sleigh Ride" and "Bugler's Holiday." Trumpet soloists include Chris Peterson, John Lindenberger and Polly Paulson.

The band also will feature two numbers usually performed by university groups including "Festive Overture" by Dimitri Shostakovich and "Russian Christmas Music" by Alfred Reed.

This Santa will answer letters

A campaign by which local children can write to Santa Claus and get their letters answered is again being sponsored by the Buffalo Grove Jaycees and Jaycees.

Although the program is being operated by the Jaycees, the Jaycees are putting up the needed money. Two mailboxes have been posted, one at the Ranch Mart Shopping Center, Dundee and Buffalo Grove roads and the other at the Buffalo Grove Mall, Dundee and Arlington Heights roads. Children can deposit letters to Santa at those locations between now and Dec. 22.

The Jaycees will collect the letters and write back to every child that deposits a letter. The campaign, called Santa's mailbox, is open to children from kindergarten through second grade. Children should leave return addresses on their letters.

Wheeling firemen said fire damage was restricted to the sauna itself, which is in the basement.

Dundee Road repairs future uncertain

Work on Dundee Road remained at a standstill yesterday and state officials would not say whether paving would be called off until spring.

Albert Sifrer, project engineer for the Illinois Division of Highways, said officials were making soil tests to determine whether the ground is dry enough to continue paving.

"I couldn't venture a guess as to whether work will continue," Sifrer said. "If the ground is dry enough, they may be able to continue, but if there is a high moisture content, they may have to call it quits for the season."

With winter closing in, Sifrer said it is unlikely workers will do much more paving before spring. Cement cannot be poured at times of rain, snow or freezing temperatures, he said.

The project consists of widening 16,000 feet of Dundee Road to four lanes between Elmhurst Road and Ill. Rte. 53, through Wheeling, Arlington Heights and Buffalo Grove. Workmen began paving west from Elmhurst Road and have installed two lanes to about 300 feet west of Buffalo Grove Road.

NUMEROUS DELAYS have occurred on the project because of what the state calls weather problems and a cement shortage. Some of the delays, however, are because Greco Contractors, the firm doing the work, has other commitments, Sifrer said.

This year Greco was involved with work on Golf Road in Schaumburg, as well as with several other road projects. Greco does not have the manpower or equipment, Sifrer said, to keep up with all the projects, especially since recent weather and cement problems have set back construction.

The road has been under construction since September, 1972. Under the state contract, about 100 working days remain, before Greco will be penalized. This could give the firm through next year to complete construction. Working days are defined as those where weather and other factors will permit construction to continue.

Crash victim's condition 'fair'

A Northbrook man remained in fair condition yesterday at Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines, after a Saturday evening automobile accident in Wheeling.

Ronald J. Ferraro, 27, was admitted to the hospital after his car struck another auto operated by Kenneth E. Nicoline, 33, of Lincolnshire, at 6:33 p.m. on Wolf Road, near Strong Street. Police have charged Ferraro with failure to yield the right of way, reckless driving and failure to wear glasses as required by his driver's license.

Marjorie and Deborah Nicoline were treated at the hospital for minor injuries and released. Ferraro is to appear Jan. 8 in Arlington Heights branch of Cook County Circuit Court.

Exchange program meeting Wednesday

A meeting for parents who have sons or daughters interested in participating in the German language foreign exchange program next summer will be held at 7 p.m. on Wednesday in Room 219 at Adlai Stevenson High School.

The four-week education tour to Germany includes three weeks of study at a German school near Munich and one week of travel throughout the area. American students will be living with a German family and should have some knowledge of the language. The tour is limited to 15 students and cost will be between $500 and $600, according to Margaret Deluge, Stevenson High School German instructor.

For those parents who cannot attend the meeting Wednesday, more information may be obtained by calling the high school at 634-3434.

Hank Farm hearing delayed

The continuation of the public hearing on the proposed Hank Farm development in Lake County scheduled for tonight has again been postponed.

Buffalo Grove Plan Commission chairman Carl Genrich said yesterday the hearing has been canceled because the developer needs more time to prepare his presentation. The meeting last week was canceled.

Genrich said the public hearing will probably be continued next week.

The 66-acre development proposed by Centex Homes Corp. is north of Chevy Chase Country Club. The project which Centex has requested be annexed to the village will have 840 units consisting of 580 townhouses and 260 condominiums.

Township welfare payouts hit high mark

More than $3,500 was spent by Wheeling Township on temporary welfare assistance in November.

The township's public assistance program provides emergency short-term financial aid for residents in need. Usually the residents are those who do not qualify for the various categorical aid programs funded by the state and federal government or those who are waiting to be accepted for other assistance.

The November allocation is the largest this year. The second record spending month was June when Wheeling Township gave $3,141.60 to 23 families in need.

This year, the Wheeling Township Board of Auditors have allocated $51,300 to the general assistance fund. An average of $2,500 is spent each month by the township. Since the beginning of the fiscal year in March, Wheeling Township has spent $23,000 on welfare caring for 108 persons.

School lunch prices to jump 5 more cents

Youngsters in Des Plaines elementary schools will be paying 5 cents more for hot lunches because of increased costs for food and labor.

Dist. 62 Business Mgr. Harold Brieschke said hot lunches will cost 45 cents, effective Jan. 3. Adult lunches will increase to 60 cents. The price increase will affect all district schools including those served by Mass Feeding Corp.

Board member Kathryn Sciez attributed the price raise to rising food prices and labor costs.

"Food prices have gone up as any housewife can tell you," Mrs. Sciez said. "We're also receiving less in federal subsidies — we have to purchase foods we used to get through federal stocks."

Brieschke said there have "been increases all the way through."

"For awhile, the biggest increase was in meats. Now groceries are following right behind," he said.

NON-FOOD SUPPLIES, including paper goods, are also going up in price, according to Brieschke.

"We started getting increases last year but we tried to hold the price down," he said. "Now our records for September through Oct. 31 show a deficit of thousands of dollars for the lunch program."

The business manager noted that the federal government had previously supplied surplus food items to schools at no cost. Surplus items included pork, beef, chicken, turkey, butter, cereals, flour, canned foods, vegetables and fruits.

"The government's in a bind now — they just don't have the surplus in federal commodities anymore," he said. "These things have become scarce — the project is reduced drastically."

CAFETERIA DIRECTORS have tried "not to change the menus" because of food shortages, according to Brieschke.

"We try to maintain the same type of lunch we've always had. We don't like substitutes," he said.

Brieschke said cafeteria directors sometimes "swing to something else if something is too high priced."

EARLIER THIS YEAR, the Dist. 62 board increased milk fees to 10 cents because of a reduction in federal subsidies for the school milk program. The board later lowered the price to 5 cents when the federal government restored milk subsidies.

Brieschke said the district is in the business of educating children and can't take money from the educational fund to finance the lunch program.

"We've done very well in comparison with other school districts — most have been charging 50 and 55 cents for quite awhile," he said.

$60 in Christmas trees stolen from lot

Thieves stole $60 worth of Christmas trees from a lot near Oakton and Lee Street run by the Des Plaines Optimist Club, police said.

The six trees were discovered stolen early Saturday, according to reports.

Club members said the annual Christmas tree sale is the club's only fund-raising activity. Proceeds from the sale are distributed among such local civic organizations as the Boy Scouts, Little League baseball and the police department boys' club.

Community Chest hits 60% of goal

The Des Plaines Community Chest has collected more than 60 per cent of its 1973 fund raising drive goal and is confident of meeting the goal in the next month.

A spokesman for the Community Chest said, "It looks pretty good right now and we still are expecting more contributions to be received."

Community Chest officials had expressed concern last month about meeting the $35,000 goal, which is $11,000 more than the 1972 plateau.

The annual effort turns the money over to a number of local groups including the Salvation Army, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, Clearbrook Center, Northwest Suburban Homemakers, Northwest Suburban YMCA, USO, Maine Township Mental Health Center, Des Plaines Police Department Boys Club, Northwest Suburban Day Care Center.

Dempster bands set to play at Randhurst

The Dempster Junior High School bands have a busy pre-holiday schedule starting today at 7 p.m. when the symphonic band will play at Randhurst in the Wieboldt Mall. This is the fourth consecutive year the band has been invited to appear at Randhurst during the Christmas season.

Wednesday the symphonic and jazz bands will visit Robert Frost school in Mount Prospect, Devonshire and Brentwoods schools in Des Plaines to present Christmas concerts for the students.

The combined Dempster bands — including beginners' prep, symphonic and jazz — will present their annual Christmas concert at the school gym Thursday, from 7:30 to 9 p.m. A performance for the student body will be presented Friday. The bands are under the direction of Richard Falato.

Worthy goals

Educators have the plans; now they must outline ways to achieve their aims

by LINDA PUNCH

Personalized instruction, improved communications and more efficient administration head the lists of goals compiled by Des Plaines school officials.

Following guidelines set down by the state school superintendent's office, administrators in Des Plaines Elementary School Dist. 62 and East Maine Township Dist. 63 began drawing up objectives early this year.

Both districts conducted resident surveys and consulted with parents, teachers, administrators and students before submitting their final plan to Supt. Michael Bakalis' office.

JACK WATSON, a representative of Bakalis' office, said school districts were asked to plan long-range goals because "there needs to be a certain amount of planning in school districts and many weren't doing it."

"We want school districts to have a working plan by which they can associate on a daily basis," he said. "We want them to know the direction they're attempting to go and what they plan to accomplish."

While the state superintendent didn't lay down rigid guidelines for the goals, "We have asked that everything should be measurable," Watson said.

"We're not asking that the plans be the same. We want districts to develop a plan unique to their community," he said. "If we have 1,063 school districts, we expect 1,063 plans."

While some goals set by the East Maine schools differ from those drawn up by Dist. 62 officials both districts agreed on the need for more efficient management.

THE DIST. 62 plan calls for a "study of various goal-oriented management programs with the objective of making recommendations for future district planning and operation."

Administrators in Dist. 63 will be developing "a more organized and purposeful approach to long range planning and greater goal directed behavior." Educators will be asked "to prepare management objectives for their department for review by the superintendent."

East Maine officials said they hoped the new management program "will aid the district in establishing priorities, help in decision making, contribute to greater teacher involvement . . . and provide a sounder basis for accountability."

BOTH DISTRICTS plan changes in their communications system with Dist. 62 beginning a study of "the existing avenues of communication to make recommendations for their maintenance, improvement or elimination."

The Dist. 63 board recently completed a study of communications and will act on a new plan at their Dec. 18 meeting. The plans include a district-wide newsletter, district-wide rap sessions and improved inter-school communications.

Goals of both East Maine and Des Plaines elementary schools call for more individualized instruction for students.

EDUCATIONAL OBJECTIVES for the East Maine Schools include:

- Respect for the individual child and the preservation of his individuality and uniqueness.
- Development of a sustaining positive self-concept and a feeling of personal worth on the part of the child.
- The providing of maximum opportunities to help each child become a worthwhile member of his community.

STUDENT GOALS in Dist. 62 include:

- Providing experiences to help students master the basic skills of reading, communication, computation and problem solving.
- Fostering a feeling of adequacy and self-worth on the part of all students.
- Providing students with opportunities to explore the world of work.
- Providing students with experiences which bring about appreciation for and positive attitudes towards different persons and cultures.
- Providing students with experiences resulting in habits and attitudes associated with citizenship responsibilities.
- Helping students develop an understanding of good physical health and well-being.

Helping students develop a positive attitude towards participation in a range of leisure time activities — physical, intellectual and creative.

Helping students cultivate an appreciation for beauty in the arts and in the world around them.

IN THE AREA of rights and responsibilities of individuals, Dist. 62 plans to develop a system of "due process" for students and to review the due process procedure for staff.

East Maine officials said the board makes "great efforts to seek dialogue with all factions of the public without abrogating its responsibilities." The administration will continue to involve staff in program planning while considering students' rights.

Dist. 63 goals for the instructional program include the establishment of a council of teachers and administrators to develop a curriculum framework. The district is also working to expand pupil services and develop comprehensive policies on pupil personnel.

IN DIST. 62, a committee will study the development of techniques of personalized instruction with special emphasis on the reading program.

Dist. 62 will implement most of its goals by the end of the 1974 school year. Dist. 63 will work towards implementation through 1975.

Gunman flees with $2,000 in cafe loot

A Des Plaines restaurant was robbed Sunday by a gunman who ordered a manager to hand over $2,000 in cash before fleeing in a waiting car driven by another man.

According to police, the holdup occurred at the Bonanza Sirolo Pit, 1249 Elmhurst Rd. Police said the man entered about 9:40 p.m., ordered dinner and at one point began talking to an employee.

The man reportedly told the girl he was having car trouble and wanted to call a repairman. He asked her for change for a $20 bill so he could make the telephone call but when the two went into an office to get the change, the man pulled a pistol, according to reports.

The gunman reportedly told her "to come by me and you won't get hurt." He rounded up two more employees and herded them into the office of night manager Ronald Hoffman who was counting the receipts. No other diners were present at the time.

He demanded the cash and told Hoffman to give him more money from a closed safe but Hoffman told him he was unable to open it.

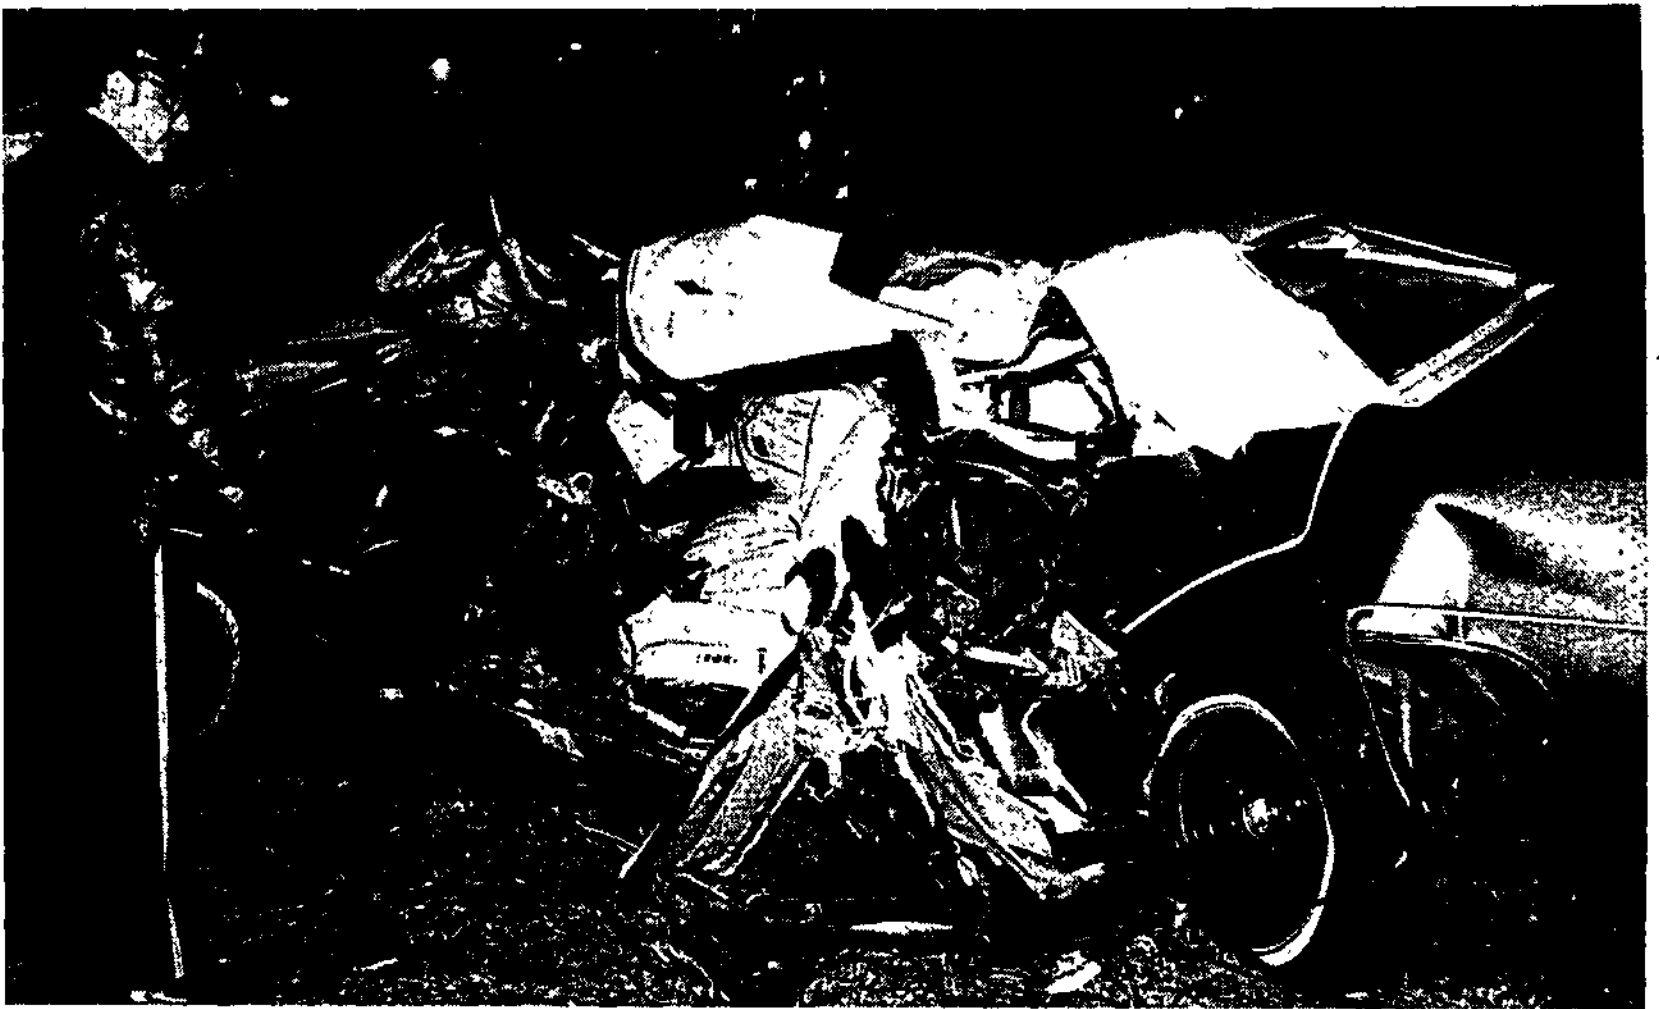

BEFORE MAKING his escape, the robber threatened to shoot any of the employees who came out of the office. Police said a fourth worker who was carrying out garbage at the time of the holdup saw the gunman run from the restaurant and jump into a car, which sped off southbound down Elmhurst Road.

The gunman was described as 24 to 25, about 5 feet 10 inches tall, with a medium build and with a black mustache and dark curly hair. He wore a green corduroy jacket and blue jeans, police said.

No description of the accomplice could be obtained and police withheld the description of the getaway car.

Det. Al Freitag said yesterday the possibility of a link between the Des Plaines holdup and a pair of other Sunday night steak house robberies in Niles and Westmont was under investigation.

A DES PLAINE police investigator looks over the wrecked 1974 Cadillac that was struck by a Chicago and North Western Ry. train late Sunday night. Two people died in the crash after the driver apparently crashed through a crossing gate at River Road and Rand Road and was hit broadside by the train.

Victims trapped inside auto

Two killed in car-train collision

A man and a woman were killed when their auto was struck by a Chicago and North Western Ry. freight train at River Road near Rand Road. The impact pushed the car nearly one-half mile to Grace-land Street.

Both victims were trapped inside the wrecked auto. Des Plaines firefighters were able to free one victim in 15 minutes but needed more than an hour to remove the driver, Lawrence Fronczak, 37, of 641 York Rd., Bensenville, and formerly of Prospect Heights. He was pronounced dead on arrival at Holy Family Hospital.

His passenger, Christine Omasta, 22, of 452 Division in Villa Park, died in Holy Family of multiple fractures at 3:20 a.m. Monday, a few hours after the accident.

Fronczak was an executive with Illinois Switchboard Corp., 135 Fay, in Addison and Mrs. Omasta worked as his secretary.

THE COLLISION occurred at about 11:10 p.m. Sunday while the two were driving southbound on River Road. Fronczak drove through the lowered crossing gates according to reports.

The engineer of the westbound freight told police he saw the auto nearing the crossing but said it failed to slow down, crashed through the gates and was struck broadside by the train.

Des Plaines police Patrolman Mike Banner, on patrol at the time reported watching the train, traveling at 40 mph, carry the auto several hundred feet.

According to reports, firefighters had to use chains to pull the auto's twisted wreckage from the front of the train.

Police said the two victims had been at a party earlier that evening.

Two township party hopefuls fail to file petitions

by BOB LAHEY

Two hopeful challengers to party leaders in their suburban townships were absent from the list of candidates who filed nominating petitions for the March 19 primary elections with the Cook County clerk yesterday.

Missing were the names of Kent Kirkwood of Mount Prospect, who hopes to unseat Democratic Township Committeeman William B. Rose in Elk Grove Township, and Anton Valukas of Palatine, challenger to Republican Township Committeeman Bernard E. Pedersen in Palatine Township.

Three contests for the Democratic committeemen's jobs were officially begun in other townships as challengers and incumbents filed their petitions on the first day that filing is allowed.

KIRKWOOD TOLD The Herald yesterday he is still seeking signatures on his nominating petitions and hopes to enter

Regner won't seek treasurer post

State Sen. David J. Regner, R-Mount Prospect, said yesterday he has decided not to enter an election contest against State Treasurer Alan J. Dixon.

Regner was one of several candidates suggested for the contest by Republican State Chairman Don Adams, and he said he had been urged by many "prominent Republicans" to enter the race.

He said, however, that he felt an obligation to finish his four-year term in the Senate, to which he was elected last year after three terms in the House of Representatives.

State Sen. David J. Regner

the contest against Rose before the filing deadline next Monday. Kirkwood said he had encountered "more difficulty than I had hoped" in obtaining the 647 signatures required to place his name on the ballot.

Valukas could not be reached for comment.

Among Democrats, contests are in store for the committeemen's jobs in Wheeling, Palatine and Schaumburg townships.

Wheeling Township Committeeman Donald L. Norman and challenger Nathaniel P. Leighton, both of Arlington Heights, both filed their petitions yesterday. In Schaumburg Township, the contest is between incumbent Committeeman John F. Morrissey and former committeeman William W. Holmes Jr. Palatine Township Committeeman Richard A. Mugalian is being challenged again by Peter J. Gerling, whom Mugalian defeated in 1970 for the post.

TOWNSHIP committeemen are the only officials elected in the primary election, in which the nominees of the two parties are selected for other offices. The committeeman's job is non-salaried.

Three Republicans and one Democrat, in addition to Rose and Pedersen, remain without opposition for reelection as committeemen in Northwest suburban townships.

The only Democrat against whom no challenge has been attempted is Nicholas Blase of Niles in Maine Township. His Republican counterpart, County Commissioner Floyd Fuller of Des Plaines, is also without opposition.

Running unopposed for reelection are Republicans Carl R. Hansen of Elk Grove Township and Donald L. Totten of Schaumburg Township.

No petitions have yet been filed by Republicans in Wheeling Township, where insurance agent Fred Yonkers of Arlington Heights is expected to run without opposition to succeed incumbent Richard A. Cowen, who is retiring from the post.

Resident support asked for Friendship Park pool

Des Plaines residents living within the boundaries of the Mount Prospect Park District are being urged by Ald. Richard Ward (8th) to alert district officials that they will support a future referendum to put a pool at Friendship Park.

Ward said persons living west of Mount Prospect Road who received the park district publication "Fun Talk" should complete an enclosed opinion questionnaire and voice their support of the pool.

The questionnaire asks residents what programs they would like the park district to provide, what facilities they feel are needed, etc.

According to the west side alderman a referendum to build the pool as well as provide money to purchase the Gregory Park site at the northern end of the district in Mount Prospect, would cost taxpayers about $3 a year.

Plans have been in the works for a Friendship Park Pool, which would be located at Algonquin and Janice, for about five years, Ward said. Des Plaines people in the district now use the pool at Lions Park, "a car ride away," he said.

Answering the questionnaires and showing support of the pool referendum "is the most effective way of showing interest in programs that could be in your own neighborhood," Ward said.

The alderman has sent newsletters to residents of his ward, urging their cooperation.

Maine West Yule concert set

Vocalists, the concert band and the concert orchestra of Maine West High School will present their 15th annual Christmas Concert in the High School auditorium, Friday at 8 p.m. The production is under the direction of Robert Kulte, music department chairman; Francis Vaupel, director of orchestras; Donald Lord, choral director; Theodore Vargas, associate choral director; and Paul Magnusson, director of bands.

Performing with the concert choir will be a newly established mixed chorus in its first appearance.

The vocalists will blend traditional Christmas songs with the rock idiom of today for their selections. There will be songs from Handel's "Messiah" performed with solo selections by Tom Sandri and Sue Spiegler. Carol Padochi will sing Schubert's "Ave Maria." Also included in the selections will be "Jazz Gloria" and "Hey Manger Child" performed with instrumental accompaniment.

THE MAINE WEST Choralists will perform a medley of Christmas songs including "Home for Christmas" and "What Child Is This."

Arson suspected in auto fire

Arson is suspected in the fire that caused an undetermined amount of damage to an auto owned by Ralph Rabus, 1227 Washington St., late Friday.

According to reports, a bunch of maps were placed under the front seat of the auto and apparently set afire. The car was left in a parking lot outside an apartment building and the flames were extinguished by Des Plaines firemen.

Police said they were investigating a similar auto fire there that occurred last Nov. 15.

School furniture sale set Saturday

East Maine School Dist. 63 is conducting a sale of excess and obsolete school furniture. This equipment is 10 years old or more. The furniture can be put to good use in individual homes but is of limited value in current classrooms, the district reported.

The sale will take place at Ballard School Parking Lot, 8320 Ballard Rd., Niles Saturday, 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Items for sale will be: Wooden desks with seat attached, metal and wooden desks with seat attached and chairs of various sizes. Items will be reasonably priced.

In case of rain the sale will be held inside.

EVEN SHINED, an apple may not be as bright as a lighted ornament, but it does have the added advantage of being edible after the Christmas spirit wears off. Paula Raymond, a member of the Colleens Junior Color Guard of Des Plaines, prepares her delectable decoration for display at the recent Christmas tree decorating contest sponsored by the Mount Prospect Plaza Merchants Association. Paula's color guard placed second to the Good Samaritan Senior M.Y.F. Six organizations entered the contest, the first year it was held locally.

Two area burglaries reported to police

Burglars netted television sets, a radio, tape recorder and cash valued at $800 from two Des Plaines residents during separate break-ins, according to police reports.

Richard Rossi, 2220 Chestnut St., told police a pair of television sets were taken from his home after burglars forced their way in through a storm door Friday. The two sets were valued at $450, police said.

A total of $53 cash, a radio and a tape recorder valued at another $350 were taken from the home of Ronald Leach, 1104 Seymour Ave., police said.

Leach's son, 13, told police he was returning home from school Friday afternoon and noticed a broken storm window in the rear of the house and that a front door had been opened.

The burglars entered a bedroom where they stole the cash and took the radio and recorder from a family room, according to reports.

Village United Fund reaches 99%; total $11,850

Elk Grove United Fund has topped 99 per cent of its goal and is shooting for 100 per cent plus.

Michael Leyden, president of this year's drive, said contributions now total about $11,850. Goal for this year is $12,000.

"We'll be well over the $12,000 mark, I have no doubt about that," said Leyden. He would not speculate on what the total drive could reach.

Contributions still are expected from Elk Grove Township School Dist. 59 and the village municipal government. High School Dist. 214 already has donated $1,222 to the drive.

A second mailing is now being sent to the industrial park which is expected to further boost the drive's collection, according to Leyden.

The Bank of Elk Grove became one of several industries and businesses to make a large donation with a $600 contribution.

IN ADDITION to the contributions from government agencies and industrial firms, the United Fund also solicited money from the residential areas of the village with a door-to-door campaign in October. The campaign raised about $3,000.

Anyone who was not contacted during the door-to-door and who would like to make a donation can send the money to: Elk Grove United Fund; P.O. Box 131; Elk Grove Village, Ill., 60007.

The Elk Grove United Fund is run by unpaid volunteers and the administrative expenses are less than 3 per cent of the budget.

All money collected by the Elk Grove United Fund remains in the community to serve residents of the area.

LOCAL AGENCIES receiving assistance from the Elk Grove United Fund are: Clearbrook Center for the mentally and physically handicapped; local Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and Camp Fire Girls; the Elk Grove-Schaumburg Township Mental Health Center; Northwest Suburban Homemaker Service, and the U.S.O.

The village fund is a member of the Suburban Community Chest. The suburban organization with the Community Chest of Chicago and the Red Cross form the Metropolitan Crusade of Mercy.

Calish in 'Guide'

An article by Richard Calish, head of the Elk Grove High School humanities division, appears in the December issue of Chicago Guide magazine.

The article, "Thanks Ma," is a recollection of a mispent boyhood in the forties on Chicago's South Side and is part of a longer work, "Memoirs of a Mad Nostalgic," which comments on the '30s and '40s in the Hyde Park section of Chicago.

RINGING THE BELLS and looking for money, Nanci Vanderweel, George Coney and June Barry operate first year Salvation Army kettles in the village.

Volunteers still needed

One day in the life of a Salvation Army bell ringer

by FRED GACA

"Are you in the German Army or the American Army?" asked the little boy as he pointed to the sign above the kettle.

"Neither," I replied, "this is for the Salvation Army."

"The Salvation Army?" he said. As a quizzical look crossed his face, the little boy shook his head and walked away — another little incident in the life of a Salvation Army bell-ringer.

The familiar red kettle with the bell-ringer standing next to it can now be seen for the first time this Christmas in Elk Grove Village. Kettles are placed at the Bank of Elk Grove and several shopping centers on Friday evenings and all day Saturday until Christmas.

Most of the bell-ringers, myself included, are volunteers with no connection to the Salvation Army, but who thought it would be a good idea to help a worthy cause.

BEING A bell-ringer is an opportunity to do "instant analysis" on people.

Those who do not place money in the kettle always look the other way, they avoid your eyes and pretend you are not there.

The donors exhibit a variety of styles. Some people sneak up to the kettle, make a quick toss with their money and scurry away. Others walk up smiling and joking as they place their money in the kettle.

Some people try to appear as nonchalant as possible as they make their contribution.

Most of the donations were quarters, but some people would toss in whatever change they had in their hand after walking out of the food store or drug store.

THE EXCEPTION to the "quarter or spare change" rule were the little old ladies — some of them bent, all of them walking slow. Whenever one approached the kettle, she always held a tightly folded dollar bill which she would carefully place in the kettle.

Young children were the most fun to watch. They would stare at you, wondering why anyone would be outside on a cold day just standing and ringing a bell.

Usually they would ask their mother or father, "Why is that man there ringing the bell?" If the parent did answer, it would be to say the man was collecting money to help other people.

"Can I have some money to put in?" or "Are you going to put in some money?" was usually the next thing the child would say to his mother or father.

Quickly realizing they had been cornered by their child, the parent would reach into a pocket or purse, pull out some change and give it to the child, saying, "Put it in the kettle."

FOR THE HOUR I was a bell-ringer, teenagers, with one exception, ignored the bell or the kettle. The one exception occurred as two boys wearing Elk Grove High School jackets walked past.

One of the boys stopped, walked to the kettle and put in a dollar. His companion gave him what can only be described as a stunned look and mumbled something about not having any change.

After my hour as a bell-ringer I started getting cold, but I felt satisfied. I guessed that during the time I was out there, people had donated about $20.

Volunteers are still needed for the next two weekends. More kettles could have been placed if more people had volunteered as bell-ringers.

Anyone willing to work for an hour or more, either Friday night or on Saturday can volunteer by calling the village hall at 439-3900 and asking for either Trustee Nanci Vanderweel or George Coney, director of finance.

And remember, it's for the Salvation Army, not the German or American army.

High school Yule break is extended

High School Dist. 214 schools will close Jan. 3 and 4 to cut back on the district's fuel this winter.

The Board of Education agreed on the closing at its meeting last night. The closing was proposed by the district energy conservation committee and representatives of student councils from the district's eight high schools.

The closing will lengthen Christmas vacation by two days since classes were scheduled to resume Thursday, Jan. 3. The extra vacation days will be classified as emergency days and will not be made up at the end of the school year. The district is allowed five emergency days each year by the state.

IN A PRESENTATION to the board last night, student council members said the district would conserve 1,326 gallons of gasoline for buses, 2,000 gallons for automobiles used by students and teachers to commute to school, 1,066 kilowatt hours of electricity and would reduce fuel consumption for heating school buildings by 25 per cent during the two days.

In a written proposal, the students said, "We believe that the board should take this action because it is necessary that the school district assume the position of leadership on this issue. As an agency of local government, the school district should set an example for the community."

Supt. Edward Gilbert, in recommending the closing, said elementary schools in the Dist. 214 area are also considering closing on Jan. 3 and 4. It would be easier for families to plan vacations during the holidays if both the high schools and elementary schools close on the same days, he said.

Elk Grove Township Elementary Dist. 59 and River Trails Elementary Dist. 26 have announced the closing of school on Jan. 3 and 4.

Although teachers and students will not attend school on these days, Dist. 214 employees with 10 and 12-month contracts will be on duty, including administrators, custodians and maintenance workers, said Gilbert.

SPECIAL WORKSHOPS in one of the school buildings will be planned for administrators during the extended vacation period, he said. The board was also expected to consider other energy conservation measures last night, including curtailing activities on Sunday in the schools with the exception of religious services, reassessment for the need of school activities scheduled for Saturdays, and reduction in the number of student field trips.

The board asked Gilbert to consider the closing of school during the winter months as an emergency conservation measure when he and superintendents of the elementary districts plan next year's school calendar.

Concert at Lively

Students, teachers differ on education goals

by KATHERINE BOYCE

High School Dist. 211 students say their major objective in school is to learn how to get along with other people.

But their parents feel learning the basic skills of reading, writing, speaking and listening should be the most important part of their education and teachers and administrators in Dist. 211 agree with the parents.

This is one of the conclusions that can be drawn from the ranking educational goals and objectives by Dist. 211 students, teachers, parents and administrators last month.

They were asked to rank a list of 18 general educational goals in order of importance and last week they rated the five high schools in Dist. 211 as to how well they are fulfilling these goals.

Dist. 211 officials will use the results of these rankings as a guide in planning education programs for the future.

THE RESULTS OF the survey of 60 students, 250 parents, 60 teachers and a majority of the administrators in Dist. 211 have been computed into averages. Students gave highest priority to the goals, "learn to respect and get along with people with whom we work and live," "develop good character and self respect," and "develop skills to enter a specific field of work."

Parents, teachers and administrators gave high priority to the goal, "develop skills in reading, writing, speaking and listening." Parents and teachers agreed on the priority given the goal, "learn how to examine and use information," and parents and administrators agreed on the goal to "gain a general education."

Teachers agreed with students in giving high priority to developing good character and self-respect.

DIST. 211 administrative assistant Jim Merrins said, "All the goals have merit. There is no right or wrong ranking." If the parent did answer, it would be to say the man was collecting money to help other people.

For instance, teachers, parents and administrators gave high priority to intellectual goals emphasizing basic skills and general education, but teachers also agreed with students and gave high priority to personal goals such as developing good character.

Administrators agreed with parents "because most of them are parents and are members of the same community," said Merrins. "Students, of course, don't perceive things the way adults do," because they are more concerned about personal goals, said Merrins. "Identity is a big thing for them at this point in their life." Teachers see a need for "a balance between the teaching of skills and the teaching of a healthy attitude," he said.

ALL FOUR groups did tend to agree on the goals they think are the least important. Those were: "Understand and practice the skills of family living," "practice and understand the ideas of health and safety," and "appreciate culture and beauty in the world."

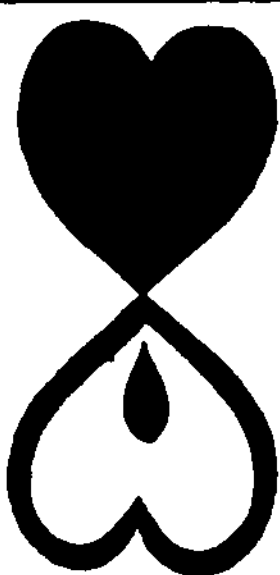

There was "virtually no difference" in the rankings by parents from the five high school attendance areas, said Merrins. Where there was disagreement, the difference was slight and involved medium-priority goals.

THE PARENTS' ratings of how the schools do their job won't be tabulated for another month, said Merrins, but preliminary indications are that "people are satisfied with what the school is doing." They said the schools are doing a good job on fulfilling the high priority goals, but were not in agreement on the lower priority goals, Merrins said.

The results of the rankings will not sit on a shelf in a district office and never be used, said Merrins. Dist. 211 officials plan to use the results as a tool in reviewing and writing new curricula. "It is the type of tool that gives you more information and opens up more alternatives. While it can't be followed as religion, it provides us with something we didn't know before," he said.

The rating system should be repeated regularly, said Merrins, who recommends that the district ask for another evaluation in two to four years.

Annual goal: 900 units
Already donated: 807 units

Elk Grove Village was credited with 30 units (pints) of blood last week in the North Suburban Blood Bank program. Three units were donated at Alexian Brothers Medical Center and one unit was given at Lutheran General Hospital.

The remaining 36 units were donated at various locations during November, but the village was not credited with the donations until this week.

Donations will be taken Saturday at Alexian Brothers. Persons interested in giving blood may call the hospital at 437-5500 to make an appointment.

The village is now only 93 units short of its goal for this year.

Elk Grove Village is a member of the North Suburban Blood Bank four per cent program. Under the program, if four per cent of the village's residents donate blood, all residents are guaranteed free replacement of any needed blood.

Two township party hopefuls fail to file petitions

by BOB LAHEY

Two hopeful challengers to party leaders in their suburban townships were absent from the list of candidates who filed nominating petitions for the March 19 primary elections with the Cook County clerk yesterday.

Missing were the names of Kent Kirkwood of Mount Prospect, who hopes to unseat Democratic Township Committeeman William B. Rose in Elk Grove Township, and Anton Valukas of Palatine, challenger to Republican Township Committeeman Bernard E. Pedersen in Palatine Township.

Three contests for the Democratic committeemen's jobs were officially begun in other townships as challengers and incumbents filed their petitions on the first day that filing is allowed.

KIRKWOOD TOLD The Herald yesterday he is still seeking signatures on his nominating petitions and hopes to enter

Regner won't seek treasurer post

State Sen. David J. Regner, R-Mount Prospect, said yesterday he has decided not to enter an election contest against State Treasurer Alan J. Dixon.

Regner was one of several candidates suggested for the contest by Republican State Chairman Don Adams, and he said he had been urged by many "prominent Republicans" to enter the race.

He said, however, that he felt an obligation to finish his four-year term in the Senate, to which he was elected last year after three terms in the House of Representatives.

the contest against Rose before the filing deadline next Monday. Kirkwood said he had encountered "more difficulty than I had hoped" in obtaining the 647 signatures required to place his name on the ballot.

State Sen. David J. Regner

Valukas could not be reached for comment.

Among Democrats, contests are in store for the committeemen's jobs in Wheeling, Palatine and Schaumburg townships.

Wheeling Township Committeeman Donald L. Norman and challenger Nathaniel P. Leighton, both of Arlington Heights, both filed their petitions yesterday. In Schaumburg Township, the contest is between incumbent Committeeman John F. Morrissey and former committeeman William W. Holmes Jr. Palatine Township Committeeman Richard A. Muggliani is being challenged again by Peter J. Gerling, whom Muggliani defeated in 1970 for the post.

TOWNSHIP committeemen are the only officials elected in the primary election, in which the nominees of the two parties are selected for other offices. The committeeman's job is non-salaried.

Three Republicans and one Democrat, in addition to Rose and Pedersen, remain without opposition for reelection as committeemen in Northwest suburban townships.

The only Democrat against whom no challenge has been attempted is Nicholas Blase of Niles in Maine Township. His Republican counterpart, County Commissioner Floyd Fulle of Des Plaines, is also without opposition.

Running unopposed for reelection are Republicans Carl R. Hansen of Elk Grove Township and Donald L. Totten of Schaumburg Township.

No petitions have yet been filed by Republicans in Wheeling Township, where insurance agent Fred Yonkers of Arlington Heights is expected to run without opposition to succeed incumbent Richard A. Cowen, who is retiring from the post.

Dist. 54 wrapup

New high school named for Adlai

It wasn't on the list of 31 suggestions for naming Schaumburg Township School Dist. 54's proposed Elk Grove elementary school, but board members selected "Adlai E. Stevenson Jr." as the school's name.

Board member Gordon Thoren said he was not critical of the name during Thursday's board meeting. The board had earlier received 31 suggestions for naming the second Dist. 54 school in Elk Grove Village but did not vote on any except the name suggested by Mrs. Czajkowski.

She said she proposed Stevenson because of his distinguished career as diplomat to the United Nations and his service as Governor of Illinois.

Board member Gordon Thoren said he was not critical of any single person but felt selecting a politician's name was not wise. "Things happen, like in Hoffman Estates where a park was named after a politician and now people are ashamed of it," he said.

Stevenson School construction is scheduled to begin in 1975 on a site at Nerge Road and Armstrong Lane.

New voting district planned

Elk Grove Village residents who live in Schaumburg Township School Dist. 54 will no longer be part of Precinct 1 if district officials follow through on plans to create a new voting precinct in that area.

Marvin Lapicola, assistant superintendent for finance, said the district's preparation for a Feb. 16, $16 million referendum includes splitting Precinct 1 into two voting districts.

He said Elk Grove residents would probably be assigned to a new precinct numbered 11. Those residents who reside east of Roselle Road and in the Carlyle and Lexington Hills developments would stay in Precinct 1. He said boundary lines would be finalized shortly and new precinct maps made available.

A sampling of Schaumburg Township School Dist. 54 residents will be asked, as part of an attitude survey, to comment in writing about how well the district operates its schools.

Citizens' attitude survey

The community relations committee has been working with the notion of a citizens' survey since September. Thursday board members approved a seven-page questionnaire that will go to about 2,000 homes.

The survey was developed by the committee with help from Dr. Harold Collins of Northern Illinois University.

It asks people to consider to what extent the school district is satisfying the needs of the community, regarding student concerns programs, facility utilization, personnel practices and communication. It also asks people to note possible changes they would like to see even if it would mean an increase in taxes.

Scouting news

Twenty-one new bobcats were taken in to Cub Scout Pack 292 at the November meeting. The scouts met at Admiral Byrd School, 265 Wellington Ave.

Recognition awards were presented to the following retiring committee members and den mothers: Jean Jessup, Rita Baltis, Kathy Driscoll, Sharon Gorman and Nick Baltis.

Call Santa at 437-1000

Santa Claus will be taking calls again tonight at his home in the North Pole. Elk Grove Village youngsters who would like to chat with him, can reach Santa at a special number, 437-1000. Santa will be receiving calls from 7 p.m. to 9:30 p.m.

The Elk Grove Village Jaycees, through the cooperation of Elk Grove Township School Dist. 58, will be helping Santa tonight through Thursday.

Santa will be available again tomorrow and Thursday nights from 7 p.m. to 9:30 p.m.

Wire stolen

Rolls of copper wire, valued at $500 to $600, were taken from Sola Electric Industries, 1717 Busse Rd.

According to Elk Grove Village police, the theft happened early Friday morning. Four rolls of wire, weighing 85 pounds each, and one 80-pound bucket of wire, were taken. No signs of forced entry were observed.

Special committee meeting, too

Schools to weigh plans for new building tomorrow

Plans for a new school building in Palatine-Rolling Meadows School Dist. 15 will be discussed at the school board meeting tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the school district administration center, 605 S. Quentin Rd., Palatine.

A special meeting of the board as a committee of the whole will be held prior to the regular board meeting to go over some of the background for the specifications. This special meeting will also be held at the administration center, beginning at 7:15 p.m. tomorrow.

Plans for the new school include only major ideas for a new school, not specific design proposals, according to Deputy Supt. Joseph Kiszka. "It's not to be confused with design," he said.

KISZKA SAID the specifications will "someday be applied to the construction of a new building." He added that the board will decide where and when this school will be built on the basis of enrollment projections that will also be presented tomorrow night.

Kiszka said he did not know when the board would make a final decision regarding the construction of a new school building.

No referendum will have to be held to approve funds for a new school building because voters in Dist. 15 accepted a $3.5 million referendum in 1971. That vote approved a $1 million expenditure for Palatine Hills Junior High School and the construction of two elementary schools.

NEITHER OF those two elementary schools has been constructed. One was scheduled to open in the fall of 1974 in the western section of the district. The other, scheduled to open in the fall of 1975, was to be located in the northern part of the district. The district presently owns the proposed sites for the two schools.

The discussion of a new school comes two months after the approval of a 4,472 residential development in the western part of the school district called Westbury.

The development, which is being constructed on the old Howie-in-the-Hills site, lies between Hoffman Estates and Winston Knolls. Present plans call for 400 four-bedroom single-family homes; 4,000 apartments, townhouses and condominiums plus two commercial areas.

MOST OF THE youngsters from Winston Knolls are attending Hunting Ridge School. But because of overcrowded conditions at the school, the sixth graders are going to Willow Bend and the first graders are being sent to Pleasant Hill.

The addition of a possible more than 1,800 students from the Westbury development, would overstrain existing facilities even more.

Also being discussed at tomorrow's board meeting is the possibility of extending Christmas vacation in order to help the national fuel conservation effort.

Petition for longer school vacation 'to save energy'

High School Dist. 211 students are asking the board of education to conserve fuel this winter by closing school on Jan. 3 and 4.

Fremd High School student Dan Hamilton said yesterday a petition to extend the Christmas holiday for two extra days has been signed by 600 students at Fremd. He said he hopes students in the other four Dist. 211 schools will also sign petitions. Classes are now scheduled to resume Jan. 3.

Hamilton said students will bring the petitions to the next school board meeting Dec. 20. Many of the teachers at Fremd are supporting the student petition, he said, and he hopes parents will also support it.

BY CLOSING school, the district would save about 800 gallons of gasoline a day used for school buses plus electricity and fuel for heating the schools, said Hamilton. He said elementary schools in the Dist. 211 area are considering closing school on Jan. 3 and 4. If Dist. 211 kept its schools open it would hinder families that are planning a vacation during the holidays, he said.

The Palatine-Rolling Meadows elementary Dist. 15 board will consider school closing when it meets tomorrow night. Schaumburg Township School Dist. 54 board members have said they will keep school open on Jan. 3 and 4.

The Dist. 211 students are suggesting that the two days be among the five emergency days allowed by the state each year, or that the district extend the school year for two extra days next summer.

Dist. 211 Supt. Richard Kolze said last week the board would close schools only as a last resort. Cutbacks have been made in the district's use of energy, he said, but the board has placed a high priority on keeping schools open. "The daytime instructional program would be the last thing that's affected," he said.

TOYS, GAMES AND CLOTHES added up to a day of excitement for Shawn Russell (right) and 125 other youngsters from the Palatine area and Chicago Saturday. Members of the Palatine Baptist Church, 1023 E.

Palatine Rd., Palatine, donated toys and clothes for a party for youngsters in kindergarten through sixth grade. And if Pat Bennett's smile is any indication, giving is at least half the fun.

Master plan review

Palatine's updated master plan will be reviewed by the Palatine Plan Commission at a special meeting tonight at 8 at village hall, 54 S. Brockway St.

Health board asked by panel

The reestablishment of a health board was recommended to the Palatine Village Board last night.

The recommendation was the outcome of a joint meeting between the village board and members of the environmental control board.

Mark McLeod, ECB chairman, said he thought reestablishment of the health board was necessary because the present spectrum of the ECB was too broad to adequately handle the health and environmental problems facing the village.

McLeod added the current structure of the ECB had resulted in some resignations because of the bimonthly meeting schedule. The ECB is currently required to have a doctor on the board, a position that has been difficult to fill. But McLeod said the position might be easier to fill on a board of health because it could conceivably meet quarterly.

THE BOARD OF health would handle food programs, communicable diseases, senior citizen problems and health problems, according to Richard Dawson, health director.

Specific priorities for the proposed health board will be presented at a second joint meeting next Monday when the formation of the health board will be discussed again.

Water resources was given top priority for the ECB if it is reorganized. This would include establishing a state approved laboratory for water samplings and a soil erosion program, said McLeod.

Other priorities were mosquito abatement, solid waste disposal, animal control and noise.

The original health board was disbanded in 1971 with the formation of the ECB. At that time it was felt the health board was outdated and its problems could be handled under the newly created ECB.

Two hopeful challengers to party leaders in their suburban townships were absent from the list of candidates who filed nominating petitions for the March 19 primary elections with the Cook County clerk yesterday.

Missing were the names of Kent Kirkwood of Mount Prospect, who hopes to unseat Democratic Township Committeeman William B. Rose in Elk Grove Township, and Anton Valukas of Palatine, challenger to Republican Township Committeeman Bernard E. Pedersen in Palatine Township.

Three contests for the Democratic committeemen's jobs were officially begun in other townships as challengers and incumbents filed their petitions on the first day that filing is allowed.

Regner won't seek treasurer post

State Sen. David J. Regner, R-Mount Prospect, said yesterday he has decided not to enter an election contest against State Treasurer Alan J. Dixon.

Regner was one of several candidates suggested for the contest by Republican State Chairman Don Adams, and he said he had been urged by many "prominent Republicans" to enter the race.

He said, however, that he felt an obligation to finish his four-year term in the Senate, to which he was elected last year after three terms in the House of Representatives.

the contest against Rose before the filing deadline next Monday. Kirkwood said he had encountered "more difficulty than I had hoped" in obtaining the 647 signatures required to place his name on the ballot.

Valukas could not be reached for comment.

Among Democrats, contests are in store for the committeemen's jobs in Wheeling, Palatine and Schaumburg townships.

Wheeling Township Committeeman Donald L. Norman and challenger Nathaniel P. Leighton, both of Arlington Heights, both filed their petitions yesterday. In Schaumburg Township, the contest is between incumbent Committeeman John F. Morrissey and former committeeman William W. Holmes Jr. Palatine Township Committeeman Richard A. Mugalian is being challenged again by Peter J. Gerling, whom Mugalian defeated in 1970 for the post.

TOWNSHIP committeemen are the only officials elected in the primary election, in which the nominees of the two parties are selected for other offices. The committeemen's job is non-salaried.

Three Republicans and one Democrat, in addition to Rose and Pedersen, remain without opposition for reelection as committeemen in Northwest suburban townships.

The only Democrat against whom no challenge has been attempted is Nicholas Blase of Niles in Maine Township. His Republican counterpart, County Commissioner Floyd Fulle of Des Plaines, is also without opposition.

Running unopposed for reelection are Republicans Carl R. Hansen of Elk Grove Township and Donald L. Totten of Schaumburg Township.

No petitions have yet been filed by Republicans in Wheeling Township, where insurance agent Fred Yonkers of Arlington Heights is expected to run without opposition to succeed incumbent Richard A. Cowen, who is retiring from the post.

Former resident being extradited on theft charges

The former manager of the Palatine Pump, at Northwest Highway and Glencoe Road is being extradited from Florida today by Palatine police for allegedly taking $3,800 in receipts from the station last March.

Cris Trikes, formerly of 136 N. Bothwell St., Palatine, is being returned after he was arrested in Florida for an unrelated incident. Florida police issued a message with Trikes' name on the nationwide LEADS computer system, and his name was picked up at the Palatine station.

A governor's warrant was issued to bring Trikes back to Illinois, after he refused to waive extradition. Two Palatine detectives flew to Florida recently to pick up Trikes.

He will be charged in the March 13 theft of four days' receipts from the station.

Patrolman promoted to sergeant post

Palatine Patrolman John Setzer was promoted to sergeant Wednesday, following a series of written and oral examinations by the Palatine Fire and Police Commission. Setzer has been a member of the department since 1964.

Testing for the vacant sergeant position created a controversy and subsequent lawsuit last spring, when 16 patrolmen signed a complaint against the Fire and Police Commission charging unfair administration of the test. Those charges were dismissed later, and the court ordered the tests retaken.

Setzer joins the department's four other sergeants as a middle commander, ranking between patrolmen and lieutenants.

youngster who accidentally rubbed some of the soap in his eye.

FOR NOW, THE center is operating with four teachers, including administrator Arlene Alvis. The initial problems of organizing and adjusting to the program have apparently been overcome, but qualified substitutes for the teachers in the center are still needed.

"It's shaped up just beautifully. A lot of things were just trial and error, but now we're used to the routine," Mrs. Alvis said. And as for the children, "they have accepted us very well."

Many of the children who come from poor or broken homes have suffered some emotional problems in their young lives.

"I had no idea the need was as great as it is," Mrs. Alvis said. She has worked for the past 12 years as an assistant at Palatine's Flower Garden Nursery School.

Discipline for the preschoolers in the center involves "removing the child from a situation," to a quieter or calmer spot. The overriding policy of teachers in the center, a policy that the children are taught from their first day, is "that they may not hurt anybody, and we're here to be sure nobody hurts them," Mrs. Alvis explained.

DURING ONE morning in the center, the only danger of harm came from an indignant four-year-old girl who demanded that Mrs. Alvis tell Tommy "to stop throwing snowballs!" The scene followed a frantic 30-minute attempt by the two teachers of the four-year-old set to get boots, mittens, coats and hats on a room full of bouncing youngsters.

Those without mitts went out to play in the snow with borrowed mittens or plastic bags protecting their hands. The not-for-profit center is working with many hand-me-down toys and borrowed equipment for now. Mrs. Alvis said she hopes to add to the center's supplies in time.

One addition to the center will be a homemade mitten tree, with a pair of mittens for each youngster in the program. Women in the First Methodist Church in Palatine are donating the mittens, and the center has received a number of other donations since it opened.

VARIOUS GROUPS in the Presbyterian Church of Palatine, where the center is housed, have donated time and equipment to setting up the center. The rooms for the center have been donated rent-free for the program's first six months of operation. And Pastor Stanley M. Tozer has been mysteriously nicknamed Johnny Cash by the youngsters who greet him during his daily visit.

Until the center has operated for six months, the enrollment will be kept at a 40-children limit, Mrs. Alvis said. Vacancies will be filled as they occur, and parents wishing more information about enrolling their children may contact Palatine Township social worker Ginny Johnson at 358-6700.

Local organizations or individuals desiring information about donating items or entertaining the youngsters may contact Mrs. Alvis at the center by calling 991-1000.

The day care center was organized last winter by Mrs. Johnson and a township-sponsored day care search committee. Township officials are contributing up to $18,000 during the first year to supplement fees for youngsters unable to afford the $25 weekly fee.

Wife-shooting suspect bound to grand jury

Robert Gray, a 42-year-old Rolling Meadows man charged with the attempted murder of his wife in October, was bound over to the Cook County

Grand Jury after a preliminary hearing in Arlington Heights Friday.

No date has been set for the grand jury hearing.

The alleged attempted murder took place Oct. 15 when Gray reportedly tried to shoot his wife with a .22 caliber revolver in the couples' home. One bullet struck the wife, Mary, 40, in the shoulder.

Gray also was charged with failing to have a gun owner's permit.

'Mystery auto' sought as link to rapist

A witness driving a late-model luxury car with black vinyl top and maroon body is being sought by Buffalo Grove police in connection with Saturday's rape of a Schaumburg woman.

The witness's car possibly a Pontiac or a Ford, was one of two that stopped early Saturday on Dundee Road, near Saxton Place in Buffalo Grove, after the Schaumburg woman had run her car off the road.

Woman ticketed after car crash

A 62-year-old Palatine woman was ticketed Sunday for failure to yield at a stop sign after a two-car accident at Palatine Road and Bothwell Street, Palatine.

Camila L. Baez, of 228 N. Middleton Ave., was reportedly driving north on Bothwell Avenue when her auto struck a westbound car driven by Marilyn F. Jouse, 18, of 4722 Arbor Dr., Rolling Meadows.

Both drivers and a passenger in the Jouse auto, Linda Jones, of the Arbor Drive address, were treated and released Sunday at Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights.

Mrs. Baez is scheduled for a Jan. 17 court hearing in the Arlington Heights branch of Cook County Circuit Court.

Police hope the driver of the maroon car will help them get a better description of the rape suspect. The rapist, believed to have been driving a Volkswagen, offered to take the woman, who was bleeding from head injuries, to Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines for treatment. On the way to the hospital, the woman told police, he raped her.

The 36-year-old woman staggered into the hospital at about 3:30 a.m. Saturday, stating the man had attacked her and dropped her off a block from the hospital. She was admitted to the hospital, but released the next day.

Buffalo Grove Police Chief Harry Walsh said yesterday the woman was bleeding so much that she did not get a good look at her attacker. However, Sgt. Arthur Voigt said the man apparently was "pudgy, partially balding, of medium height, and had a double chin."

THE ACCIDENT was reported to police at 2:25 a.m. but in the time it took police to get to the scene, the injured woman had already left in the assailant's car. Because of the amount of blood left at the scene, Voigt called Wheeling and Des Plaines police to intercept the car so the woman could be given first aid by an ambulance crew. The other agencies, however, were unable to locate the car.

Walsh said Cook County Sheriff's Police also are involved in the investigation of the incident. On Sunday, both departments had denied any involvement. "The police are not confused," Walsh said, referring to a news story. "We (the sheriff's department and Buffalo Grove police) were working together on this."

Anyone with information about the incident is urged to call the Buffalo Grove police at 537-4250.

Classes to resume Jan. 7

Energy crisis taking toll— teens get 2 more days off

High School Dist. 214 schools will close Jan. 3 and 4 to cut back on the district's fuel this winter.

The Board of Education agreed on the closing at its meeting last night. The closing was proposed by the district energy conservation committee and representatives of student councils from the district's eight high schools.

The closing will lengthen Christmas vacation by two days since classes were scheduled to resume Thursday, Jan. 3. The extra vacation days will be classified as emergency days and will not be made up at the end of the school year. The district is allowed five emergency days each year by the state.

IN A PRESENTATION to the board last night, student council members said the district would conserve 1,336 gallons of gasoline for buses, 2,000 gallons for automobiles used by students and teachers to commute to school, 1,066 kilowatt hours of electricity and would reduce fuel consumption for heating school buildings by 25 per cent during the two days.

In a written proposal, the students said, "We believe that the board should take this action because it is necessary that the school district assume the position of leadership on this issue. As an agency of local government, the school district should set an example for the community."

Supt. Edward Gilbert, in recommending the closing, said elementary schools in the Dist. 214 area are also considering closing on Jan. 3 and 4. It would be easier for families to plan vacations during the holidays if both the high schools and elementary schools close on the same days, he said.

Elk Grove Township Elementary Dist. 59 and River Trails Elementary Dist. 26 have announced the closing of school on Jan. 3 and 4.

Although teachers and students will not attend school on these days, Dist. 214 employees with 10 and 12-month contracts will be on duty, including administrators, custodians and maintenance workers, said Gilbert.

SPECIAL WORKSHOPS in one of the school buildings will be planned for administrators during the extended vacation period, he said. The board was also expected to consider other energy conservation measures last night, including curtailing activities on Sunday in the schools with the exception of religious services, reassessment for the need of school activities scheduled for Saturdays, and reduction in the number of student field trips.

The board asked Gilbert to consider the closing of school during the winter months as an emergency conservation measure when he and superintendents of the elementary districts plan next year's school calendar.

Schools weigh building plans tomorrow

Plans for a new school building in Palatine-Rolling Meadows School Dist. 15 will be discussed at the school board meeting tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the school district administration center, 505 S. Quentin Rd., Palatine.

A special meeting of the board as a committee of the whole will be held prior to the regular board meeting to go over some of the background for the specifications. This special meeting will also be held at the administration center, beginning at 7:15 p.m. tomorrow.

Plans for the new school include only major ideas for a new school, not specific design proposals, according to Deputy Supt. Joseph Kiszka. "It's not to be confused with design," he said.

KISZKA SAID the specifications will "someday be applied to the construction of a new building." He added that the board will decide where and when this school will be built on the basis of enrollment projections that will also be presented tomorrow night.

Kiszka said he did not know when the board would make a final decision regarding the construction of a new school building.

No referendum will have to be held to approve funds for a new school building because voters in Dist. 15 accepted a $3.5 million referendum in 1971. That vote approved a $1 million expenditure for Palatine Hills Junior High School and the construction of two elementary schools.

NEITHER OF these two elementary schools has been constructed. One was scheduled to open in the fall of 1974 in the western section of the district. The other, scheduled to open in the fall of 1975, was to be located in the northern part of the district. The district presently owns the proposed sites for the two schools.

The discussion of a new school comes two months after the approval of a 4,472 residential development in the western part of the school district called Westbury.

Library growth hinges on city

The inside story

A planned expansion of library facilities in Rolling Meadows may hinge on the amount of money the city can contribute to the library board next year.

The expansion of the present library located on Martin Lane near Meadow Drive would likely take place to the west of what is now a vacant lot site. The acquisition of about 1½ acres of the approximate five-acre site could take place next year, but the purchase will depend on how much, if any, of the cost can be paid for by the city.

The proposal was presented by library board officials last night to members of the city council finance committee. In addition, the library board members asked the committee to consider another subsidy of $15,000 to $17,000 to compensate the library for uncollected taxes which account for about 10 per cent of the library's $160,000 budget.

The library board is a separate taxing body within the city which levies its own tax of 15 cents per $100 assessed valuation. The city in the past has supplemented the library budget to provide for services and facilities which could not otherwise be provided by the library board without a tax referendum.

LAST YEAR the city approved a $58,000 subsidy to the library as part of a three-year pledge for library improvements. The money was used entirely for remodeling within the library. The subsequent two years of the three-year pledge call for a contribution of possibly $100,000 for the purchase of land for expansion next year and the following year of possibly $250,000 for an addition to the present library.

Board member Rodney Dahlin told the committee the library has planned to expand to the west on land presently owned by developer Kimball Hill. Because the cost of the land is not known, Dahlin could not tell the committee the specific amount which the board would be seeking from the city for the land purchase.

He added, however, that at least $15,000 to $17,000 will be requested to make up for delinquent taxes that are not collected for the library.

City officials have projected a surplus of perhaps $400,000 in the city budget by the end of the fiscal year in April. Subsidies for other taxing bodies, such as the library, could come from the surplus upon city council approval.

Running unopposed for reelection are Republicans Carl R. Hansen of Elk Grove Township and Donald L. Totten of Schaumburg Township.

No petitions have yet been filed by Republicans in Wheeling Township, where insurance agent Fred Youkers of Arlington Heights is expected to run without opposition to succeed incumbent Richard A. Cowen, who is retiring from the post.

youngster who accidentally rubbed some of the soap in his eye.

FOR NOW, THE center is operating with four teachers, including administrator Arlene Alvis. The initial problems of organizing and adjusting to the program have apparently been overcome, but qualified substitutes for the teachers in the center are still needed.

"It's shaped up just beautifully. A lot of things were just trial and error, but now we're used to the routine," Mrs. Alvis said. And as for the children, "they have accepted us very well."

Many of the children who come from poor or broken homes have suffered some emotional problems in their young lives.

"I had no idea the need was as great as it is," Mrs. Alvis said. She has worked for the past 12 years as an assistant at Palatine's Flower Garden Nursery School.

Discipline for the preschoolers in the center involves "removing the child from a situation," to a quieter or calmer spot. The overriding policy of teachers in the center, a policy that the children are taught from their first day, is "that they may not hurt anybody, and we're here to be sure nobody hurts them," Mrs. Alvis explained.

DURING ONE morning in the center, the only danger of harm came from an indignant four-year-old girl who demanded that Mrs. Alvis tell Tommy "to stop throwing snowballs!" The scene followed a frantic 30-minute attempt by the two teachers of the four-year-old set to get boots, mittens, coats and hats on a room full of bouncing youngsters.

Those without mitts went out to play in the snow with borrowed mittens or plastic bags protecting their hands. The not-for-profit center is working with many hand-me-down toys and borrowed equipment for now. Mrs. Alvis said she hopes to add to the center's supplies in time.

One addition to the center will be a homemade mitten tree, with a pair of mittens for each youngster in the program. Women in the First Methodist Church in Palatine are donating the mittens, and the center has received a number of other donations since it opened.

VARIOUS GROUPS in the Presbyterian Church of Palatine, where the center is housed, have donated time and equipment to setting up the center. The rooms for the center have been donated rent-free for the program's first six months of operation. And Pastor Stanley M. Tozer has been mysteriously nicknamed Johnny Cash by the youngsters who greet him during his daily visit.

Until the center has operated for six months, the enrollment will be kept at a 40-children limit, Mrs. Alvis said. Vacancies will be filled as they occur, and parents wishing more information about enrolling their children may contact Palatine Township social worker Ginny Johnson at 358-6700.

Local organizations or individuals desiring information about donating items or entertaining the youngsters may contact Mrs. Alvis at the center by calling 991-1030.

The day care center was organized last winter by Mrs. Johnson and a township-sponsored day care search committee. Township officials are contributing up to $18,000 during the first year to supplement fees for youngsters unable to afford the $25 weekly fee.

Council may refund $10,000 to parks

A $10,000 refund to the financially troubled Rolling Meadows Park District may be awarded when the Rolling Meadows City Council meets tonight.

The council is scheduled to vote on a proposal from the finance committee to return to the park district $5,000 in fees already paid to the city for police patrol of the parks and to waive the remaining $5,000 payment due Jan. 1.

The proposal may draw debate among aldermen who apparently are split on the measure.

Ald. Thomas Scanlan (1st) and Ald. William Ahrens (2nd) have already stated they will oppose the plan unless a proviso is attached to it that the park district will begin considering steps to abolish itself to allow the city to take over park and recreational programs.

Scanlan said last week during a police committee meeting efforts should begin to disband the three independent park districts in the city in order to form one city district under city council control.

CURRENTLY THERE are three park districts in the city, the Rolling Meadows Park District which encompasses the majority of the city, the Plum Grove Countryside Park District which serves the Countryside subdivision and the Salt Creek Park district which serves a small area lying between the two other districts.

Three aldermen on the finance committee, which recommended the return of the money, have indicated they will support the measure. They are Aldermen James Huddleston (4th), Kenneth Retzke (5th) and Fredrick Jacobson (5th).

The park district contracted with the city in May to pay $10,000 for city police to provide security at the sports complex and parks. City police have always had the authority to patrol the parks as "ex officio" park officers, but prior to the contract the district had private security agencies providing internal patrol.

DISCLOSURE OF the district's financial straits apparently was made to city officials during a meeting last week between several aldermen, Mayor Roland Meyer and park district officials. During the meeting the park representatives said the recent legal dispute with the Salt Creek Park District over taxing control of an industrial park had unexpectedly drained the park district budget of thousands of dollars.

Retzke told the finance committee last week that refunding the $10,000 policing fee would be a gesture from the city which would immediately help the district's ailing budget.

The city and the park district in the past have been only distantly cordial to one another. City officials — while granting financial support in the past to the library, school districts and now-abolished fire protection district — have consistently refused the same support to the park district.

ALDERMEN HAVE criticized park management in the past. Scanlan and Ahrens last week repeated the charges during the police meeting, with Ahrens at one point charging that the district "doesn't know what it's doing."

along Plum Grove Road and Emerson Avenue on the northwest corner of the city limits.

An ordinance which would abate three minor city taxes from the tax rolls next year is also scheduled to be presented for a first reading.

The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. in the city hall council chambers, 3600 Kirchoff Rd.

Winston Knolls. Present plans call for 400 four-bedroom single-family homes; 4,000 apartments, townhouses and condominiums plus two commercial areas.

MOST OF THE youngsters from Winston Knolls are attending Hunting Ridge

School. But because of overcrowded conditions at the school, the sixth graders are going to Willow Bend and the first graders are being sent to Pleasant Hill.

The addition of a possible more than 1,800 students from the Westbury development, would overstrain existing facilities even more.

Also being discussed at tomorrow's board meeting is the possibility of extending Christmas vacation in order to help the national fuel conservation effort.

Woman ticketed after car crash

A 62-year-old Palatine woman was ticketed Sunday for failure to yield at a stop sign after a two-car accident at Palatine Road and Bothwell Street, Palatine.

Camila L. Baez, of 228 N. Middleton Ave., was reportedly driving north on Bothwell Avenue when her auto struck a westbound car driven by Marilyn F. Jouse, 18, of 4722 Arbor Dr., Rolling Meadows.

Both drivers and a passenger in the Jouse auto, Linda Jones, of the Arbor Drive address, were treated and released Sunday at Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights.

Mrs. Baez is scheduled for a Jan. 17 court hearing in the Arlington Heights branch of Cook County Circuit Court.

Snag develops in annex plans for S&L branch

by NANCY COWGER

A hitch developed last night in steps to approve annexation to Hoffman Estates of the site of a proposed branch of Lincoln Federal Savings and Loan Association of Berwyn.

The village board held a special hearing on the annexation request for five acres of land on the west side of an extension of Gannon Drive and directly north of the municipal building, 1200 N. Gannon.

Village Mgr. George Longmeyer informed officials of Lincoln Federal of several changes he proposed for the pre-annexation agreement.

After Lincoln's attorney, Kenneth Rawson, indicated some might not be acceptable, the village trustees went into a 20-minute executive session. When they reconvened, Mayor Virginia Hayter announced, "several matters still need to be discussed." The hearing was adjourned until 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

While the areas of potential disagreement were not generally revealed, one item did come to light. Longmeyer suggested imposing the village's standard 30-foot setback requirement between Lincoln's property line along Higgins Road and the building. An extension of the building to cover eight drive-in windows is shown on plans as ending just 15 feet from the property line.

VILLAGE TRUSTEES indicated some concern that dropping the setback requirement could set a dangerous precedent, but Lincoln's architect, Larry Duke, said it was impossible to change the plan.

Couples owning two residential homes abutting the Lincoln Federal property questioned Duke on drainage of storm water, outdoor lighting and screening between their homes and the six-story office building which is to be built in the second phase of the site development, within the next five years. They indicated general approval of measures outlined by Duke.

The village must reach a decision on the annexation request and on permitting the six-story building by its meeting next Monday night.

Frank Kinst, Lincoln president and board chairman, explained last night the firm now holds an option on the property which expires Monday. The current owner, Peter John, has indicated he will not extend the option past the end of December, although he has already granted extensions to Monday, because of other land sales he is considering.

YESTERDAY AFTERNOON Kinst explained that John expects to sell major portions of his remaining acreage during 1974 and does not wish to substantially increase his income taxes by permitting the Lincoln Federal transaction to occur in the same calendar year.

The problem is further complicated by regulations of the Federal Home Loan Bank, under which Lincoln Federal is chartered, said Kinst. It must hold an option on a site in order to keep its charter for the Hoffman Estates facility, but it cannot own the land outright until annexation and zoning are approved, he said.

The village is acting quickly on the Lincoln petition. The plan commission recommended approval of the petition Friday night and the zoning board of appeals is to consider the height variation for the six-story structure at 8 p.m. tonight. Longmeyer confirmed the project has "high priority as long as everything is in order." He noted the development could have significant economic impact in the village by providing up to $25 million in loans to area residents.

BRONZED GLASS BUILDINGS will rise at Ill. Rte. 72 last night. Lincoln Federal Savings and Loan Assn. of and Gannon Drive, Hoffman Estates under an annexation and zoning request presented to the village board Berwyn would open the two-story building by Dec. 1, 1974, and the six-story facility within five years.

Schools request federal aid for testing program

Half the money for a $250,000 testing program in Schaumburg Township School Dist. 54 may come from the federal government. The tests would be aimed at telling where students need help and how to give it.

Board members recently approved application to seek federal funds for half the cost of a four-year "program evaluation design" testing program that took district staffers more than two years to draft.

Carl Seltzer, curriculum director, said the district has a 16 per cent chance of getting a federal grant for the testing program.

The district will seek 100 per cent funding of $70,000 the first year, $33,333 or 66 2/3 per cent funding the second year, $18,667 or 33 1/3 per cent the third year and assume the full financial burden the fourth year.

It shows weaknesses in students and teachers and suggests remedies.

Seltzer calls the PED program "diagnostic and prescriptive for both teacher and student."

TALKING ABOUT the necessity for such a program Seltzer noted the district's great concern with the local and national trend of decreasing achievement scores in mathematics and language arts. His report states that exhaustive attempts to isolate reasons for the drop were ineffective.

In the first year the model project will serve just Dist. 54 students. In subsequent years other school districts in the Northwest Educational Cooperative may participate. Non-public schools in the area may also participate.

Principals, consultants, teachers and Seltzer will be involved in the project in advisory and functioning roles. No part of their salaries will be paid from project funds. Project funds will be used to pay a few teachers to develop tests for the project.

Seltzer stressed that board approval to apply for the funding does not guarantee the grant. He said, however, he was very hopeful.

Park district offers teens an alternative

Bored teen-agers who are unable to drive to entertainment spots in Chicago-land will soon have a place to rap, dance and play on Fridays.

The Schaumburg Park District, in conjunction with Schaumburg Township School Dist. 54, will sponsor a junior high program to start sometime in January at Jane Addams Junior High School, 700 S. Springinguth Rd. All junior high school students can become members.

"There's a constant cry for programs for teen-agers," said Paul Derda, park district director.

"It's something we've been wanting to do for a long time," he added. "It's very difficult to program for teen-agers."

THE PROGRAMS will offer an open gym for basketball, volleyball, floor hockey or gymnastics. The cafeteria will be sectioned off for games, rapping and dancing.

Park district officials foresee the possibility of once-a-month events such as trips to concerts, roller skating, skiing or tournaments. Pool table, ping-pong tables, air hockey and soccer games will be available.

Derda said the program would be primarily during the wintertime because the summer is filled with so many programs for the young. He added the junior high-aged students must spend time inside during the winter and are unable to drive to places in Chicago or neighboring suburbs.

"We had a program like this when I was working in Topeka, (Kan.) We had about 400 kids in a night," Derda said.

Membership cards will be issued to students from Frost and Jane Addams junior high schools. Admission will be 50 cents, or $1 if there is a dance with a live band.

USE OF THE membership cards is to assure that persons not of junior high age would use the facilities. The cards would provide a disciplinary process, should a person create trouble.

Four students from the junior high schools will form a council for input for the program.

Park district officials hope to have a supervisory staff with a mix of park employees and teachers.

Sharon Mattioli, recreation assistant, said the open gym would provide recreation for persons not involved in organized sports who want to play basketball or volleyball.

Your Christmas tree needs a holiday drink

by STIRLING MORITA

You might add a little holiday "punch" to your Christmas tree for fire protection, Hoffman Estates Deputy Fire Chief Ed Kalasa advises.

The fireproofing concoction is prepared by thoroughly mixing 10 ounces of Borax powder, eight ounces of boric acid and one gallon of water. If the mix is sprayed on the tree and poured in the basin of the tree stand, it will diminish the chance of a winter-season tragedy, Kalasa says.

"Trees burn so fast and hot. As it (fire) reaches the top, it hits the burning temperature of paint, and the fire will spread from room to room," the deputy chief adds.

The traditional causes of a Christmas tree fire are defective Christmas light wiring or overloaded electrical circuits.

EVEN THOUGH citizens are concerned with the present energy crisis, Kalasa predicts people will still probably use the traditional colored lights on their trees.

He theorizes persons will forego other lighting to preserve the spirit of Christmas in the home. "We may say it in jest

Township to interview road chief candidates

The Schaumburg Township Board of Auditors will meet at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in executive session to interview seven applicants for township road commissioner.

Although road commissioner Ralph Wilkening submitted a resignation from the $5,000 a year elected post in November it has not been accepted by Township Supervisor Vern Laubenstein.

Laubenstein refused to act on the resignation and said he will not accept Wilkening's resignation until a replacement is found.

A spokesman for the board said seven applicants now seek the job. Laubenstein said he will not announce names of those interested.

Two township party hopefuls fail to file petitions

by BOB LAHEY

Two hopeful challengers to party leaders in their suburban townships were absent from the list of candidates who filed nominating petitions for the March 19 primary elections with the Cook County clerk yesterday.

Mising were the names of Kent Kirkwood of Mount Prospect, who hopes to unseat Democratic Township Committeeman William B. Rose in Elk Grove Township, and Anton Valukas of Palatine, challenger to Republican Township Committeeman Bernard E. Pedersen in Palatine Township.

Three contests for the Democratic committeemen's jobs were officially begun in other townships as challengers and incumbents filed their petitions on the first day that filing is allowed.

KIRKWOOD TOLD The Herald yesterday he is still seeking signatures on his nominating petitions and hopes to enter

Regner won't seek treasurer post

State Sen. David J. Regner, R-Mount Prospect, said yesterday he has decided not to enter an election contest against State Treasurer Alan J. Dixon.

Regner was one of several candidates suggested for the contest by Republican State Chairman Don Adams, and he said he had been urged by many "prominent Republicans" to enter the race.

He said, however, that he felt an obligation to finish his four-year term in the Senate, to which he was elected last year after three terms in the House of Representatives.

State Sen. David J. Regner

the contest against Rose before the filing deadline next Monday. Kirkwood said he had encountered "more difficulty than I had hoped" in obtaining the 647 signatures required to place his name on the ballot.

Valukas could not be reached for comment.

Among Democrats, contests are in store for the committeemen's jobs in Wheeling, Palatine and Schaumburg townships.

Wheeling Township Committeeman Donald L. Norman and challenger Nathaniel P. Leighton, both of Arlington Heights, both filed their petitions yesterday. In Schaumburg Township, the contest is between incumbent Committeeman John F. Morrissey and former committeeman William W. Holmes Jr. Palatine Township Committeeman Richard A. Mugalian is being challenged again by Peter J. Gerling, whom Mugalian defeated in 1970 for the post.

TOWNSHIP committeemen are the only officials elected in the primary election, in which the nominees of the two parties are selected for other offices. The committeemen's job is non-salaried.

Three Republicans and one Democrat, in addition to Rose and Pedersen, remain without opposition for reelection as committeemen in Northwest suburban townships.

The only Democrat against whom no challenge has been attempted is Nicholas Blase of Niles in Maine Township. His Republican counterpart, County Commissioner Floyd Fuller of Des Plaines, is also without opposition.

Running unopposed for reelection are Republicans Carl R. Hansen of Elk Grove Township and Donald L. Totten of Schaumburg Township.

No petitions have yet been filed by Republicans in Wheeling Township, where insurance agent Fremd Yonkers of Arlington Heights is expected to run without opposition to succeed incumbent Richard A. Cowen, who is retiring from the post.

Pat Gerlach

It appears that Hoffman Estates soon will have its first savings and loan operation.

But, in connection with the proposal, other firms, not as easily recognized by the public, are taking place.

If all goes according to plan, annexation and zoning of the five-acre parcel that will house the financial complex will have been granted within a 10-day period.

THE PROJECT IS important to the village because of potential economic benefit, and officials say the matter must be settled before Dec. 17 when an option on the property expires.

So, the plan commission met last Friday (it usually meets on Wednesday nights) and unanimously approved recommending the requested annexation and zoning (it usually takes at least two meetings to arrive at a decision on most petitions).

Then, the village board scheduled a 7 p.m. meeting last night (right before the usual 8 p.m. board meeting) to accept the plan commission recommendation for final action next Monday — the day the option expires.

AND TONIGHT, the zoning board will meet to consider a height variance permitting Lincoln Federal to build a six-story building.

Unfortunately residents of the "pie area" between Higgins and Golf roads, some of whom may be within 150 feet of the proposed six-story building, didn't come to the plan commission hearing.

Neither was it expected that homeowners would appear at last night's early village board meeting despite the 7 p.m. starting hour being announced in a legal notice.

BUT MAYBE the homeowners won't object to having a six-story building nearly in their backyards.

"In the minds of many trustees, it has already been decided," a village official said at 3:30 p.m. yesterday.

But a question remains; determining where Hoffman Estates officials will build their track and station for this development it's railroading into town.

SCHAUMBURG'S UNIT school district feasibility study, expected for completion last month, is expected to continue until at least January.

SCHAUMBURG TRUSTEE Ray Kessel has been humming constantly for the past three weeks. It seems somehow to have begun the day his wife, Jeanne, began selling automobiles at a local Mazda dealership.

today — but some kook might put candles on his tree."

Many of the commercial trees are cut down in August or September before the sap runs out from the tree's body, Kalasa says. Many trees are dried out by the time the buyer purchases them. He advises persons buy their trees early and then fireproof them to assure freshness.

Hoffman Estates has not had a bad Christmas tree fire in about 10 years. Kalasa attributes it to the artificial tree boom which started about 10 years ago. But he warns some persons are tiring of the false greenery and are returning to the real thing.

HE ADVISES persons who have had artificial trees and are returning to the natural tree to check the Christmas lights which have not been used in a long time.

"They forget there is danger," he says. He warns Christmas tree trimmers to check wiring for breaks and circuits to prevent electrical overload. He advises keeping trees outside the dryness of the house for as long as possible before setting them up.

Persons should turn off the decoration lights when leaving home, and lights with low voltage should be used, he adds. Persons should be aware of what circuit the lights are plugged into so that a breaker switch could be thrown in case of trouble.

BUT THESE ARE not all the holiday dangers persons should look for. Most of Hoffman Estates fires happen in the winter time — when everyone is inside and furnaces are in constant use.

Kalasa says homeowners should keep combustible items away from the front of a furnace. If the air vent of the furnace becomes blocked, the furnace will suck harder and, a backflash will occur, setting the combustible item on fire, he adds.

"Furnaces have got to be treated with due respect," he says.

He warns that persons should not place unused boxes in the utility room by the furnace. All flammable materials should be kept at a distance from the furnace.

Seek outstanding woman

The Schaumburg Jaycee-ettes are searching for an outstanding woman.

Nominations for the award must be made before Jan. 15. Persons interested in submitting a nomination should contact Mrs. Tim Smith, 222 E. Thorndale, Roselle, 629-4873, or Mrs. John Joyner, 1122 Bradford Ln., Schaumburg, 629-2454.

This is the third year the outstanding woman award will be presented for work in the community.

Christmas show Saturday

The Schaumburg Park District will present its sixth annual Christmas show at 1:30 p.m. Saturday at Jane Addams Jr. High School, 700 Springinguth Rd.

Children from the park district's ballet and cheerleading classes will perform.

Petition for longer school vacation 'to save energy'

High School Dist. 211 students are asking the board of education to conserve fuel this winter by closing school on Jan. 3 and 4.

Fremd High School student Dan Hamilton said yesterday a petition to extend the Christmas holiday for two extra days has been signed by 600 students at Fremd. He said he hopes students in the other four Dist. 211 schools will also sign petitions. Classes are now scheduled to resume Jan. 3.

Hamilton said students will bring the petitions to the next school board meeting Dec. 20. Many of the teachers at Fremd are supporting the student petition, he said, and he hopes parents will also support it.

BY CLOSING school, the district would save about 800 gallons of gasoline a day used for school buses plus electricity and fuel for heating the schools, said Hamilton. He said elementary schools in the Dist. 211 area are considering closing school on Jan. 3 and 4. If Dist. 211 kept its schools open it would hinder families that are planning a vacation during the holidays, he said.

The Palatine-Rolling Meadows elementary Dist. 15 board will consider school closing when it meets tomorrow night. Schaumburg Township School Dist. 54 board members have said they will keep school open on Jan. 3 and 4.

The Dist. 211 students are suggesting that the two days be among the five emergency days allowed by the state each year, or that the district extend the school year for two extra days next summer.

Dist. 211 Supt. Richard Kolze said last week the board would close schools only as a last resort. Cutbacks have been made in the district's use of energy, he said, but the board has placed a high priority on keeping schools open. "The daytime instructional program would be the last thing that's affected," he said.

School lunch menus

The following lunches will be served Wednesday in area schools where a hot lunch program is provided (subject to change without notice):

Dist. 211: Main dish (one choice) braised beef, pizza, wieners in a bun. Vegetable (one choice) whipped potatoes, mixed fruit. Inflation hasn't changed the price of ashes.

But it has changed the price of your home. For example, if you bought a $20,000 home in 1968—today it's worth about $27,000. Don't be left with a costly pile of ashes. See me about a State Farm Homeowners Policy that will cover your home for all it's worth... and keep it that way with automatic inflation coverage.

$23,229 of $29,200 goal

Combined Appeal sets record—but still short

The 1973 Mount Prospect Combined Appeal drive has netted the highest total ever raised — slightly more than $23,000 — but still fell short of its goal.

With the drive officially over, $20,341 in cash and $2,888 in pledges, for a total of $23,229, has been contributed in the combined Mount Prospect-Prospect Heights campaign.

The amount is some $6,000 short of the $29,200 goal, but Harold J. Predovich, president of the combined appeal, said he remains confident that late arriving contributions will put the total over the top.

ALONG WITH the $23,229 raised locally, the 13 organizations which receive funds from the Mount Prospect fund drive will share $77,600 from the Metropolitan Crusade of Mercy drive.

The Metro traditionally splits its intake with affiliated groups. This year, some $36.3 million was raised in the Metropolitan Crusade of Mercy drive.

The 13 local groups that receive money from the combined appeal are: Camp Fire Girls, Clearbrook Center, Girl Scout Council of Northwest Cook County, North Cook County 4-H Club, Northwest Mental Health Association, Northwest Suburban Aid for the Retarded, Northwest Suburban Council of Boy Scouts, Northwest Suburban Day Care Center, Northwest Suburban Homemakers Service, Northwest Suburban YMCA, Salvation Army community counseling center, Salvation Army service unit and USO Chicago. They will be presented checks at the combined appeal's annual meeting Jan. 10 in the Mount Prospect Village Hall.

Residents of Mount Prospect and Prospect Heights have accounted for a substantial portion of the funds raised.

Mount Prospect residents contributed $9,817, about $2,600 more than last year. Some 990 residents participated in the drive, with the average contribution $10.

PROSPECT HEIGHTS residents chipped in $1,761. The average gift there was slightly higher, at $11.50.

A breakdown of the amount raised in other categories: advance gifts, $4,413; professional, $307; business-retail, $1,475;

Village not only one to fail to meet goal

Mount Prospect is not alone in failing to reach its Crusade of Mercy goal. The village shares the distinction with Arlington Heights, Des Plaines and Schaumburg Township.

In Arlington Heights, some $46,000 has been donated toward a $75,000 goal. Des Plaines hasn't done much better — $32,900 toward a goal of $55,000. In Schaumburg Township, $3,300 has been raised toward a goal of $11,000, but that drive will continue through the end of the year.

Other Northwest suburbs, however, have fared better. Goals have been surpassed in the Buffalo Grove-Wheeling campaign, where more than $12,000 was contributed; Elk Grove Village, $12,000; Palatine, $15,000; and Rolling Meadows, $9,000.

The $23,229 raised in Mount Prospect represents 80 per cent of the $29,200 goal, which drive organizer Harold J. Predovich believes can still be met.

Predovich blamed the low total partly on disappointing contributions from professional employees in Mount Prospect. Professionals donated $507 toward a goal of $1,150, with just 17 per cent of the professionals participating in the drive.

PREDOVICH ALSO indicated he was discouraged with the amount contributed by local businesses. Some $1,475 has been donated by businesses, some $408 more than last year. However, the average gift is down from $56 last year to $43 this year.

Predovich said businessmen and professionals may be recruited to serve on the combined appeals' board of directors, in hopes of raising more money from these sectors next year.

"Businesses become important because more and more contributions are made through payroll deductions," he said.

Predovich praised residents for providing about half of the funds raised. Advance gifts — contributions from persons who traditionally donate heavily — also have helped carry the drive, he said.

Last year, $19,334 was raised in the Mount Prospect drive toward a goal of $25,000. Another $1,900 was raised in Prospect Heights, where no goal was established. This year was the first time the two communities have merged their fund drives.

business-finance, $2382; municipal, $223; and schools, $2,400.

over, contributions will still be accepted at Post Office Box 294, Mount Prospect, 60056.

Gift of blood helps resident regain health

by MARCIA KRAMER

Steven Draus wasn't even in much pain. He had gone to the doctor simply for an X-ray, because his leg had been bothering him on and off.

The X-ray pointed up a much more serious problem — the aorta in Draus' heart was swollen almost to the point of bursting.

The 60-year-old Mount Prospect resident was given a dacron tube in place of part of the artery in a 5 1/2-hour operation.

The five pints of blood used in the operation came from the arms of other Mount Prospect residents who don't even know Steven Draus.

The blood was available to Draus at no charge through the Mount Prospect blood replacement program.

As long as 4 per cent of the village's residents — roughly 1,800 persons — donate a pint of blood each, they and all other village residents are entitled to an unlimited supply of blood for a year.

STEVEN DRAUS is just one of several beneficiaries of the blood program, now in its first year.

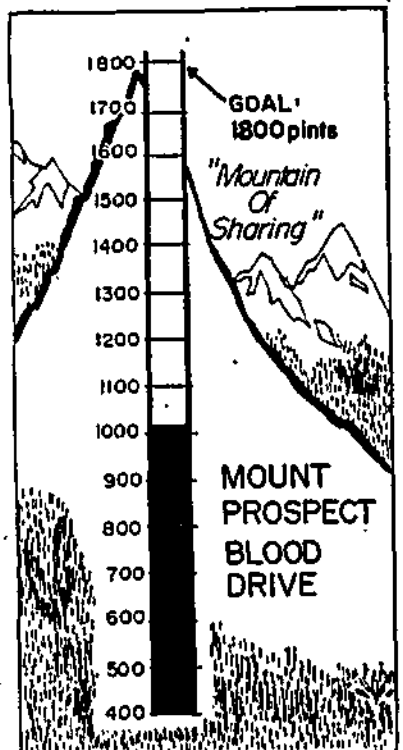

About 21 other Mount Prospect residents have taken advantage of the program, according to Joel Johnson of the North Suburban Blood Center, which is coordinating the blood drive with the Mount Prospect Jaycees.

Together, the recipients have used about 80 pints of blood. A couple went toward an operation on a two-year-old child. Twenty pints were used by a woman being treated for aplastic anemia. Two units were needed by another woman during childbirth.

Johnson, a 28-year-old who has donated blood 29 times, regards blood replacement programs as "shared responsibilities and shared rewards."

"Giving blood is a very fulfilling kind of thing," he said. "It's one of the most vital ways people can demonstrate social

Blood drawing set tomorrow

Mount Prospect residents looking for a chance to perform a good deed during this holiday season can roll up their sleeves and give a pint of blood in the village's blood drive.

The next drawing is scheduled for 5 to 9 p.m. tomorrow at Mount Prospect Country Club, 600 S. See-Gwan Ave., not today as previously reported.

Prospective donors must be at least 18 years of age and in good health. Appointments can be arranged by calling 392-4000 or 956-0320.

Courses offered in most anything

Have you ever wanted to learn how to fence? Or to perform a pirouette? Now's your chance.

The Mount Prospect Park District is offering lessons in fencing, ballet and numerous other fields this winter.

The district's winter schedule includes classes in baton twirling, creative stichery, trampoline and tumbling, yoga, floor hockey and belly dancing as well.

Registration for winter classes will begin at 9 a.m. Dec. 13 at the Lions Park Recreation Center. Doors will open at 8 a.m. Fees must be paid at the time of registration.

One class, boxing, has been added to the list after the winter schedule was printed. It will meet from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. on 10 consecutive Saturdays, beginning Jan. 5, at Lions Park Recreation Center. The class, taught by a former professional fighter, Farouk Hassan of Des Plaines, is geared for boys aged 9 to 14. The fee is $8.

The park district's regular ice skating program is being planned, with its official start dependent on weather conditions.

Ice skating rinks will be available at Emerson, Country Club, Meadows, Lions, High Ridge Knolls, Friendship and Kopp parks, daytime and evenings, and also at Clearwater Park during daylight hours only.

The sled and toboggan hill at Lions Park also will be available.

Teens to get 2 more Yule holidays

by KATHERINE BOYCE

High School Dist. 214 schools will close Jan. 3 and 4 to cut back on the district's fuel this winter.

The Board of Education agreed on the closing at its meeting last night. The closing was proposed by the district energy conservation committee and representatives of student councils from the district's eight high schools.

The closing will lengthen Christmas vacation by two days since classes were scheduled to resume Thursday, Jan. 3. The extra vacation days will be classified as emergency days and will not be made up at the end of the school year. The district is allowed five emergency days each year by the state.

IN A PRESENTATION to the board last night, student council members said the district would conserve 1,336 gallons of gasoline for buses, 2,000 gallons for automobiles used by students and teachers to commute to school, 1,068 kilowatt hours of electricity and would reduce fuel consumption for heating school buildings by 25 per cent during the two days.

In a written proposal, the students said, "We believe that the board should take this action because it is necessary that the school district assume the position of leadership on this issue. As an agency of local government, the school district should set an example for the community."

Supt. Edward Gilbert, in recommending the closing, said elementary schools in the Dist. 214 area are also considering closing on Jan. 3 and 4. It would be easier for families to plan vacations during the holidays if both the high schools and elementary schools close on the same days, he said.

Elk Grove Township Elementary Dist. 59 and River Trails Elementary Dist. 26 have announced the closing of school on Jan. 3 and 4.

Although teachers and students will not attend school on these days, Dist. 214 employees with 10 and 12-month contracts will be on duty, including administrators, custodians and maintenance workers, said Gilbert.

SPECIAL WORKSHOPS in one of the school buildings will be planned for administrators during the extended vacation period, he said. The board was also expected to consider other energy conservation measures last night, including curtailing activities on Sunday in the schools with the exception of religious services, reassessment for the need of school activities scheduled for Saturdays, and reduction in the number of student field trips.

The board asked Gilbert to consider the closing of school during the winter months as an emergency conservation measure when he and superintendents of the elementary districts plan next year's school calendar.

Escapee nabbed after crash

A 16-year-old escapee from St. Charles Training School was arrested by Arlington Heights police Sunday night after a 90 m.p.h. auto chase on Northwest Highway. The facility is a reform school near St. Charles, Ill.

The youth was apprehended when he ran a stolen car into a roadblock set up by the Mount Prospect Police Dept., destroying a police squad.

According to police reports, the youth stole a car in Crystal Lake after escaping from the school. He was reportedly sighted by Arlington Heights police at Northwest Highway and Wilke Road.

Police said they attempted to signal him to stop. He reportedly drove off at high speeds when police activated their Mars lights.

Arlington Heights police contacted

Mount Prospect police, who set up a roadblock at Northwest Highway near Fairview.

Police said when the youth saw the squad cars blocking the road, he turned off his headlights and skidded sideways into one of the cars. The squad car was demolished, police said.

He was charged by Arlington Heights with attempting to elude officers, reckless driving and ignoring traffic signals. He was charged by Mount Prospect with driving too fast for conditions, driving without headlights, driving in violation of license restrictions and damage to village property.

The youth has a Jan. 9 court date in Mount Prospect Circuit Court. He is scheduled to appear in Family Court Jan. 3 on the stolen car charges. He is also scheduled to appear in the Arlington Heights branch of the Circuit Court on Jan. 11 to answer Arlington Heights' charges.

Two township party hopefuls fail to file petitions

by BOB LAHEY

Two hopeful challengers to party leaders in their suburban townships were absent from the list of candidates who filed nominating petitions for the March 19 primary elections with the Cook County clerk yesterday.

Missing were the names of Kent Kirkwood of Mount Prospect, who hopes to unseat Democratic Township Committeeman William B. Rose in Elk Grove Township, and Anton Valukas of Palatine, challenger to Republican Township Committeeman Bernard E. Pedersen in Palatine Township.

Three contests for the Democratic committeemen's jobs were officially begun in other townships as challengers and incumbents filed their petitions on the first day that filing is allowed.

KIRKWOOD TOLD The Herald yesterday he is still seeking signatures on his nominating petitions and hopes to enter

Regner won't seek treasurer post

State Sen. David J. Regner, R-Mount Prospect, said yesterday he has decided not to enter an election contest against State Treasurer Alan J. Dixon.

Regner was one of several candidates suggested for the contest by Republican State Chairman Don Adams, and he said he had been urged by many "prominent Republicans" to enter the race.

He said, however, that he felt an obligation to finish his four-year term in the Senate, to which he was elected last year after three terms in the House of Representatives.

State Sen. David J. Regner

the contest against Rose before the filing deadline next Monday. Kirkwood said he had encountered "more difficulty than I had hoped" in obtaining the 647 signatures required to place his name on the ballot.

Valukas could not be reached for comment.

Among Democrats, contests are in store for the committeemen's jobs in Wheeling, Palatine and Schaumburg townships.

Wheeling Township Committeeman Donald L. Norman and challenger Nathaniel P. Leighton, both of Arlington Heights, both filed their petitions yesterday. In Schaumburg Township, the contest is between incumbent Committeeman John F. Morrissey and former committeeman William W. Holmes Jr. Palatine Township Committeeman Richard A. Mugallan is being challenged again by Peter J. Gerling, whom Mugallan defeated in 1970 for the post.

TOWNSHIP committeemen are the only officials elected in the primary election, in which the nominees of the two parties are selected for other offices. The committeeman's job is non-salaried.

Three Republicans and one Democrat, in addition to Rose and Pedersen, remain without opposition for reelection as committeemen in Northwest suburban townships.

The only Democrat against whom no challenge has been attempted is Nicholas Blase of Niles in Maine Township. His Republican counterpart, County Commissioner Floyd Fulle of Des Plaines, is also without opposition.

Running unopposed for reelection are Republicans Carl R. Hansen of Elk Grove Township and Donald L. Totten of Schaumburg Township.

No petitions have yet been filed by Republicans in Wheeling Township, where insurance agent Fred Yonkers of Arlington Heights is expected to run without opposition to succeed incumbent Richard A. Cowen, who is retiring from the post.

Lil Floros

There was a beautiful wedding in town last Saturday. It was everything a lovely wedding should be. The bride was beautiful. The groom was handsome. There was music and flowers and candles and a photographer and excitement.

The unusual thing about this wedding was that the bride's seven grandchildren and the groom's ten grandchildren and two great grandchildren were present.

The bride was Mae Erickson who has been living with her daughter and son-in-law, Marlys and S. R. Hanland, and their five children at 1420 S. Hickory. Mae also has a son, Gary, with two children in Minnesota. She worked at Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co., before retiring last April.

THE GROOM was Joseph Mazur, who has been living next door to Mae with his daughter and son-in-law, Florence and Joe Menthus, at 1422 S. Hickory. Joseph has four daughters and one son. He has been retired for "quite a while."

Mae and Joe are active members of the Mount Prospect Extensioners. They have known each other for a few years, but last spring on a 12 day trip to New England — sponsored by the Extensioners — they became closer friends.

The wedding was last Saturday at 4 p.m. in the Lutheran Church of Martha and Mary at 606 W. Golf Rd. The bridal couple walked together up the aisle following the pastor, Rev. Joseph Hultstrum. The bride wore a long pale blue dress with silver sparkles on its top and on sheer arm sleeves. The groom wore a dark suit and a red rose.

Attendants were Mae's daughter and Joe's son. The church was filled with close friends, neighbors and relatives.

TRADITIONAL MUSIC such as "I Love You Truly" was included in the organ prelude, and "Because" and the "Lord's Prayer" were sung by Lori Woodruff during the ceremony. Familiar Biblical passages that relate to marriage (It is not good for man to live alone, I will make for him a helpmate) were read.

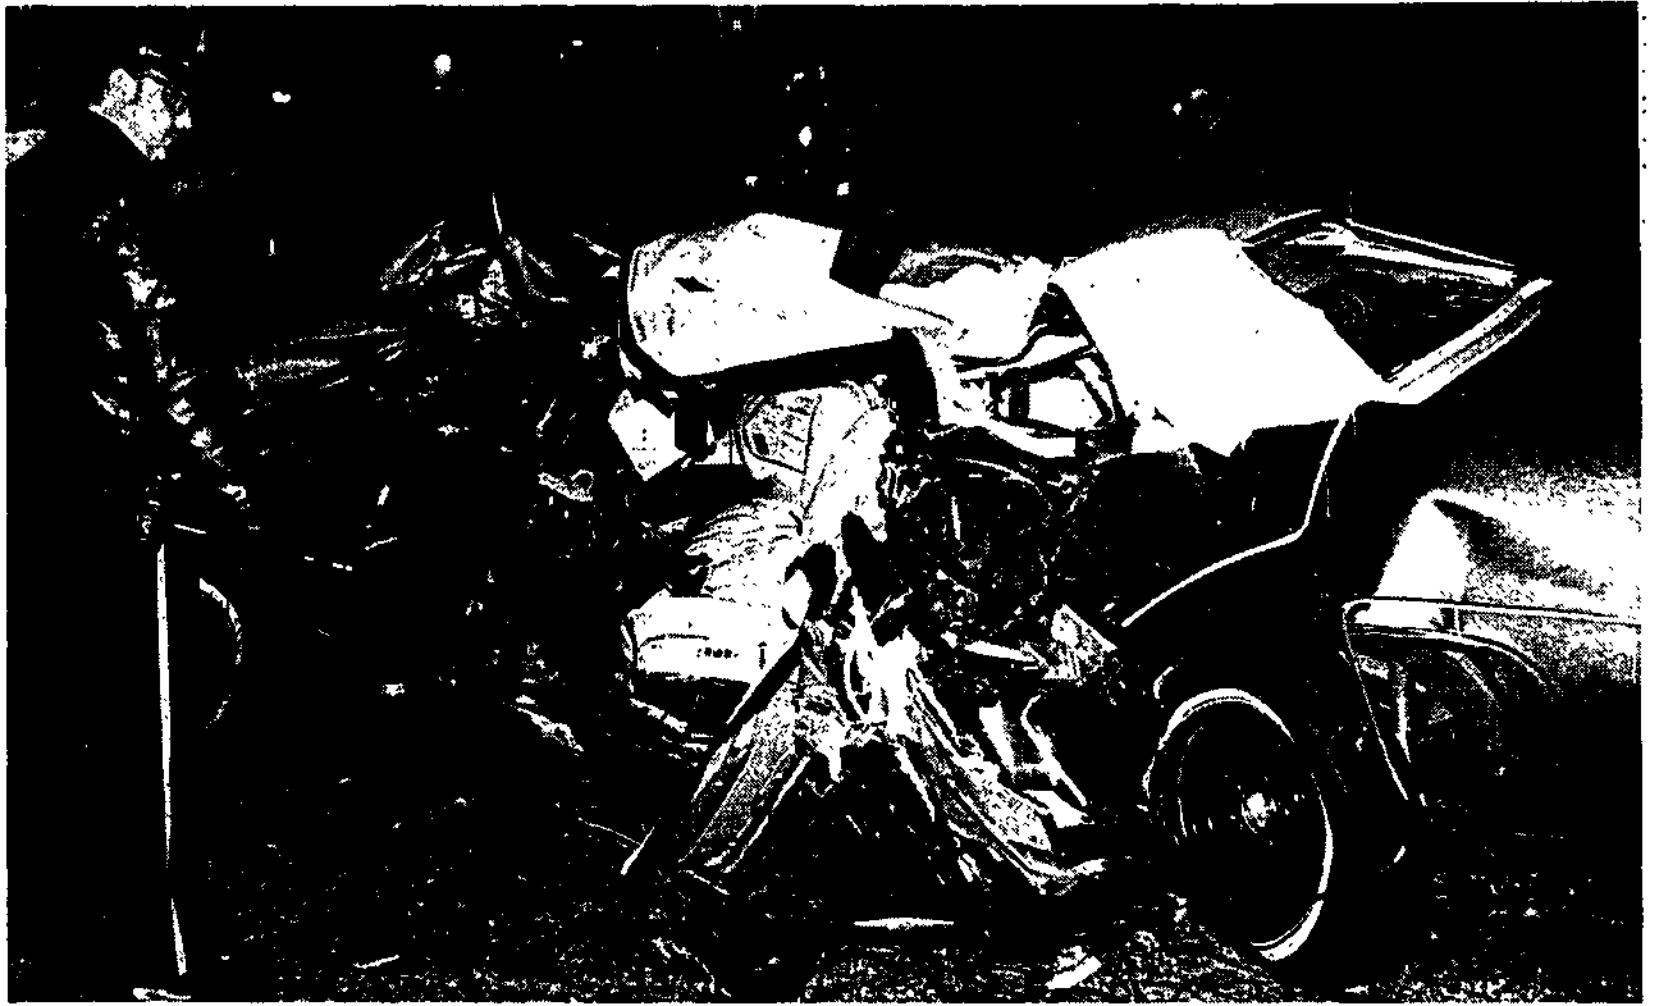

The quiet mature voices of the bride and groom repeated the vows, "I, Joe . . . I, Mae . . . will . . ." They exchanged rings, were declared man and wife, received a benediction, and the groom kissed the bride. As they drove away from the church, their car was heavily decorated with streamers and a "Just Married" sign.

The couple plans no honeymoon at present, but is making a trip to New Orleans in March with the Extensioners and will consider that their delayed honeymoon.

Since Mae and Joe had given up house-keeping while living with their children, they found themselves in the same situation as any young couple planning to be married — looking for an apartment, trying to furnish it. They finally found a suitable apartment and neighbors and friends had a bridal shower for Mae last week to help the couple get started.

May they have many happy golden years together.

Fairview School has a continuous all-day vocal music program today in the multipurpose room of the school at 300 N. Fairview. Parents, friends and neighbors are invited to visit the school at any time to hear the music and to select holiday baked items the PTA will offer for sale.

A DES PLAINES police investigator looks over the wrecked 1974 Cadillac that was struck by a Chicago and North Western Ry. train late Sunday responsibility."

IN DRAUS' CASE, two neighbors donated blood to help replenish the supply after his operation.

In communities without blood programs, a pint costs about $15. An additional $46 to $33 for processing and administrative fees is generally picked up by insurance companies.

Draus' 10-day hospital stay amounted to about $4,000, forcing him and his wife, Louise, to dip into their savings to help pay the portion not covered by insurance.

"They are now enthusiastic backers of blood replacement programs. 'I think it's wonderful,'" Draus said. His wife added: "I'd go give blood anytime to help other people."

Prospect Gardens to pay for sewer, water lines

Residents of the southern section of the Prospect Gardens subdivision in Mount Prospect will pay an average of $3,500 per household for newly installed sewer and water service.

The 16 property owners will share the cost of replacing their wells and septic tanks with village sewer and water lines. Village Engineer Bernard H. R. Hemmeter has estimated the cost per household of $1,462 for the sanitary sewer hook-up. Some $782 of the total is toward the cost of the actual sewer line, and $700 is for disconnecting the septic tank and adding the house to the sewer line.

Total cost of the water line installation is estimated at $39,900. Some $22,500 of that will be paid by the village and the remaining $17,400 by the Prospect Gardens homeowners.

VILLAGE TRUSTEE Richard W. Hendricks, told of the figures during last week's village board meeting, said he believed the village's share is high. "I assumed the homeowners would take the total cost," he said. The village's share will be used mainly in extending a 10-inch water main to Westgate Road.

Village Mgr. Robert J. Eppley said 14 of the 16 property owners in the subdivision have agreed to pay immediately for the sewer hook-up. Each homeowner will then arrange individually to be added to the water system.

The northern section of the subdivision will be added to the sewer and water systems at a later date, Eppley said. He indicated that extension of the sewer system to the northern section would cost each homeowner about $5,000.

The subdivision lies just east of the Mount Prospect Plaza shopping center.

Ice skating season ahead

Sure it's cold outside, but don't bother sharpening those skate blades just yet. Thomas Cooper, director of parks and recreation for the Mount Prospect Park District, estimated yesterday that the ice skating season won't begin until the first of the year.

Frost in the ground and about a week of temperatures between 15 and 25 degrees are needed before the skating ponds can be flooded, he said.

Cooper said the skating season usually lasts about 40 days.

School lunch menus

The following lunches will be served Wednesday in area schools where a hot lunch program is provided (subject to change without notice):

Dist. 211: Main dish (one choice): braised beef, pizza, Wiener in a bun. Vegetable (one choice): whipped potatoes, mixed fruit, salad (one choice): fruit juice, tossed salad, cole slaw, molded gelatin salads. Biscuits, butter and milk. ## 3 youths arrested for drugs, liquor

Three Elk Grove Village youths were arrested Saturday night by Mount Prospect police on alcohol and drug charges after police stopped their car. It was the second such incident of the weekend.

Joseph A. Kolton, 18, of 113 Parkchester, Elk Grove Village, was driving a car stopped for a light at the intersection of Main Street and Northwest Highway, when police allegedly spotted drinking in the car. Kolton was charged with having open liquor in his vehicle and with possession of marijuana.

Also arrested were two passengers, Steve C. Ferguson, 18, of 224 Parkchester, and Laura M. Oates, 18, of 242 Yarmouth, both of Elk Grove Village. Both were charged with possession of alcohol by a minor (under age 19). Police said they confiscated beer in the 10:30 p.m. incident.

About 4 p.m. Friday, Ronald D. Fiedler, 17, of 7 N. Ridge Ave., Mount Prospect, was stopped by Mount Prospect police for driving a car with a noisy exhaust system. Police said Fiedler was charged with having an inadequate exhaust, open liquor in vehicle, possession of liquor by a minor and possession of marijuana. The incident occurred at Maple Street and Sha-Bone Trail.

The three Elk Grove Village youths are to appear Jan. 30 in Mount Prospect branch of Cook County Circuit Court. Fiedler's court date was unavailable.

Energy crisis taking toll— teens get 2 more days off

by KATHERINE BOYCE

High School Dist. 214 schools will close Jan. 3 and 4 to cut back on the district's fuel this winter.

The Board of Education agreed on the closing at its meeting last night. The closing was proposed by the district energy conservation committee and representatives of student councils from the district's eight high schools.

The closing will lengthen Christmas vacation by two days since classes were scheduled to resume Thursday, Jan. 3. The extra vacation days will be classified as emergency days and will not be made up at the end of the school year. The district is allowed five emergency days each year by the state.

IN A PRESENTATION to the board last night, student council members said the district would conserve 1,336 gallons of gasoline for buses, 2,000 gallons for automobiles used by students and teachers to commute to school, 1,066 kilowatt hours of electricity and would reduce fuel consumption for heating, school buildings by 25 per cent during the two days.

In a written proposal, the students said, "We believe that the board should take this action because it is necessary that the school district assume the position of leadership on this issue. As an agency of local government, the school district should set an example for the community."

Supt. Edward Gilbert, in recommending the closing, said elementary schools in the Dist. 214 area are also considering closing on Jan. 3 and 4. It would be easier for families to plan vacations during the holidays if both the high schools and elementary schools close on the same days, he said.

Elk Grove Township Elementary Dist. 59 and River Trails Elementary Dist. 28 have announced the closing of school on Jan. 3 and 4.

Although teachers and students will not attend school on these days, Dist. 214 employees with 10 and 12-month contracts will be on duty, including administrators, custodians and maintenance workers, said Gilbert.

SPECIAL WORKSHOPS in one of the school buildings will be planned for administrators during the extended vacation period, he said. The board was also expected to consider other energy conservation measures last night, including curtailing activities on Sunday in the schools with the exception of religious services, reassessment for the need of school activities scheduled for Saturdays, and reduction in the number of student field trips.

CHRISTMAS BAUBLES bring wonder and excitement to the eyes of young Lorraine Becker as she gazes at one of the many displays of glistening holiday decorations that adorn storefronts and homes this holiday season.

Santa Claus ain't comin' to town

by KURT BAEI

You needn't watch out. Go ahead and try. You can even pout, I'm telling you why. Santa Claus ain't comin' downtown.

Last year, Arlington Heights' Christmas parade was scrapped. This year a decision has been made not to invite Santa Claus downtown, said Earl Johnson, executive director of the Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce.

Instead, the Chamber put its promotional dollars into more electric street decorations — a decision that hindsight and the energy crisis has since called into question.

Even Santa Claus doesn't work cheap in 1973, Johnson says. "It was just too much money for the number of youngsters involved. We decided it could be better spent in other activities."

Last year, Santa was enthroned at the First Arlington National Bank, Dunton Avenue at Campbell Street. This Yule, Saint Nick will be on duty at the Northpoint Shopping Center, Rand and Arlington Heights roads; and Arlington Market, Kensington at Dryden.

"WE BOUGHT THE new decorations and then they cut the power on us. It's going to be kind of a dull Christmas," Johnson said.

Nearly 5,000 people used to turn out for Arlington Heights' annual Christmas parade — usually held in the first part of November.

But the parade, which cost about $5,000, was paid for by contributions from local businesses. And last year, for the first time in five years, there was no holiday procession.

In its place, were hung $2,000 worth of new Italian lanterns to add to the business district's electric sparkle. Electric candlesticks are included in this season's display.

About 90 youngsters whispered their Christmas wish to Santa at Northpoint last Saturday. Beginning Dec. 17, he will be at the shopping center every day through Christmas Eve.

At Arlington Market, the Jolly One will be on call from 4 p.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Friday; 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday, Dec. 15; from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Saturday, Dec. 22; from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. on Sunday, Dec. 23; and from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Christmas Eve.

Escapee nabbed after crashing into squad car

A 16-year-old escapee from St. Charles Training School was arrested by Arlington Heights police Sunday night after a 90 m.p.h. auto chase on Northwest Highway. The facility is a reform school near St. Charles, Ill.

The youth was apprehended when he ran a stolen car into a roadblock set up by the Mount Prospect Police Dept., destroying a police squad.

According to police reports, the youth stole a car in Crystal Lake after escaping from the school. He was reportedly sighted by Arlington Heights police at Northwest Highway and Wilke Road.

Police said they attempted to signal him to stop. He reportedly drove off at high speeds when police activated their Mars lights.

Police chased the youth at speeds in excess of 90 m.p.h. on Northwest Highway. He ran six red lights during the chase, police said.

Arlington Heights police contacted Mount Prospect police, who set up a roadblock at Northwest Highway near Fairview.

Police said when the youth saw the squad cars blocking the road, he turned off his headlights and skidded sideways into one of the cars. The squad car was demolished, police said.

He was charged by Arlington Heights with attempting to elude officers, reckless driving and ignoring traffic signals. He was charged by Mount Prospect with driving too fast for conditions, driving without headlights, driving in violation of license restrictions and damage to village property.

Commerce-industry collections lag

United Fund $29,000 short

Arlington Heights United Fund is nearly $29,000 short of its 1973 objective, with the major shortage in its commerce and industry division.

Reed L. Clark, this year's United Fund chairman, said the campaign is still working towards its $75,000 objective and that "local business is where we have to put the greatest emphasis."

A total of $46,300 has been collected this year.

"The municipal and educational divisions have done a splendid job," Clark said. However, commerce and industry have contributed less than one-fourth of their $19,000 goal.

"I wouldn't want to give anyone the impression that the drive is over. We've got a long way to go," Clark said.

THE UNITED FUND is planning a follow-up mailing to residents who were missed in the door-to-door campaign.

Contributions to the United Fund, which funds a variety of social service organizations, may be made c/o of the Arlington Heights United Fund, P.O. Box 365, or by calling 259-2007 weekday mornings.

The breakdown on contributions received to date is: $24,000 residential; $4,300 commerce and industry; $5,000 municipal; $10,000 educational; and $3,000 professional.

Arlington Heights is not alone in thus far failing to arrive at its 1973 goal. The Village of Mount Prospect is some $5,000 short of its $29,000 objective. Des Plaines has collected $33,000 toward its goal of $55,000 and in Schaumburg Township, $3,300 has been raised toward an $11,000 goal.

OTHER NORTHWEST suburbs have fared better. Goals have been surpassed in the Buffalo Grove-Wheeling campaign, where more than $12,000 was contributed; Elk Grove Village, $12,000; Palatine, $15,000; and Rolling Meadows, $9,000.

In Arlington Heights, where residential contributions are projected to amount to $35,000, nearly half of the total goal, donations thus far are $24,000.

The follow-up mailing is expected to bolster residential contributions. "We're going to keep working until we get closer to our objective," Clark said.

In previous years, differences between the amount collected and the community goal have been made up by the Metropolitan Crusade of Mercy, umbrella organization for the local drives.

Register on Saturday

Arlington Heights Municipal Building will be open for voter registration on Saturday, Jan. 5, 12, 19 and 26, from 8:30 a.m. to noon, in addition to the regular weekday hours.

Village Clerk Ruth Ruff said the deadline for registering voters for the March primary and referendum on the creation of a regional transit authority is Feb. 1.

Selective Service registration and 1974 vehicle sticker sales also will be carried out on the Saturday dates.

Township reports 106 welfare cases

More than $3,500 was spent by Wheeling Township on temporary welfare assistance in November.

The township's public assistance program provides emergency short-term financial aid for residents in need. Usually the residents are those who do not qualify for the various categorical aid programs funded by the state and federal government or those who are waiting to be accepted for other assistance.

The November allocation is the largest this year. The second record spending month was June when Wheeling Township gave $3,141.69 to 23 families in need.

This year, the Wheeling Township Board of Auditors have allocated $51,300 to the general assistance fund. An average of $2,500 is spent each month by the township. Since the beginning of the fiscal year in March, Wheeling Township has spent $22,000 on welfare caring for 106 persons.

Two township party hopefuls fail to file petitions

by BOB LAHEY

Two hopeful challengers to party leaders in their suburban townships were absent from the list of candidates who filed nominating petitions for the March 19 primary elections with the Cook County clerk yesterday.

Missing were the names of Kent Kirkwood of Mount Prospect, who hopes to unseat Democratic Township Committeeman William B. Rose in Elk Grove Township, and Anton Valukas of Palatine, challenger to Republican Township Committeeman Bernard E. Pedersen in Palatine Township.

Three contests for the Democratic committeemen's jobs were officially begun in other townships as challengers and incumbents filed their petitions on the first day that filing is allowed.

KIRKWOOD TOLD The Herald yesterday he is still seeking signatures on his nominating petitions and hopes to enter

Regner won't seek treasurer post

State Sen. David J. Regner, R-Mount Prospect, said yesterday he has decided not to enter an election contest against State Treasurer Alan J. Dixon.

Regner was one of several candidates suggested for the contest by Republican State Chairman Don Adams, and he said he had been urged by many "prominent Republicans" to enter the race.

He said, however, that he felt an obligation to finish his four-year term in the Senate, to which he was elected last year after three terms in the House of Representatives.

State Sen. David J. Regner

the contest against Rose before the filing deadline next Monday. Kirkwood said he had encountered "more difficulty than I had hoped" in obtaining the 647 signatures required to place his name on the ballot.

Valukas could not be reached for comment.

Among Democrats, contests are in store for the committeemen's jobs in Wheeling, Palatine and Schaumburg townships.

Wheeling Township Committeeman Donald L. Norman and challenger Nathaniel P. Leighton, both of Arlington Heights, both filed their petitions yesterday. In Schaumburg Township, the contest is between incumbent Committeeman John F. Morrissey and former committeeman William W. Holmes Jr. Palatine Township Committeeman Richard A. Mugallan is being challenged again by Peter J. Gerling, whom Mugallan defeated in 1970 for the post.

TOWNSHIP committeemen are the only officials elected in the primary election, in which the nominees of the two parties are selected for other offices. The committeeman's job is non-salaried.

Three Republicans and one Democrat, in addition to Rose and Pedersen, remain without opposition for reelection as committeemen in Northwest suburban townships.

The only Democrat against whom no challenge has been attempted is Nicholas Blase of Niles in Maine Township. His Republican counterpart, County Commissioner Floyd Fulle of Des Plaines, is also without opposition.

Running unopposed for reelection are Republicans Carl R. Hansen of Elk Grove Township and Donald L. Totten of Schaumburg Township.

No petitions have yet been filed by Republicans in Wheeling Township, where insurance agent Fred Yonkers of Arlington Heights is expected to run without opposition to succeed incumbent Richard A. Cowen, who is retiring from the post.

A DES PLAINES police investigator looks over the wrecked 1974 Cadillac that was struck by a Chicago and North Western Ry. train late Sunday night. Two people died in the crash after the driver apparently crashed through a crossing gate at River Road and Rand Road and was hit broadside by the train.

Two killed in car-train collision

A man and a woman were killed when their auto was struck by a Chicago and North Western Ry. freight train at River Road near Rand Road. The impact pushed the car nearly one-half mile to Graceland Street.

Both victims were trapped inside the wrecked auto. Des Plaines firefighters were able to free one victim in 15 minutes but needed more than an hour to remove the driver, Lawrence Fronczak, 37, of 641 York Rd., Bensenville, and formerly of Prospect Heights. He was pronounced dead on arrival at Holy Family Hospital.

His passenger, Christine Omasta, 22, of 452 Division in Villa Park, died in Holy Family of multiple fractures at 3:20 a.m. Monday, a few hours after the accident.

Fronczak was an executive with Illinois Switchboard Corp., 135 Fay, in Addison and Mrs. Omasta worked as his secretary.

THE COLLISION occurred at about 11:10 p.m. Sunday while the two were driving southbound on River Road. Fronczak drove through the lowered crossing gates according to reports.

The engineer of the westbound freight told police he saw the auto nearing the crossing but said it failed to slow down, crashed through the gates and was struck broadside by the train.

Des Plaines police Patrolman Mike Banner, on patrol at the time reported watching the train, traveling at 40 mph, carry the auto several hundred feet.

According to reports, firefighters had to use chains to pull the auto's twisted wreckage from the front of the train.

Police said the two victims had been at a party earlier that evening.
